HITLER SAYS GERMANY CAN WHIP RUSSIA

"If Hour Ever Comes," He Tells 50,000 Youths "We Will Conquer in Sign of the Swastika."

BOYS FOLLOW AUTO AND SHOUT "HEIL"

Later He Informs Labor Front Nation Would Be Prosperous If It Had Soviet's Rich Lands.

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 12.—Germany will triumph over Russia, Adolf Hitler said today, "if the hour ever comes" when soldiers of the two nations face each other across a battlefield.

"Let him carry his Soviet star," the German Chancellor told a cheering crowd of 50,000 young Nazis. "We will conquer in the sign of the Swastika."

The reference was to the black and red swastika emblem of Nazi Germany and the five-pointed red star of Russia.

"If the hour ever comes when our old adversary makes an attempt upon us," he told the picked delegations of junior Nazis, "you will be standing beside, behind and before me and will help me fight."

"When I look upon you I realize I have not fought in vain," Hitler told the youths who were brought to the National Socialist convention for "meritorious service to the party.

"You are finer youth than Germany ever had before. You have the good fortune to be witnesses to a great period."

Hitler declared he was "one of the few happy people in the world who personally has experienced" the meaning of comradeship, faith, devotion and sacrifice.

"If We Had" Russian Land.

Later today, Hitler spoke before the Labor Front, and as hundreds of airplanes roared overhead he said Germany would be overwhelmingly prosperous "if we had" the rich agricultural lands and the ore-laden mountains of Soviet Russia.

"If I had the Urals, if we possessed Siberia, if we had the Ukraine, National Socialist Germany would be swimming in surplus prosperity," he declared.

He painted a picture of the plenty which such acquisition would bring in contrast with Germany's present, difficult struggle against the raw material shortage.

Describing the Soviet surplus of land and materials, he declared:

"I am not in the fortunate position of the Soviet Jews. Nevertheless, Germany's problem must be solved. There is no such thing as saying it cannot be done. It can be done because it must be done.

"Germany must live!"

Purchasing Power, Production.

The speech was a plea for patience, fortitude and determination in the task which, he admitted, might require a generation to solve.

"But the nation, thank God, lives longer than one generation," he went on.

He pleaded with the workers to understand that Germany's purchasing power cannot be increased except through an increase in production.

"I could raise your wages to astronomical heights," he said. "With three paper factories, my dear German workmen, I could do it."

Apparently he referred to currency inflation. But, he added: "To really raise your buying power I need 10,000 new German enterprises."

'Providence Rewards Strong.'

In his address to the Young Nazis, Hitler appealed to the boys and girls. To "believe in Providence" which he said, rewards strong, brave, disciplined supporters of the party and the nation.

The uniformed representatives of many millions of other uniformed boys and girls throughout the Reich heard him call them the new Germany—a new and better foundation for a greater and more glorious Fatherland.

"When I think of my own youth, it seems empty compared with yours," said Hitler, the son of an obscure Austrian customs official. "Now the new youth has arisen, filled with a new faith."

At the same time, the Reichschancellor paid tribute to the old guard which struggled with him through the early years of the Nazi movement, "stubbornly clinging to the conviction that Germany must rise again."

Hitler's meeting with the 50,000 youngsters in the stadium—45,000 "Hitler youths," 4000 "Hitler maidens," and 1000 "young folks" (boys 10 to 14 years old)—was an informal and almost an intimate affair, compared with Thursday's colos-

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY MILLER TO PRESS FRAUD INQUIRY AS GRAND JURY ADVISES

Says He Knows Where to Start and Work Will Be Limited Only by Time and Manpower.

A SUMMARY of the proof of fraud in every ward in which the riverfront bond issue carried, according to the certified returns, together with other detailed results of the election, will be found on page 8 of this edition.

The scope of the continuing official investigation into election frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch, which was urgently recommended by the retiring grand jury in its report yesterday, will depend largely on decisions to be made by the new grand jury which will be impaneled Monday by Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood.

Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller, highly complimented in the grand jury report which contained a scathing criticism of the Board of Election Commissioners, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he could not outline, in advance of a conference he would have Monday with the new grand jury, the plan and scope of the investigation it will make.

Another Development.

Another development today was discovery that the Election Board's announcement of registration totals, given to the press shortly after the riverfront bond issue election, greatly exceeded the actual registration in many precincts. Checking of registration figures by a Post-Dispatch reporter disclosed that in two precincts the recorded vote exceeded the registration. This occurred in the celebrated "505 to 0." Fourth Precinct of the Twenty-second Ward—where the vote exceeded the registration by 18; and in the First Precinct of the Eighteenth Ward, recorded as favoring the bond issue by 607 to 5—where the vote was eight more than the registration.

The retiring grand jury's report, which was written by its foreman, John J. Griffin, suggested that the Circuit Attorney's office should devote its time with the incoming grand jury and with later grand juries, to investigation of the 1934 and 1936 primary elections and to the riverfront memorial bond election of a year ago. The Post-Dispatch this week has exposed fraud in every one of the 19 wards in which the riverfront bond issue was approved, and fraud in one ward where the bonds failed of approval.

Miller's Statement.

Circuit Attorney Miller said the report of the grand jury correctly expressed the situation as he saw it.

"I intend to do just that," he told the Post-Dispatch. "What will be taken up first, or just how far the grand jury will go in geographical scope, I cannot tell until after my conference with it and the inquiry gets under way.

"I have a definite idea of where the investigation ought to start and will give the grand jury my opinion on that, but in deference to them, I do not want to express it now.

"Obviously, so much information has been accumulated for the grand jury to investigate that the next grand jury cannot begin to complete the inquiry. That will have to be left to future grand juries.

"Later, from time to time I will attempt to inform the public on how far we will be able to go within the limitations of time and man power."

Suggestion to Finnegan.

The retiring grand jury suggested that future investigation of registration frauds, caused chiefly, the grand jury held, by neglect of election clerks to make a proper canvass of their precincts, should be taken over by Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan, with the co-operation and assistance of the Circuit Attorney's office, and that the Circuit Attorney's office should devote its attention to the more serious offenses of election frauds.

Willful neglect of election clerks to canvass their precincts is a misdemeanor, punishable by a jail or workhouse sentence of 30 to 60 days. During the 17 days the retiring grand jury spent investigating registration and election frauds exposed by the Post-Dispatch, it returned 23 misdemeanor indictments, and seven felony indictments—the felony charges being based on frauds in the last primary election. The misdemeanor cases will be prosecuted by Finnegan in the Court of Criminal Correction.

One of the difficulties of the investigation made by the retiring grand jury, its report pointed out, was that records of the Election Board were not complete. The grand jury was "astounded at the apparently negligent manner in which official records called for by the statutes of the State to be made and kept in the conduct of the Election Commissioners' office were either kept or preserved."

In contrast to this criticism of the election commissioners, the grand jury reported that Circuit Attorney Miller and his assistant, James E. McLaughlin, "worked tirelessly and diligently with us." The "people of St. Louis would be well served and the interests of justice would be met," the report said, "if the Circuit Attorney is allowed to continue his investigation and follow through the campaign in this matter as planned by him in consultation with us."

Evidence of Election Fraud.

If the new grand jury should decide to take up immediately the

REMINGTON RAND ORDERED TO FACE NLRB HEARING

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 12.—United States District Judge John Knight denied today the application of Remington Rand for a permanent injunction restraining the National Labor Relations Board from prosecution of a complaint of unfair labor practices made by striking company employes.

The Judge also dismissed the temporary injunction the company recently obtained and ordered a hearing by the board.

Judge Knight ruled that the constitutionality of the National Labor Relations Act could not be decided in the company's injunction suit.

PENDERGAST COMPLETES TRIP TO KANSAS CITY

Taken to Hospital in Ambulance With Police Escort on Arrival From New York.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.—Thomas A. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic leader, arrived here from New York in a special hospital car last night and was immediately taken to Menorah Hospital.

An escort of police met the train and accompanied the ambulance. Dr. A. Sophian said his patient had stood the trip "remarkably well."

"Mr. Pendergast looked forward to coming home. He has shown a spirit of buoyancy," Dr. Sophian said.

Whether Pendergast will undergo another operation depends on his progress in the next few days, the physician indicated.

Accompanying him today were the Attorney-General and Mrs. Cummings, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Miss Marguerite Lehand, the President's personal secretary, and Miss Grace Tully, his personal stenographer.

GOV. LANDON WILL SPEAK IN MAINE TONIGHT

'Government and Business' Address to End G. O. P. Campaign in Nationally Watched State Election.

HE CONTINUES TALKS FROM SPECIAL TRAIN

Tells Stamford, Conn., Crowd Unemployment Is the Most Urgent Problem Before Country.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD LANDON TRAIN, Sept. 12.—Gov. Alf M. Landon, bound for Portland, Me., where he will speak tonight, pressed his surprise foray into New England today with a strenuous schedule of three-minute speeches in four States. His train was due in Portland at 6:23 p. m.

The Republican presidential nominee will close his party's campaign in Maine's nationally watched State election with a radio address on "Government and Business" at 8 p. m. (Eastern Standard time). The election is Monday.

Ten talks from the rear platform of his special train were scheduled in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine, a stop at Haverhill, Mass., being substituted for one at Sterling Junction in a last minute overnight change.

The Landon train stopped for a few minutes at the Pennsylvania Station in New York. He was greeted by a band and a delegation of Republican leaders who boarded the train. The special left at 8:04 a. m.

Speaks on Jobless Problem.

At Stamford, Conn., the next stop, Landon told a large crowd that "the most urgent problem before the country" was "finding real jobs at the best of good wages" for the unemployed. He defined the task as "restoring to 11,000,000 unemployed fellow citizens their birthright of becoming self-supporting, self-reliant and independent citizens once more."

"There is no future for any American on the relief roll," he said, but added, "until we can restore confidence and speed up recovery we must continue to provide relief for those needing relief."

He also discussed unemployment in brief talks at Bridgeport, New Haven and New London. He reached New London, his last stop before leaving Connecticut, shortly before noon.

The first large group of Eastern visitors boarded Landon's train at Trenton, N. J. It included Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, former Senator Walter E. Edge and 12 other New Jersey Republicans.

Five Stops in Indiana.

Cheered yesterday by crowds at five Indiana stops, Landon again promised "a fighting campaign for good government," and repeatedly stressed "We want a government that will be just and honest, that will protect the average man in his economic rights and his opportunities, and also a government that will not take too much out of his pocketbook.

"Whether you know it or not, you are paying taxes in a thousand ways."

After the arrival at Portland, Landon's train will be shunted to a waterfront street, from where a parade will escort the nominee to the Municipal Athletic Stadium.

Landon will remain over Sunday in Portland as the guest of Senator Frederick Hale. Leaving Maine Monday, he will set out on a return trip ending in Topeka Tuesday night after a two-day series of 19 rear platform speeches in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri.

Gov. Brann Telegraphs Welcome.

Gov. Louis J. Brann, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate in Monday's election, sent the following telegram to Gov. Landon: "I extend to you a very cordial welcome and trust I may have the pleasure of extending to you the gracious welcome of the people of Maine." Brann said he planned to greet the Republican nominee personally.

Brann, in an address last night criticised the donations of wealthy persons to the Republican campaign fund as reported to a Senate Committee this week. He called on Landon to instruct the Republican National treasurer to return J. Pierpont Morgan's $4000 campaign contribution.

Brann secluded himself in the executive mansion at Augusta today, putting the finishing touches to an address to follow Landon's speech

SECOND PLANE ARRIVES IN U. S. FROM AZORES

2800-MILE TRIPS WITHOUT ACCIDENT

Craft Check Accuracy of Flying Weather Maps Made After Four Years of Technical Study.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The German flying boat Aeolus arrived at Port Washington, Manhasset Bay, Long Island, from Bermuda at 1:59 p. m. today, completing the 770-mile leg of a flight from the Azores which started from a catapult ship Thursday night.

The Aeolus circled the harbor, with a convoy of several welcoming planes following, and alighted at 2:02 p. m., 100 yards away from its sister ship, the Zephir.

The ship, which arrived at Bermuda yesterday from the Azores, left its moorings in Hamilton Bay at 7:30 a. m. and taxied through two rock passages to the place of takeoff.

When Capt. Hans Werner von Engel set his 10-ton seaplane down in Long Island Sound today, it had covered 2833 miles since 8:17 p. m. Thursday, when it was catapulted from the base ship, Schwabenland, off the Azores.

The accomplishment is regarded as vital evidence of what transport planes and crews can do in the way of operating on schedule through all kinds of Atlantic weather.

The Aeolus flew 2063 miles yesterday to Bermuda. Its sistership, the Zephir, reached Port Washington, Friday, after a direct flight from the Azores.

Both flying boats checked accuracy of "flying weather maps." Knowing what weather was supposed to lie before them, the commanders logged winds, rain, clouds and fog. The flyers' business was to see merc.y that these ordinary phenomena showed up where the weather maps said they should appear.

The maps were prepared from the evidence of four years of technical studies participated in jointly by Lufthansa, the German flying company, Pan American Airways of the United States, Imperial Airways of Great Britain and Air France, the French airline.

SIR NEVILLE PEARSON SUES TO DIVORCE GLADYS COOPER

English Publisher Starts Proceedings Against Actress Wife; He Names Philip Merivale.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The Daily Mirror says Sir Neville Pearson, British publisher, has instituted divorce proceedings against Gladys Cooper, actress, well known on both the American and English stages, naming Philip Merivale, actor, as co-respondent.

Lady Pearson and Merivale have appeared together.

Gladys Cooper, who is 47 years old, and Merivale played last season in the New York production, "Call It a Day." The English-born actress is Sir Neville Pearson's second wife, and he is her second husband. Her first husband was H. J. Buckmaster. Pearson's first marriage was dissolved in 1928, the year in which he married the actress.

RUSSIA TO HOLD NORWAY RESPONSIBLE FOR TROTZKY

Not Satisfied With Internment of Exile, Soviet Informs Oslo Officials.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—Russia, not satisfied with Norway's internment of the exiled Leon Trotzky, told the Norwegian officials last night that they would be held responsible hereafter for his conduct.

A Soviet communique announced that since Norway had decided to keep Trotzky under police guard the Russian Foreign Minister advised Oslo officials:

"The Soviets find it impossible to recognize the decision of the Norwegian Government as satisfactory and in confirmation with the friendly relations of Norway and the Soviets. According to the opinion of the Soviets, the Norwegian Government by its announcement took on itself all responsibility for the efficiency of measures taken by it and for the results of a further stay of Trotzky in Norway."

ENGLISH DRIVER LOWERS 24-HOUR AUTO SPEED RECORD

By the Associated Press.

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 12.—John Cobb, English driver, established a new 24-hour automobile speed record today and broke a series of minor records along the way.

His unofficial average speed for the long run, on which he was aided by three relief drivers, was 150.1621 miles per hour. The former record, held by his countryman, Capt. George E. T. Eyston, was 149.09 miles per hour.

Cobb started yesterday at 7:25:05 a. m. Necessity of checking times of American Automobile Association officials delayed announcement of his record.

No one has attempted to approach the measured mile record of 301 miles per hour set here last year by Sir Malcolm Campbell.

At a coroner's inquest yesterday. She was the sole survivor of the sightseeing plane accident in which 10 persons were killed last Saturday night. She is 17 years old. She was carried to the hearing because of a leg injury. She testified she did not think the plane's motors had stopped before the crash. The jury decided that the accidental closing of the main gasoline valve and overloading caused the crash. It recommended drastic changes in regulations of the County Airport.

UPHOLDS PENALTIES OF SECURITIES ACT

U. S. Judge at Memphis Says Provisions Are Aimed to Protect Property.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 12.—United States District Judge John D. Martin upheld today the constitutionality of the penal provisions of the 1933 Securities Act. The decision was thought here to be the first on the act's criminal provisions, other opinions having been concerned with civil or equity issues.

Judge Martin's decision overruled demurrers of Benjamin A. Bogy and others, indicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the Securities Act and of using the mails to defraud. The defendants contended the act violated the due process provisions of the fifth amendment, but Judge Martin held it actually carried out the amendment's sections intended to protect property.

"In what manner could Congress have manifested greater concern for the general welfare in the protection of property than in providing criminal punishment for those offenders who would use the mails and instrumentalities of interstate commerce to sell securities to the unwary by 'device, scheme, or artifice to defraud,' or who would obtain money or property by untrue or misleading statements, or by transactions, practices, or business methods operating as fraud or deceit upon purchases of securities?" asked Judge Martin in his opinion.

HANGS SELF IN HOTEL; BRIDE IN NEXT ROOM

John Leighton, Son of Late George Bridge Leighton, Ends Life in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—John Langdon Leighton, 39 years old, socially prominent, was found hanged early today from a bathroom clothes hook in a hotel by his bride of three weeks when she entered from an adjoining bedroom.

Mrs. Leighton pushed open the door when her husband failed to answer her call. When she discovered the body her screams attracted a hotel employe to her assistance. A belt was fastened about Leighton's neck.

Leighton was a son of the late George Bridge Leighton and Mrs. Leighton of Boston and Hempstead, N. Y. He was an Ensign on the staff of Rear Admiral William S. Sims, commander of the American Naval Forces overseas, during the World War.

He was divorced in Reno in 1930 from Mrs. Alice Allen Leighton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Allen of New York City, whom he had married in 1926.

His father, who died at Hempstead in 1929, was president of the Lone Star Shipbuilding Co. and of the Los Angeles Terminal Railways, and was connected with other industries, including the American Steel Foundry Co. He was prominent as an engineer.

Besides his wife, who was Miss Helen Fisher, Leighton is survived by a brother, George E. Leighton, of Fairfield, Conn. Miss Fisher resided at the hotel before her marriage.

Leighton's father was a native of St. Louis and resided here in the 90's and early 1900's, while in the steel business.

BRITISH SOLDIER, 17 ARABS KILLED IN NEW FIGHTING

JERUSALEM, Sept. 12.—(Jewish Telegraphic Agency) — Eighteen more deaths were added yesterday to the toll of Palestine disorders which tomorrow will enter their twenty-second week with no sign of abatement.

Sergeant Sweeney of the British Army and 16 Arabs were killed in an engagement between troops and Arabs on the slopes of Mt. Carmel. One Arab was killed when trying to escape capture during a military raid on the village of Lubya.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Sept. 12.—A detachment of 1700 British soldiers sailed today aboard the troopship Dorsetshire for Palestine.

ULTIMATUM GIVEN TO THE DEFENDERS

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 12.—Government forces abandoned this besieged city to Fascist rebel forces today.

The Fascist columns entered the city and made rapid progress despite the gunfire of retreating militiamen.

The flight of the defenders began after insurgents captured Fort Santa Barbara which commanded all Government positions at the city's gates. Hundreds of militiamen were hastily loaded in trucks.

The Facists thus were in possession of the entire Spanish northeastern coastal sector adjacent to the French frontier. The sector had been fought for since the outset of the civil war because the Fascists wanted a northern coastal rear guard base for armies advancing on Madrid to the south.

Occupation of the sector by Fascists also would prevent any gun-running across the French frontier.

Government defenders of the resort city had previously turned down an ultimatum to drop their defenses under a threat from Gen. Emilio Mola, insurgent commander, to "blow the city to pieces."

Looting of stores had gone on in various sections of the city as Basque Nationalists tried vainly to preserve order. The Basque commanders had said they feared anarchists were gaining control of the Government militia and the city was in danger of being burned.

Devastation of the nearby city of Irun, before its capture by the insurgents, was held responsible for the Fascist refusal to guarantee general amnesty to the loyalists in return for surrender. Gen. Mola has insisted those responsible for Irun's destruction should not escape punishment.

The rebels' ultimatum was distributed yesterday by Fascist flyers who dropped thousands of leaflets into the city. It warned all foreigners and Spanish civilians to leave the territory immediately.

The ultimatum said:

"In order that the Nationalist (Fascist) movement shall not make any innocent victims, we give warning that 48 hours will be allowed for the evacuation of the civil population and the foreigners.

"After that time, if the rebels (the term used by the Fascists to designate the Government defenders) do not surrender, the army remains free to act and to destroy the city at a given command."

The French Consulate was ordered closed by Jean Herbette, the French Ambassador. He cautioned all citizens to evacuate the city yesterday afternoon. A neutral zone was established by the consular corps at La Sarenas, on the sea, where two villas were rented to afford foreigners safety.

REBELS IN TRAP WEST OF TOLEDO

AT HEADQUARTERS OF THE GOVERNMENT FORCES IN CENTRAL SPAIN, NEAR SANTA OLALLA, Sept. 12. — Government militiamen trying to halt the Fascist rebel advance along the road to Toledo continued to fight the insurgents in the Talavera de la Reina sector today.

This is an important phase of the Spanish civil war, as Talavera is 40 miles west of Toledo. Toledo is 50 miles south of Madrid. The rebels have reported recent gains in this sector.

The ninth week of the war began today.

ITALY INCREASES WAR CHEST AND RAISES SALARIES

PUBLIC EMPLOYES GET 8 PCT. RAISES

Communique Says Aim Is to 'Perfect Military Preparations in Certain Periods of Time.'

(Copyright, 1936, by the Associated Press.)

ROME, Sept. 12.—The Cabinet, under direction of Premier Mussolini, voted extraordinary appproprıations today for land, sea and air forces "to proportion our military preparations to the necessities of the international situation."

The Cabinet also approved salary increases, averaging 8 per cent, for 650,000 Government employes and added to the wages of many thousands of provincial and municipal workers.

Mussolini said Italy's campaign for self-sufficiency in raw materials, especially those used for military purposes, has "already given a noteworthy result and will be continued most vigorously."

The General Commission for War Manufactures, he said, controls more than 1000 auxiliary manufacturing plants.

The amount of extraordinary appropriations voted for the armed services was not disclosed. A Cabinet communique said, however, they would "perfect our military preparations in a certain period of time."

The cabinet also approved formation of a permanent colonial army in East Africa. The colonial army will be supported by 150,000 workers, incorporated into the Blackshirt militia.

Germany recently doubled its term of compulsory military service and France bought $910,000,000 in planes, tanks, guns and armored cars.

French statisticians calculated last month European military Powers could send nearly 6,000,000 trained men into battle, if necessary. These figures fixed Germany's strength at 1,365,000, Italy's at 1,250,000, Russia's at 1,200,000 and France's at 654,000.

MAN KILLS WIFE IN ROW AS TWO CHILDREN LOOK ON

Sons, 7 and 3, See Edward E. Martin Cut Mother's Throat at Miami, Fla.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Sept. 12. — Edward E. Martin pleaded guilty today to a murder charge and signed a confession that he killed his wife last night after a quarrel over another man. He was held without bail for the grand jury. His two young sons witnessed the killing.

Investigators found the body of Mrs. Edith Janet Martin, 30 years old, lying on the floor in a nightgown with her throat slashed after Martin, 47, went to headquarters with his sons and surrendered to police. Martin said he killed his wife during a quarrel in which he charged her with having an affair with another man.

He cut her throat, he said, then ran from the house intending to drown himself in the ocean, but changed his mind when he heard the frightened cries of his sons, Kenneth, 7, and Richard, 3, who had been in the bedroom with their parents.

The large stone house in which the Martins lived as caretakers once was the home of Terry R. Druggan, former Chicago gangster.

AMBULANCE SEAPLANE SAFE

Returns to Miami Base After Spending Night on Water.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 12.—A Coast Guard ambulance plane forced down at sea yesterday returned to its base here today. The five men aboard were safe. Trouble with the radio compelled the pilot, Lieutenant-Commander R. L. Raney, to alight on the water and spend the night afloat until it could be repaired.

The seaplane had been the object of a search since it reported last night that it was forced down near Great Abaco Island in the Bahamas. It had gone out in response to a call from the S. S. Alaskan, 200 miles east of Miami, for aid to a stricken seaman.

terday was described by a supporter of the Madrid Government. He said:

"The Fascists attacked furiously. They thought they would find us unawares but we defended ourselves heroically and later opened a counter-attack.

"In a strategic manner, the Government central column retreated while the flanks remained in their positions. The Fascists rushed headlong between the two wings and were caught in a trap.

"Meanwhile, insurgent aviation bombarded our positions. The Government forces withstood the aerial attack until Socialist flyers appeared and the rival fighting planes chased one another like birds of prey.

"Finally, we had dominated the situation. The Fascist flyers disappeared and artillery which had been roaring all day became silent.

"Our backward movement was thought by the Fascists to be a retreat but it was not so. We are maintaining our positions stubbornly. Our troops were reinforced by fresh columns from Toledo and Madrid."

Loyal Officer's Report.

"We are only a mile from Talavera on the south side now," said Gen. Jose Asensio, commander of Government forces in Central Spain, today, "and as we have reached Pepino on the north, the Loyalist line on the main road east of Talavera has taken up an impregnable position."

The overalled commander, bending over a bamboo table covered with maps, denied an insurgent column was marching on Toledo from the south.

Overhead, three Fascist bombing planes, painted black, circled the headquarters village and the nearby territory, dropping bombs in an attempt to destroy the commander's temporary office.

Four small settlements behind the Government lines suffered damage from the insurgent bombs. Four non-combatants were killed by bombs in Torrijos, 12 miles east.

Fighting at Toledo.

In Toledo, opposing groups fought in dark streets and alleys after a Fascist sortie from the fortified Alcazar, where 1500 insurgents and their families have been holding out for eight weeks.

The encounter ended in defeat for the Fascists. They were felled or driven back by Government machine guns.

The Fascist attack was made in an effort to destroy Government workers with pneumatic drills trying to tunnel under the fort to plant dynamite.

A correspondent was caught in the fighting and reached safety in the home of City Councilor Vidal Arroyo.

"You see what they tried to put over on us after we have been expecting they would let their women and children out," Vidal Arroyo exclaimed to me.

"We complied with their request and sent Father Vazquez Camarasa from the Madrid Cathedral into the Alcazar to baptize a new-born baby and pray over their dead. We understood he had persuaded them to set free their families."

The Councilor told how the priest, blindfolded, spent three hours inside the fort. On his return, the priest reported the Fascists had changed their minds about releasing the women and children. When the expected evacuation did not materialize, Government artillery and bombing planes began a new bombardment.

Rebel Cavalry Routs Loyalists After 8000-Foot Mountain Climb

By JOHN T. WHITAKER.
(By Wireless.)

(Copyright, 1936, New York Tribune, Inc.)

REBEL HEADQUARTERS, BURGOS, Spain, Sept. 9 (Delayed by Censor).—The story of the battle of Pico Pass, 5000 feet above a valley which falls gently toward Madrid, was told today by the rebel officer who in this battle staged one of the most daring coups of Spain's civil war.

The insurgent victory at Pico last Sunday, together with the capture yesterday of Arenas de San Pedro, now gives the rebels command of all the passes leading to Madrid, which lies 90 miles east of the insurgent front stretching from the Mediterranean to Irun.

The Pico victory is significant because it shows the value of cavalry, proves the superior initiative and daring of the rebels, and illustrates the essential characteristics of the professional versus the people's army.

Peaks 8000 feet high tower above the highway on either side of Pico Pass, which seemed to block the union of the insurgent armies at Talavera de la Reina and Avila. The Government forces considered their stronghold here impregnable. Behind their two 75-millimeter guns and machine guns, 1000 men and women constructed six wooden huts and a bullring and made themselves comfortable for the winter.

Start of the Climb.

At 11 p. m. on Saturday, however, the insurgents massed six squadrons of cavalry at the base of the mountains, and assigned three squadrons to each of the peaks which the peasants long had considered inaccessible except to mountain goats and Englishmen who climb mountains. The local guides said 1000 horses could never be taken to the summits.

Nevertheless, the commanding officer, whose name is not permitted to be used, attempted the climb with the horses, because he wanted his troops fresh enough to attack after a seven-hour climb, and because he wanted the heavy machine guns and grenades which infantry would have been unable to carry.

When one peak was reached at 6 a. m., the commanding officer dismounted a special unit which carried grenades and crept with the men until he could hear the conversation and the laughter of the loyalists around their field pieces and machine guns.

Signaling with a flashlight to the other three squadrons on the peak across the road and the pass, the commander's grenade throwers attacked the loyalists. Screaming, "The Moors are upon us! They will butcher our women!" the loyalists fled in confusion.

Said the rebel commanding officer: "Most of their dead were killed as they fell over precipitous bluffs in their headlong flight. The bluffs are so steep there that it took us four hours to get our three dead and seven wounded down to the roadway because stretchers were out of the question."

A Ruse That Failed.

After the rout of the loyalists, the rebel commander tried a ruse which failed. He told about it as follows: "I tried the telephone which I found in the Pico Pass huts, and, finding it open, I called the loyalist commander at Mombletran, a Government-held town toward which the Pico Pass defenders were fleeing. 'My comrades are demoralized and deserting,' I told the Mombletran commander. 'Shoot them down!' I tried, but perhaps he was not convinced, because the loyalist commander was onto my game."

Besides 54 cartridge cases and 1200 pounds of shrapnel, the insurgents found phonographs, radios and the apparel of the women who share the front line with the loyalists.

The capture by the rebels of large supplies of munitions at Talavera de la Reina and Arenas de San Pedro was confirmed by a camera man who reported that wagonloads of armaments were taken by the insurgents.

CONGRESSMAN BRENNAN FORFEITS $54 TRAFFIC BOND

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 12.—Bond of $54, posted by Martin Brennan, Democratic Congressman-at-large from Illinois, on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, was forfeited today when he failed to appear before Police Magistrate Louis F. Rittmiller.

Brennan was arrested Thursday night. Patrolman Best Simpson said he observed Brennan driving an erratic course in his automobile, took him to the station and signed the complaint against him.

VIENNA, Sept. 12.—King Edward, prolonging his visit here, went to the opera last night, accompanied by Lady Mendl, American-born interior decorator, sometimes called the world's best-dressed woman.

STATE EMPLOYE CONFESSES STEALING $150 IN STAMPS

H. V. Kelly, son of Former Senator, Held With Two Others by Highway Patrolmen.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 12.—Three men were arrested by the Missouri Highway Patrol here last night on charges of stealing postage stamps from State departments.

H. V. Kelly, 26 years old, a son of former State Senator Lon Kelley of Pineville, in a written confession, said he had stolen between $150 and $200 in stamps from the State Highway Department, where he was employed, and he named Charley Wells, a drug store proprietor, as his accomplice.

STEEL MILL FIRES ORGANIZER

Announces Leader in Union Drive Was Absent from Work.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The discharge of George Patterson, leader of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee in the South Chicago works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, is announced by H. A. Henderson, superintendent of the mills.

Patterson's committee is affiliated with the committee for Industrial Organization. Henderson said Patterson was discharged because he was away from work Wednesday, Sept. 9, without permission. He said Patterson had been guilty of similar infractions of the rules previously.

U. S. STEEL SUBSIDIARY REFUSES PAY INCREASE

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 12.—President Benjamin F. Fairless of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, notified employe representatives today the corporation would not increase wages at the present time.

The statement was made in a four-page letter. Fairless wrote:

"Management is sympathetic with the payment of highest wages which the successful operation of the business will permit. . . . We are regretfully stating, however, that it is our conclusion that a wage increase should not be granted at this time."

Reports had been current for weeks of an expected increase for the more than 100,000 employes of the country's biggest steel producer, leading subsidiary of United States Steel.

Fairless said

"For the first time since 1931, the entire corporation earned a net profit in the initial six months of 1936 of $16,238,727. We are told that operations in the present quarter are holding up and that a profit should result.

"On the other hand, however, as of Aug. 24, with operations at about the same level as in the prior month, incoming orders were 27 per cent below the similar period in July and the backlog of tonnage had decreased 17 per cent."

Referring to the selling price of steel, he declared:

"Management feels that it would be better to permit the uncertainties in the industrial picture to be resolved into facts before steel prices are generally raised to a more representative level."

HITLER SAYS GERMANY CAN WHIP RUSSIA

sal labor corps pageantry in Zeppelin Meadow.

Boys Follow His Car.

Young faces beamed with pride when Hitler, after he had spoken, descended from the rostrum and spent more than a half hour walking through the ranks. He slapped many of them on the shoulders. The members of the Hitler youth movement—there are 6,000,000 enrolled—had come on foot from all parts of the Reich.

As a final fatherly gesture after entering his automobile to depart, Hitler stood in the front seat to greet the packed stands, forming a sloping rim for the shallow stadium bowl.

As the car disappeared through a stadium exit, the whole throng burst into joyous song.

Only about 2000 adult spectators were permitted to view the spectacle.

Proclaims Desire for Peace.

Hitler voiced an appeal "to spare our children what we suffered in the past" in a 20-minute address on peace before thousands of applauding Nazis in Zeppelin Meadow outside the Bavarian capital last night.

He tempered his appeal with this warning: "Let no one imagine our movement can be halted or shaken. We stand inflexible like a rock."

The Nazi denunciation of Bolshevism and Jewry, continued by party leaders during yesterday's convention sessions, was referred to only briefly when the Chancellor declared "we only want peace to proceed with reconstructive work—but with our own methods and not the methods of Jewish Bolshevists."

"Yesterday's clouds have rolled by and the third Reich now occupies a proud and honorable place among nations," Hitler told his audience.

He walked through a gigantic portal to enter the colossal open air cathedral that is the Zeppelin Meadow outside Nurnberg. As he mounted a brilliantly lighted rostrum, he looked down on the caps of 150,000 uniformed Nazis.

Dome of Light.

The entire meadow was an enormous edifice of light encircled by limestone grandstands. Searchlights suddenly flared into a lofty dome of sapphire. The shafts of light converged 3000 feet above the brown-shirted men.

Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, leader of Nazi women, renewed the anti-Bolshevist assault started with Hitler's proclamation opening the convention Tuesday. She urged "patriotic women of all nations—as spiritual mothers of their peoples—to unite in an unwritten but powerful community" against Bolshevism.

$2,000,000 IN BONDS STOLEN; SUSPECT HELD IN NEW YORK

Unclipped Coupon on Securities Offered for Sale Leads to Arrest.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—An unclipped bond coupon was said by police today to have led to the arrest of a man identified as Paul Stern, 39 years old, of New York, in connection with a recent series of bond thefts, amounting to $2,000,000. Stern was accused of possessing four $1000 Louisiana State bonds stolen from the Chicago brokerage house of S. B. Chapin & Co. last February.

Police said Stern attempted to sell the securities to a New York firm which became suspicious after noticing that a coupon payable last June had not been cashed.

Stern told officers he was a baseball bookmaker and that the bonds were given to him as collateral for a bet by a man he knew as Roth.

Grover C. Brown, acting lieutenant of New York police, said he thought one gang was responsible for the thefts of 10 Louisiana bonds from the Chapin Co., $1,500,000 in securities from the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co. in New York in January, 1935, and others from additional New York and Chicago firms and from the United States Trust Co., New York.

TIE WORKERS END STRIKE, ONE OF 5 IN MINNEAPOLIS

10 Plants Employing 500 Men to Be Reopened; Wages and Hours Adjusted.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 12. —One of five strikes here ended late yesterday when members of the United Pole, Post and Tie Workers' Union accepted an agreement for wage and hour adjustments.

Settlement of the strike cleared the way for the reopening of 10 plants employing nearly 500 men. The agreement provided for an increase in the pay of unskilled workmen from 45 to 50 cents an hour, with a scale for skilled labor ranging up to an increase of 10 cents an hour. A 44-hour work week was approved, with time and a half pay for overtime.

The seven members of the Minneapolis Employer-Employe Board, organized a year ago to arbitrate labor disputes, presented their resignations to Mayor Thomas E. Latimer, but he declined to accept them. The board did not explain its action. However, its recent attempts to settle disputes had been unavailing.

British Physician Says Indulgence Increases Errors in Operating Auto 12 Pct.

By the Associated Press.

BLACKPOOL, England, Sept. 12. — Dr. Horace Middleton, Vernon, M. D., M. A., told the British Association for the Advancement of Science of experiments in the effect of alcohol on the behavior of motorists.

He related that the National Institute of Industrial Psychology rigged up a dummy automobile and created artificial conditions approximating road driving.

Then whisky and beer were given to 15 experienced motorists. He reported that mild doses of beer seemed to have little effect. But, indulgence in more than one large drink of whisky reduced by six per cent the time of the driver's reactions. Such indulgence, he said, increased by 12 per cent driving errors.

KILLER OF SIX HANGED AT WALLA WALLA, WASH

In Last Statement, He Tries to Clear Man Serving Life in Another Case.

By the Associated Press.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 12. —Leo Hall, 34 years old, former seminary student, was hanged last night for the fatal shooting and stabbing March 28, 1934, of four men and two women during a robbery.

In sight of the gallows, he had nothing to say for himself but referred to Jack Justice, now serving life in Oregon on a charge of hiring Hall to kill Frank Akin in Portland, Ore., Nov. 20, 1933.

To the 125 death chamber witnesses, Hall spoke firmly: "I would like to say that the Justice they convicted in the Akin case is an entirely innocent man. Jack Justice never hired me or, as far as I know, anybody else to kill Frank Akin. The charge they convicted him on was a bum charge."

Then the black hood was drawn over his head. The trap was sprung at 11 p. m.

Earlier, Hall, whose execution was delayed by two stays almost 24 hours to permit a death cell visit by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, had displayed signs of breaking.

But as the death hour neared, he appeared to lose his nervousness.

"Don't feel badly about it," he told one of his guards when the execution escort arrived. "It's not you that's going. It's me."

The hanging was carried out as Hall's younger brother, Gus Hall, was speeding toward the State capital in attempt to gain a third stay.

A few hours earlier a Federal Court at Spokane refused to intervene.

During his trial at Port Orchard, Hall maintained a calm which broke only once when his co-defendant, Mrs. Peggy Peterson Paulos, took the witness stand for the State and accused him of the Erlands Point killing. She was acquitted after testifying Hall forced her to participate in the robbery.

Lack of Witnesses Almost Holds Up San Quentin Hanging.

By the Associated Press.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Sept. 12.—Bill Sam, 34-year-old Chinese, was hanged at San Quentin prison yesterday for the murder of his wife. His execution was made legal only by the last-minute efforts of police to round up enough witnesses. Only eight witnesses were available. Twelve are required by law. Warden Court Smith asked San Rafael police to round up volunteers, and at the appointed hour they arrived with four. Sam had explained he killed his wife to spare his son the stigma of belonging to estranged parents.

SIXTH HEADLESS BODY IN YEAR FOUND IN CLEVELAND CREEK

Arms Also Missing From Torso of Man Discovered in Waters of Kingsbury Run.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 12. — Police searched the waters of Kingsbury run today for the head and arms or clews to the identity of a headless body discovered in the creek yesterday—the sixth headless body mystery within 12 months. Four of the other bodies also were found in the run.

The only clews to indentification were a blood-stained blue work shirt, wrapped in a newspaper, and a hat. A light automobile with a truck body was reported to have been parked Wednesday night at the culvert where the torso was found.

Police questioned a man reported as "acting queerly," in the vicinity of the place where the body was found. He was arrested last night. Councilman Joseph R. Artl said he would ask the City Council to offer $1000 reward for the killer.

The headless bodies of two men were found last Sept. 23. One later was identified, but no motive for a killing was established. A woman's body, found later, also was identified. The headless bodies of two other men were found, but neither was identified.

BARGE LINE HEAD REJECTS ST. LOUIS STRIKE DEMAND

"WOULD DOUBLE OPERATION COST"

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Although expressing a willingness to use every "conciliatory means" to end the strike of Federal barge line workers at St. Louis, Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways Corporation, said today that he could not accede to the demands of striking stevedores.

"What they are asking is, in effect, a week's wage for a half week's work and we cannot do it," Ashburn said. "It would double our cost of operation at St. Louis.

"If the workers persist in their present demand, I shall have to ignore the strike and arrange to have our stevedoring at St. Louis done on a contract basis as is done in connection with our Chicago operations. That would absolve us of all responsibility."

Labor Conciliator's Report.

Ashburn said that a Department of Labor conciliator, after investigating the basis of the St. Louis strike, had reported that the Waterways Corporation had been fair in its treatment of the men. Dissatisfaction of the workers goes back to President Roosevelt's economy order, according to Ashburn. Although the barge line workers' pay was not cut, they felt some injustice had been done, according to Ashburn. Later they were dissatisfied when on President Roosevelt's ruling they were excluded from the vacation and sick leave privileges extended to other Federal employes.

"They were excluded," Ashburn said, "because they were classed as intermittent employes, paid only for the time they worked. At the time of the strike, which came as a great surprise to me, we were endeavoring to establish many workers on a monthly basis.

Ashburn explained that barge line workers in 1933 established a share-the-work plan whereby twice as many men were employed but each worked only part time. They now demand an hourly rate, according to Ashburn, which would give them the equivalent of a full week's pay.

"We are paying now 44 cents an hour," Ashburn said, "and that is more than private employers are paying for the same type of labor. As a matter of fact, protests have come to me from private employers and particularly from our chief competitor that any rise in our wage scale would jeopardize their business."

Private Company's Protest.

The head of the Waterways Corporation made public a telegram of protest he had received from L. Wade Childress, president of the Mississippi Valley Barge Line, a private company. It reads as follows: "In the settlement of the strike of your dock forces at St. Louis I want to make the appeal that the existing scale of wages be not increased. The basis of my appeal is that the existing wage rates of the Federal Barge Line are higher than is paid by private industry for corresponding classes of labor. Further, if your St. Louis wage rate is increased, corresponding increases will inevitably be made elsewhere. Unquestionably this company would eventually be forced to establish a scale approximating that of the Federal and this would impose upon us a hardship we can ill afford."

"I have told my men in St. Louis," Ashburn said, "to use every conciliatory means possible to explain our position to the workers. I want to be fair. But it would be absolutely impossible to pay a week's wages for three days of work."

199 MORE DRIVERS ARRESTED

$300,000 SUIT FILED AGAINST TWO OVER E.S. BAILEY ESTATE

Alleges Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Erler of Tampa, Fla., Owe That Sum on Pledged Stock.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by George T. Priest, successor administrator of the estate of Mrs. Elizabeth S. Bailey, against Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Erler of Tampa, Fla., for $300,000 based on financial transactions with Mrs. Bailey. Mrs. Erler was a granddaughter of Mrs. Bailey, who died in 1933.

Priest's petition alleges Erler, formerly executor under Mrs. Bailey's will, and his wife, received transfers of various bank stock and other stock in 1930-31 from Mrs. Bailey, which they pledged at the First National Bank in St. Louis as collateral security on loans. The suit sets forth the securities were sold to pay the indebtedness incurred by defendants, but they have not reimbursed the estate. The securities are said to have had a market value of $300,000.

Mrs. Erler was a beneficiary under her grandmother's will, which disposed of an estate inventoried at $329,635. Erler was removed as executor early this year by Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold on the ground he was a non-resident of Missouri. He formerly resided at 12 Wydown terrace, Clayton.

Everett Paul Griffin, attorney for the Erlers, explained that some of the stock had been advancements by Mrs. Bailey with the understanding it would not have to be returned. In addition he said a large part of the loans were obtained on Mrs. Bailey's personal note for her benefit and were sold because they fell below the amount of the indebtedness.

Mrs. Bailey, who resided in Tampa, was the widow of Charles H. Bailey, a real estate dealer of this city. Erler was in Probate Court yesterday to file a settlement.

28 ARRESTED IN AUGUST BY TRAFFIC INSPECTORS

173 More Drivers Given Police Court Summonses; Report Lists Other Activities.

Twenty-eight motorists were arrested and 173 other drivers were given Police Court summonses during August by the 22 traffic inspectors employed by the Department of Streets and Sewers, it was reported yesterday by Frank J. McDevitt, director of the department.

No arrests had been made by the traffic inspectors before Aug. 12, as their instructions had been to merely warn the drivers. The inspectors were ordered to make the arrests Aug. 11, by Mayor Dickmann, in connection with his campaign to reduce the number of automobile accidents in the city.

McDevitt reported also that the inspectors had made 224 investigations for the Drivers' License Bureau; 197 defective traffic signals and warning signs were reported and 11,643 miles of streets were patroled. Of those receiving summonses, 96 motorists paid $282 in fines at the Traffic Bureau and 77 drivers appeared in court, where 25 were fined $77, seven were ordered re-arrested, 14 were discharged, and 14 cases were continued and 17 cases are pending. Of those arrested, 13 paid $58 in fines, seven were discharged and trials for eight drivers are pending.

TWO ROBBERS PLEAD GUILTY ONE SENTENCED TO 10 YEARS

Other Gets 5; They Held Up Taxi Driver, Then Tried to Rob Restaurant.

A sentence of 10 years in the penitentiary was imposed on Albert Johnson, and one of five years in Algoa was given Stewart Harrison, Negroes, on their pleas of guilty to robbery and attempted robbery charges yesterday before Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood.

The men, on Aug. 4, held up Walker Wilson, a taxi-driver, taking $9.50 and his car which was used in the attempt to hold up a restaurant at 4300 North Broadway. Johnson, the younger of the two had previously been convicted.

6-INCH SNAKE GAINING IN FIGHT WITH SPIDER

Makes Progress in Struggle Against Strands of Web in Pastor's Garage.

A death struggle between a young six-inch garden snake and a spider, which began yesterday in the garage of the Rev. J. B. Murrie, pastor of the Washington Park Baptist Church at Washington Park, near East St. Louis, was still in progress today with the snake gaining slightly in its fight for freedom.

The Rev. Mr. Murrie first noticed the two when he went into the garage at noon yesterday for his car. The spider had woven its web from the floor of the garage to the wall, winding most of the strands close to the head of the snake which was trying to extricate itself by wriggling back and forth in the web.

So effectively had the spider worked yesterday that the snake was being raised slowly from floor of the garage until half of its body was supported in the air, making it difficult for the snake to wiggle and fight back.

During the night, however, a number of the supporting strands of the web gave away and the snake was successful in pulling the web down until all its body, except the head, is again on the garage floor. The spider continued its weaving despite the temporary setback and drew the remaining supporting cords together into one. Today other threads had been added until the snake's head is firmly enmeshed in one long cord, which the spider connected to the wall of the garage, about 18 inches from the floor.

At one time yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Murrie told reporters, the snake appeared on the point of freeing itself, but the spider quickly wove a few more strands about the snake's neck and it was more tightly ensnared than before. Several times the snake tried to lash out at the spider with its tongue, but the spider withdrew out of reach.

Just how the snake first became caught in the web could not be determined. The Rev. Mr. Murrie said he thought the snake might have curled up near the wall of the garage and the spider wove the web around it before the snake was aware of what was occurring.

ROOSEVELT PRESENTS MEDAL TO GIRL WHO SAVED 2 BOYS

Kathryn Van Horn, 12, of Ohio, Threw Self in Front of Sled Rushing Toward Train.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Twelve-year-old Kathryn Van Horn of White Cottage, O., received from President Roosevelt today the first gold medal awarded by the Army and Navy Legion of Valor, for her act in saving the lives of two playmates.

The presentation took place in the President's private office in the presence of a group of war heroes who hold the Congressional Medal and Distinguished Service Cross.

The President said one reason he was pleased to bestow the medal on her was that "you come from old Dutch stock, the same as I do." She thanked him and he then gave her a Mickey Mouse toy that had been on his desk for months.

The girl was awarded the medal for throwing herself in front of a sled on which two boys were riding preventing them from crashing into a speeding train.

KILLED IN SWITCHING BUMP

Steve Jaworski, 48-year-old Missouri Pacific Railroad carpenter, 1529A North Jefferson avenue, was killed yesterday when he was thrown from the top of a mail car on which he was working when it was bumped by another car being switched on Missouri Pacific tracks at Ranken avenue.

His skull was fractured.

HEARST WILL CARRY STRIKE CASE TO COURT

Counsel Lays Ground for Such Action in Seattle Hearing on Guild Complaint.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 12. — A statement that Hearst attorneys will go beyond the National Labor Relations Board to courts of law, over the Post-Intelligencer-Newspaper Guild strike, was made before trial Examiner Edwin S. Smith yesterday.

Smith abruptly stopped Edward G. Woods, general counsel for the Hearst newspapers, in his questioning of Charles B. Lindeman, associate publisher of the Post-Intelligencer, regarding strike violence. The examiner said he did not see the connection between the testimony and the dismissal of Frank M. Lynch and Everhardt Armstrong, Guild members, which is the subject of the Guild complaint.

"I say, sir," Woods replied, "and I hope with all due respect, that I had not anticipated that it would impress you, but I think it will impress a court, and eventually I shall get there.

"All I can do here is make my record, and by that record I shall stand, and so will the National Labor Relations Board."

Publisher on Stand.

Woods had been questioning Lindeman about his activities at the time of the calling of the strike in protest against the discharge of Lynch and Armstrong. On his return by plane from San Francisco, Aug. 13, the first day of the strike, he told of driving by the Post-Intelligencer building and seeing the "milling mob" outside.

Woods asked Lindeman: "Is this statement about 10 men brutally beaten by the mob true to your best knowledge?"

Watts objected that the answer must be restricted to what Lindeman knew of his own knowledge.

Smith said he would admit the testimony temporarily to see where it led, despite Watts' objection.

"I saw four of the men who were hurt and obtained the stories from six others," Lindeman testified.

Smith interrupted Lindeman to ask "have any of the assailants been identified?" "No—not definitely," Lindeman said.

Connection With Dismissals.

"Anything connecting this violence with the discharge of Mr. Armstrong and Mr. Lynch?" Smith asked. Lindeman said there was, only insofar as men had been obtained to picket the plant. He said two of those beaten told him men wearing International Longshoremen's Association badges had assaulted them.

Smith turned to the Hearst counsel and said "this line of questioning has led to what I expected." He stopped further testimony along that line.

Woods immediately arose and put his statement about taking the case to court in the record.

Other testimony yesterday had to do largely with establishing that the Post-Intelligencer was engaged in interstate commerce.

Sum Represents Balance Due 1800 Holders of Defaulted First Mortgage Participations.

The Franklin-American Co. is paying $1,165,000 today to about 1800 holders of defaulted first mortgage participations, representing payment in full of the balance due on the pincipal of the participations, which totaled $2,002,000 when the company went into liquidation in April, 1933.

The payment is part of a repurchase agreement, whereby participation holders agree to waive interest from the default date. At that time the holders had agreed to waive payments of principal or interest for five years, or until 1938. Interest on the participations ranged from 4½ to 5½ per cent.

The repurchase was proposed in letters sent by the company to holders last June.

Today's payment represents 55 per cent of the principal of $1,499,289 in "guaranteed" participations issued by the Franklin-American Co. and 67½ per cent of the principal of similar securities issued by the Real Estate Mortgage Trust Co., whose business was taken over by Franklin-American in 1929.

RALPH PIERSON GRANTED THIRD APPEAL IN MURDER

To Present Case to Supreme Court as Poor Person; Three Times Convicted of Charge.

Ralph Pierson, convicted three times of murder for his participation in an arson conspiracy which destroyed the Buckingham Annex Hotel and in which seven persons died, was granted leave by Circuit Judge James M. Douglas yesterday to prosecute his third appeal to the Supreme Court as a poor person. The Buckingham Annex Hotel, of which Pierson was part owner, was burned in 1927.

At the first trial Pierson was sentenced to death, but the case was reversed. Two succeeding trials brought verdicts of life imprisonment from juries. Pierson has been in jail since May 26, the date of the last verdict. He testified yesterday he is without funds to carry on his case further.

F. P. Metzger, Insurance Head, Dies.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 12.—Fred P. Metzgr, president of the American Home Life Insurance Co. for the past 18 years died, from a heart attack here yesterday, two days after his arrival home from a world tour. He was 67 years old.

CITIZENSHIP RESTORED TO HOLDUP KILLER

He Was Released Years Ago on Commutation of Life Sentence.

Full rights of citizenship were restored by Gov. Park yesterday to Samuel A. Cheatham, who shot and killed George J. Wurzburger in a pawnshop holdup at Eighth and Pine streets, Jan. 31, 1912.

Cheatham was released from the Missouri Penitentiary in 1922, after having served less than 10 years of a life sentence, on a commutation granted by Gov. Arthur M. Hyde. The commutation reduced the sentence to the time Cheatham had spent in prison and did not require him to account to the State for his future conduct, as would have been necessary had a parole been granted.

At the time of the murder, the motive for which was robbery, Cheatham was 22 years old and a medical student. His sentence was commuted after letters had been received from the two United States Senators from Florida, two former Senators of that State and five Florida officals. Cheatham's father was a prominent physician at Tallahassee, the capital.

On leaving the prison, where he has said to have given great aid in caring for prisoners during an influenza epidemic, Cheatham married a widow three years his senior, who had posed as his sister when visiting him. He announced he would continue his medical studies in New Jersey.

Petitions for restoration of Cheatham's citizenship were received by Gov. Park from the Governor of Nevada and citizens of that State and of California, where Cheatham has been residing.

Wurzburger was the son of Julius Wurzburger, once an active political figure, who served as an election commissioner and assistant street commissioner. A cuff link bearing the initials "S. A. C.," found in the pawn shop and shown by its records to have been the last article pledged with Wurzburger, led to the arrest of Cheatham, a confession and a plea of guilty.

The citizenship of Clinton Rice Negro, released in 1934 after serving part of a 10-year sentence for robbery from St. Louis, also was restored yesterday.

54TH BLOOD TRANSFUSION IN TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS

James Hedley received yesterday his fifty-fourth blood transfusion in two and one-half years. A sufferer from an unusual form of anemia, known to the medical profession as aplastic anemia, he has survived by this means since the illness first made itself known after a nasal hemorrhage.

A truck driver, he is 24 years old, married and lives at 6109 Lillian avenue. Before his ailment was diagnosed he underwent a number of operations for the removal of boils which occurred because of low resistance due to the condition in the bone marrow which fails to create sufficient red blood corpuscles.

There is no known cure for the malady, physicians said, but it is relieved by frequent blood transfusions—in Hedley's case from three or four pints each five or six weeks—to make up for the deficiency. With this assistance the sufferer is able to carry on a moderate amount of work and otherwise live normally.

Hedley has received his transfusions at Barnes Hospital, obtaining blood without charge from volunteer donors who have learned of his plight and are willing to assist in preserving his life.

WOMAN INJURED BY TRUCK ON ROAD NEAR ST. CLAIR, MO.

Husband Says She Was Struck by Some Object Apparently Extending From Side.

Mrs. Della Hansbrough, 34 years old, was brought to Missouri Baptist Hospital early today with fractured skull and other injuries suffered last night, her husband told police, when she was struck by a truck as she walked beside Highway 66 toward her home near St. Clair, Mo. She had not recovered consciousness.

Her husband, Paul, tavern proprietor, said she was knocked down by some object which apparently protruded from the side of the truck. The driver, presumably unaware of the accident, did not stop. Another truck driver, Hansbrough said, assisted in taking Mrs. Hansbrough to the office of a St. Clair physician, who ordered her removed to the hospital.

Grand Jury Censure of Election Board And Praise of the Circuit Attorney ELECTION BOARD.

"WE had difficulty in obtaining complete records from the office of the Election Board. In many instances there were brought before us incorrect records, which of necessity had to be returned and the correct ones found, if possible. We were astounded at the apparently careless and negligent manner in which official records called for by the statutes of the State to be made and kept in the conduct of the Election Commissioners' office were either kept or preserved.

"We found to our dismay that many such records were missing, many incomplete and many incorrect, and much necessary information not available; with the result that records that should have been of benefit to us in our inquiry were in many instances missing. For example, in only 326 out of the 669 precincts were found the notices required by law, under penalty, to be given at the close of registration by the election judges to the clerks to canvass their precincts, and to be filed in the Election Board's office.

"Our conclusion is that these conditions could not have arisen or continued had proper supervision been given by the board to its employes in the discharge of their duties."

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY

"THIS grand jury at all times had full knowledge of all information in the hands of the Circuit Attorney and he frankly and freely discussed with us all information that came to him, and where evidence or names of witnesses or other information pertaining to a precinct came into his hands it was presented to us as it came and was filed in the folder pertaining to the particular precinct, so that it could be taken up at such time as we should reach the investigation of that particular precinct. This was done so as to prevent lost motion and interruption in our planned campaign.

"Circuit Attorney Miller worked tirelessly and diligently with us from the beginning in the preparation and handling of these cases and, with the help of his competent assistant, Mr. McLaughlin, we proceeded patiently and carefully, precinct by precinct, with our inquiry to obtain the necessary evidence that would enable us to return our findings. The heat during this period was terrific and we were holding daily sessions, both morning and afternoon.

"In fairness to this grand jury and the Circuit Attorney, it should be said that this report has been prepared and dictated in its entirety by the undersigned foreman, with the aid and approval of all the grand jurors, and that no part of it has been prepared or suggested by the Circuit Attorney or any member of his staff. We take this occasion to commend particularly the Circuit Attorney and his staff in the conduct of their office."

CIRCUIT ATTORNEY TO PUSH INQUIRY AS RECOMMENDED

riverfront bond election it will have access to the evidence of fraud gathered by the Post-Dispatch and detailed in news stories which have been published this week.

The Post-Dispatch exposure included the statements of three precinct election officials and of a downtown barber whose shop was a precinct polling place that they had witnessed fraud in the riverfront bond election.

They told of ballots being stuffed in the boxes, and of falsification of precinct returns by omitting to count the "yes" and "no" ballots, but simply determining the total number of all ballots and then making an arbitrary allocation of votes to give the bonds top-heavy majorities.

In addition, this newspaper made a test canvass of certain precincts whose returns suggested on their face that fraud had been perpetrated. Reaching, on the average, only a little more than half of the persons who were registered voters in those precincts a year ago, the Post-Dispatch obtained statements and affidavits from persons who had voted "no" whose number exceeded the total recorded "no" vote for the precinct; or statements and affidavits from persons who were qualified to vote but did not, their number exceeding the number of non-voters as determined by comparison of the precinct's registration and total announced vote.

Twenty-three precincts in which such canvasses were made had a recorded "no" vote of 330 but the canvasses showed that at least 543 had voted "no". Of the 543, affidavits that they had voted "no" were signed by 481. The 62 others, who preferred not to sign affidavits, made statements to the same effect, in the presence of a notary public, and are willing to testify.

MAN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE IN FESTUS DIES OF INJURIES

Henry Herman Succumbs at St. John's Hospital; Hurt Aug. 30.

Henry Herman of Festus, Mo., died yesterday at St. John's Hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 30 when he was struck by an automobile near his home.

It was reported that he was standing on the running board of a parked car when he was struck, suffering a crushed left hip. Herman was about 35 years old.

$64,125 GRANT FOR SEWERS MADE TO M'KNIGHT VILLAGE

PWA also Approves $33,545 for Belle (Mo.) Waterworks and $27,000 for Monroe City School.

Notice of approval of three applications for PWA grants amounting to $124,670 was received today by Harry J. McNerney, acting State director. They represent 45 per cent of the total cost of projects estimated at $277,044.

The applicants and grants were: McKnight Village, sewers, $64,125; Belle (Mo.) waterworks, $33,545; Monroe City school, $27,000.

WARRANT CHARGES YOUTH WITH ATTACKING WOMAN

She and Escort Identify Him as One of Two Who Held Them Up.

Warrants charging Ray Baldwin, 21 years old, 310 North Seventh-third street, East St. Louis, with criminal assault and highway robbery, in connection with a criminal attack on a 21-year-old St. Clair County (Ill.) woman, were issued yesterday by Police Magistrate Dan Foley at East St. Louis.

The young woman and her escort have identified Baldwin as one of two men who held them up when they were driving on the outskirts of East St. Louis Wednesday night, attacked the woman and robbed her escort of $1.

Baldwin denied the charge. The other man is being sought.

CITY WORKERS BARRED AS ELECTION OFFICIALS

Board Says It Accepted None Named on List Cited by Grand Jury.

Members of the Election Board said today there are no public employes among the election judges and clerks. In its report yesterday the grand jury said it had sent to the Election Board a list of names of city employes, most of whom were thought to have served as election officials in the registration of June 18. Missouri law forbids public employes to serve as election officials.

The board members said they had checked this list carefully against the names of the 4020 election officials appointed last week and that no one on the list was appointed. The list, which contained 64 names, was sent by the grand jury to the board for its guidance in making up the new four-year appointments.

In compiling the list as requested by the grand jury, the Comptroller's office obtained the names and addresses of the officials who served in the June registration and checked them against the city's payroll records. Whenever the same or closely similar names appeared on both records, they were placed on the list for the grand jury.

TAVERN PROPRIETOR KILLED BY MAN WHO ESCAPES

Witnesses Say Assailant Fired After Zeno Moore Objected to Blocked Drive.

Zeno Moore, Negro proprietor of a tavern in South Kinloch Park, was fatally shot by another Negro last night, following a disturbance at the tavern. His assailant, who fled after the shooting, was named by other persons in the place and is being sought.

Police were told the man shot Moore after the latter protested against his blocking a drive leading to the tavern grounds. Moore, shot in the right arm, chest and abdomen, died at County Hospital.

Buffalo Papers Raise to 3 Cents.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Buffalo's three daily newspapers announced today they would raise their prices from two cents to three cents a copy, effective Monday. The papers are the Courier-Express, morning, and the News and Times, evening.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Reply to "Disgusted Republican.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"DISGUSTED REPUBLICAN" wrote that, in answer to the appeal of the Election Board for honest judges and clerks of election, 50 good Republican workers had applied in the Twenty-second Ward and had not been appointed because they were not subservient to the ward committeeman and committeewoman, and those whose names appeared as indorsers of the committeeman and committeewoman had been appointed instead.

He apparently does not realize that he has cast a serious reflection on those who were appointed, and he certainly wrote without investigating the facts. Had he done so, he would have found that all of the Republicans who were appointed in the ward are honest and capable, and that of the 63 Republicans who applied and were not appointed, there were 14 who had police records, or had made a poor canvass on June 18, or served in precincts where there had been a poor count in the last primary, or who hold public positions, and 25 who were not qualified because of such things as age, poor handwriting and lack of education, and that a considerable number of these 25 are members of the regular club. He would also have found that of the 105 appointees, some were opposed to the committeeman and committeewoman at the last election; at least 10 are unknown to them, and the names of only 44 appear as indorsers on their campaign literature.

The regular club of the ward is proud of its work for clean elections and will be glad to have the help of "Disgusted Republican" if he will reveal his name.

THE REGULAR REPUBLICAN CLUB OF THE TWENTY-SECOND WARD,
By Alroy S. Phillips, President; John H. Nolde, Secretary.

Mrs. Elias Michael.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE read over and over your editorial paying just tribute to a lifelong friend of humanity, Mrs. Elias Michael, in which you so tenderly eulogize her many kindly qualities and sweet life devoted to the help of unfortunates, irrespective of race, creed or color.

Your editorial shines in splendor in words of gratitude more than granite shafts or marble columns in the appreciative hearts of the host of mourning friends of Mrs. Elias Michael.

A Reply to Mr. Lippmann.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER reading Walter Lippmann's article, "The Voter's Choice," once, and then again, one is still puzzled at what he means by government of national union.

Mr. Lippmann is quite right, if a bit naive, about the Roosevelt administration being conducted without the counsel of certain elements of both parties. Does he mean to tell us that Al Smith or Jim Reed or Raskob would have fitted in? As for the bankers and business men, they ran the show for 12 years, and the electorate in 1932 wanted no more of them than of Moses, Watson and Smoot.

Mr. Lippmann fails to tell us just how a Landon regime will differ from Hoover's or the previous Republican administrations. The claim that Landon approves most of the New Deal measures is a rather weak reason for voting Roosevelt out and Landon in. And when and how has Mr. Lippmann discovered that Landon is a big enough man for the job?

Mr. Lippmann is privileged, of course, to swing as far to the right as his convictions may dictate. Perhaps a swing in that direction may benefit us all, but many of us will need a bit more enlightening—even if only in promises—on just how Landon proposes to improve on the Democrats before following Mr. Lippmann.

EL KREY.

Complaint From North St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAPPEN to be one of those people who live in North St. Louis, near St. Louis avenue, in a district formerly served by the Natural Bridge street car line. The service on this line was fairly good except when the weather was bad, but now it has been eliminated and we are supposed to have good bus service.

When the St. Louis avenue bus line was started, we were led to believe, by the little pamphlet issued by the street car company, that the busses would run about two and one-half or three minutes apart during the "rush" hours and every five minutes later on. The truth of the matter is that there are only a very few busses on the line, and they run at least 15 minutes apart during the busy time. I, myself, have waited 12 minutes and then have finally taken a service car so I would get downtown on time. If this continues, the service cars in North St. Louis will do a rushing business.

FOR BETTER SERVICE.

What About Kiddie Cars?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I NOTICED that all bicycles must be licensed or owners will face arrest.

This is an injustice to our children, especially those who use their bikes to go to school. Many a child would be unable to attend high school if he had to pay carfare or walk the distance that some must go. I would suggest that they include kiddie cars, sidewalk scooters, coaster wagons and all others, so our License Collector could raise a few more dollars.

A FATHER.

GOV. PARK AND THE ELECTION BOARD.

What is Gov. Park's pleasure about the St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners? For more than a month, a request for the removal of these officials, appointed by Gov. Park and removable by him, has lain on the Governor's desk as unfinished business.

Since the request was made, based upon the wholesale frauds in the June 18 registration, another election scandal of major proportions has been disclosed in connection with the Jefferson Memorial bond issue vote of September, 1935.

The evidence of the unfitness of the Election Commissioners, charged by law with the duty of preserving the sanctity of the ballot, is now mountain-high.

A board whose laxity has borne the evil fruit of registration padding and of corruption in the bond issue election has been permitted to go ahead with the business of conducting the general registration this month. This registration will be the basis for the elections of the next four years, including the presidential election in November and the mayoralty election next spring.

Why is Gov. Park marking time? What is he waiting for?

Following the request for the board's removal made by a citizens' committee, the League of Women Voters, Chairman Dalton of the Republican State Committee, Chairman Pape of the Republican City Committee, former Chairman English of the Democratic City Committee, and others, Gov. Park announced that he was going to make his own investigation. He did so.

What did the investigation show? Did it convict the Election Commissioners of unfitness or not?

The Governor has been questioned repeatedly as to when he expects to make a decision on this vital matter.

On Aug. 22, he said his decision would be made before Sept. 4, by which date it was necessary to appoint new election judges and clerks.

On Aug. 25, he said the announcement of his decision would be in "plenty of time" before Sept. 4.

On Aug. 29, he said there would be no announcement that day or the next.

Two days later, the Governor, interviewed in St. Louis, said: "I'm hoping to announce a decision in the Election Board matter soon, but I have nothing to say now."

Sept. 4 came and went, and still no word from the Governor.

Meanwhile, the discredited board has made the important selection of judges and clerks and is going ahead with its plans for conducting the general registration, Sept. 21-24.

Well may the people of St. Louis be apprehensive of the result.

Gov. Park bears a grave and peculiar responsibility for what has happened in St. Louis. He chose the men who have monumentally failed in their public trust. Only he can remove them. He can do so summarily, if he desires, without a hearing. Unlike the case of elective officials, the public is helpless. It can accomplish their removal not directly, but only through the Governor.

The appointment of officials such as the Election Commissioners is one of the most important duties the Governor of this State performs. It ranks above the power of pardon, which involves individuals, because the Board of Election Commissioners, by its control of elections, has in its hands the political destiny of a city of more than 800,000 persons.

Whatever reasons motivated the Governor in the appointment of Messrs. Waechter, Hannauer, Wagner and Moore, those reasons have now been invalidated. They have been invalidated by the Election Commissioners' own re-canvass, showing 46,252 "not found" names on its "revised and corrected" lists; by the probe of the grand jury, resulting in 32 indictments; by the facts amassed by the Post-Dispatch.

Gov. Park's failure to act arouses the fear that the corruption of the past will now be projected into the future.

What the Governor should do with the "unfinished business" on his desk is crystal-clear. If he has been waiting for the verdict of the grand jury, he has it now. It is a scathing criticism of the board that the grand jury has written. The jury was "astounded" at the "apparently careless and negligent manner" in which the board kept its records; the jury in many cases was furnished with incorrect records; it found to its "dismay" that many records were missing. So runs in part the damning charge.

Our conclusion (says the grand jury) is that these conditions could not have arisen or continued had proper supervision been given by the board to its employes in the discharge of their duties.

What is now the Governor's pleasure?

"A SEA OF TROUBLES."

What was it Commander Foch said in that eleventh-hour communique?—

My left wing is shattered, my right demoralized, my center retreating. From here on, I take the offensive.

"Exactly my latitude and longitude," whispered Skipper Frisch of the Cardinal trireme, as he scanned the reeling September horizon.

A CREDIT FOR WARREN G. HARDING.

Publication of the nineteenth volume of the Dictionary of American Biography, which contains an article on the late Oscar W. Underwood, discloses the fact that the late President Harding offered the Alabama Senator a seat on the Supreme Court. The author of the sketch of Underwood, Virginius Dabney, editorial writer for the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch, gives private information from Underwood's family as authority for this announcement. Underwood declined the Supreme Court seat, so Dabney explains, for the reason that "such a position was not congenial to his temperament."

This disclosure is significant for at least two reasons. First, Underwood was a Southern Democrat and Harding was a Northern Republican. It would not have been the first time that a President elected by one political party had appointed a member of the other major party to a Supreme Court seat, but such occurrences have been infrequent enough to be noteworthy. In inviting Underwood to be a Supreme Court member, Harding was following the example of William Howard Taft, who promoted Justice Edward Douglass White, Democrat, of Louisiana, to the chief justiceship in 1910 and then filled the vacancy caused by White's elevation with a Democrat from Georgia, Joseph Rucker Lamar.

Second, this news merits widespread attention for the reason that the late President Harding was severely criticised for the character of many of his appointments to high office. The general opinion has been that on all too many occasions he placed too much faith in men into whose qualifications he had not inquired sufficiently. His offer of a Supreme Court seat to Oscar W. Underwood, a man of high ability and unquestioned integrity, reveals Harding in a more favorable light on this score. It is an item in the record of Harding which his biographers and estimators will need to take into account.

WANTED: A REAL POLITICAL BAROMETER.

The hoary old slogan, "As Maine goes, so goes the nation," is still a political battle cry, but it was exploded years ago by those skeptics who went by statistics rather than sentiment. Today, it holds equal standing among the informed with the theory that a horse hair will turn into a snake when put in water, and the belief that the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, killed at midnight, has peculiar luck-bringing virtues.

So a barometer with some dependability is being sought by the wiseacres, and the Baltimore Sun, planning a straw vote to include every voter in Maryland, puts forth the Free State as that reliable guide. But Maryland's record isn't perfect. Its sponsors assert that the nation has gone as the State went in all the 13 presidential elections since 1884, but they are forced, for the sake of accuracy, to add "except once." That occasion was in 1888, when Maryland favored Cleveland by a 6000 majority, but the nation elected Harrison.

Now comes Democratic Chairman Farley with his discovery of an honest weather vane. The slogan ought to be "As Alaska goes, so goes the nation," he says. In the last 30 years, that Territory has accurately shown how the political wind was blowing in the States, he adds. But again an exception must be taken. In 1912, Alaska voted Republican, but Wilson won the national election.

All the political barometers so far brought to notice have proved false prophets. If someone can find an infallible state, or an ever-reliable county, or even an accurate ward or precinct, he would be performing a national service. Think how much postage the Literary Digest could save if it had to poll only a section rather than the whole country! And think how the stress and strain of national campaigns would be diminished when the people got the returns from that faultless barometer!

AMUSING, EH WHAT?

The chap was obviously blotto when the bobbies picked him up for drunken driving and it looked as if he were doomed to a certain trip to London Tower, or wherever it is they incarcerate offenders against His Majesty's traffic laws. In court, they gave him the tongue-twister test: "The Leith police conveneth us" and "The Leith police dismisseth us." It is hardly necessary to look upon the wine when it is red to flunk that one, but the blighter went through it as mellifluously as Mr. Roosevelt intoning, "My friends."

And then this paragon turned upon his accusers and asked them to repeat the first stanza of Lewis Carroll's "Jabberwocky," which is full of words like "mimsy" and "brillig" and "gyre." He recited it himself, without a slip. It floored them, by Jove, and the Court, marveling at his impeccable performance, turned him loose to swagger or stagger from the courtroom. Reprehensible, these persons who go on benders, but this one was an amusing cove, eh what?

IN THE GREEN PASTURES.

The young Democrats who organized the seven-state political rally at Charlotte, N. C., invited the voters to "gather in the Green Pastures and make the Solid South more solid for Roosevelt." Seizing the opportunity created by this figurative reference to their section, the President, guest of honor at the occasion, took as the text of his address the familiar phrases of the Twenty-third Psalm, "the green pastures and the still waters."

Those beautiful and hallowed words strike an instant chord of response and appreciation in everyone who knows the Bible or the English language. Mr. Roosevelt made full use of the appeal they held for all his hearers and his readers, and skillfully wove the words into an eloquent address.

After his pleasant greetings to his audience, and after his generalities, the President's speech became a political address. From this aspect, it rose to no great heights, doubtless because Mr. Roosevelt chose not to mention his opponents or the criticisms of his policies, but merely to enumerate some of the items of progress claimed under his administration. Taking this line, the speech necessarily lacked the dynamic qualities of conflict and of denunciation, in which the President has also shown himself to be adept.

The best that may be said of the address is that it was a typically able one, smooth in rhetoric, pleasant in delivery, reassuring to his hearers. The worst that may be said of it is that it met no issues, assumed the attitude that all's well with the country and took little or no notice of tasks remaining unattempted or uncompleted. These criticisms may perhaps be met by the explanation that the President's speech was delivered in the house of his friends, where few critics are heard, and that replies to specific attacks may be expected in addresses in the doubtful states.

WHEN NAZIS QUOTE THE BIBLE.

The devil, it is said, can quote Scripture for his own purposes. The Nazis, though opposed to the Bible and established religion, and favoring their own peculiar pagan cult, quote Scripture when an appropriate passage can be found. Their latest propaganda in the Austrian Tyrol, the New York Times reports, is to paint large swastikas on mountain sides, with the inscription, "Daniel, Chapter 2, Verse 44." Referring to the text, the observer finds it to predict God's creation of a kingdom "which shall never be destroyed, and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever." This, in the Nazi view, is a perfect description of the German state.

Church authorities insist, however, that a previous verse, the thirty-ninth, is a more pointed allusion. This speaks of a "third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth." Since Nazi Germany calls itself the Third Reich, the point is well taken. The Biblical third kingdom, it is written, shall be succeeded by a "fourth kingdom, strong as iron" that "breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things."

In their tourney of Bible-quoting, it would seem that the Nazis have been vanquished by the clergy.

Norman Thomas says he cannot see just how Mr. Lamke is going to pull all those beautiful rabbits out of his hat. Nobody can see it. The Lemke hand is quicker than the eye. Magic, sheer magic, that's all.

GOV. PARK IS STILL CONSIDERING THE SITUATION.

Boom and Bust

Prediction of Gifford Pinchot in 1913, that timber supply would be exhausted by heedless exploitation, has been realized in many areas, Federal forester says; tells of ghost towns in Missouri, once thriving but in decay since trees are gone; "boom and bust" policy causes unemployment, poverty and social demoralization.

F. A. Silcox, Chief of Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Country Home; Reprinted from Reader's Digest.

GIFFORD PINCHOT, first chief of the United States Forest Service, once told a group of Western lumbermen that if they continued cutting timber as fast as they had been cutting it, their forests would be cleaned out in 30 years.

"Mr. Pinchot," replied the leader of the group, "there is enough timber tributary to our mills to keep them going for seven generations."

That was 23 years ago. Today, the timber is gone, the mills are closed, 1500 workers are scattered.

This is not an isolated case. All over this country are scenes of desolation—ghost towns which once were flourishing; vast areas of denuded, eroded and burned-over land which once were rich forests.

Fifty years ago, Wayne County, Mo., was a paradise of virgin short-leaf pine, interspersed with valuable mixed hardwoods. In Greenville, the county seat, the largest sawmill in the South began operations. Three churches were built, and a four-year high school. Agriculture boomed along with the lumber company. The market for fresh foods was large. Horses used in the woods operations needed much hay. For a time, Greenville and the farms nearby prospered.

Today, one small sawmill, running about two-thirds of the time, handles all the lumber output of the county. Greenville has dropped from 2000 to 700 population. Farmers have lost their market and, by erosion, much of their soil. Real estate values, both farm and city, have dropped 50 per cent. Many of the upland farms have been abandoned.

More startling is the fate of another Missouri town—Upilika. It was the center of rich stands of virgin short-leaf pine. One company alone cut 20,000 acres of timber. Another cut 10,000. Upilika, at the height of its prosperity, had a population of more than 1200. The town of Upilika now consists of one farmhouse.

In 1885, logging started on a big scale around Washburn, Wis., and the town grew, almost overnight, to a population of 6000. By 1896, several mills were cutting 600,000 board feet a day. More than 50 lumber boats were often in the bay at one time.

But by 1900, the seemingly inexhaustible forests were gone, and when, in 1903, the du Pont company wanted a desert site for a powder factory, it chose a spot five miles from Washburn. The "inexhaustible" supply of white pine was desert enough.

The company that built Fullerton, La., spent about $3,000,000. It built two big sawmills. It operated a big department store and drug store, a modern hospital and an up-to-date hotel. It built bakeries, dairies, picture theaters, barber shops. It built an electric light plant to provide current not only for lighting the town, but for power in the mills and for heating. It installed sewers, telephones, lights and water. It built a fine high school, churches, lodge halls, a dance pavilion, baseball diamonds.

Today, the company employs nobody in Fullerton. Only one small building is still standing there. The company's property in the town is worth perhaps $200.

A few months ago, I visited Fullerton and stood in front of the steel vault which once had been part of the bank. Suddenly, the vault door was pushed open from the inside and an old colored man came out. The vault was his home.

When the East's supply of timber began to run low, the great Northwest was opened up. Columbia County, Ore., for instance, on the Columbia River, had 400,000 acres of dense, coniferous timber, mostly Douglas fir. Boom towns grew up, mills went full blast. If operations continue at the same rate as the average for 13 years ending Jan. 1, 1934, Columbia County's timber will last six more years.

These tragic towns are the result of a lumbering policy of boom and bust. In their train have followed unemployment, poverty and social demoralization.

But there has been good forestry as well as bad. Cloquet, Minn., Fargo, Ga., and Crossett, Ark., are examples of sound, permanent and busy lumber towns, prospering because their mills are making efficient use of every tree and are raising new crops of trees to replace those destroyed. In a word, they are farming their forests, not mining them.

A Fairer Tax

From the Pittsburgh Press.

THE Democratic National Committee asks "Is Gov. Landon going to lower the income tax exemption to $750 for single men and $1500 for married men, as he has in Kansas?"

Having long advocated a broadened base for our Federal income tax, as a means of raising enough revenue to make possible the repeal of hidden Federal sales and nuisance taxes, we find it interesting to compare the taxes which people would pay under such lowered exemptions with their taxes under the present system.

Omitting corporation levies, which can hardly be traced satisfactorily to the individuals who ultimately pay them, our present Federal taxes include the direct tax on incomes of single persons who get more than $1000 a year and married couples who get more than $2500, and such indirect sales and nuisance excises as the taxes on cigarettes, liquor, matches, gasoline, motor oil, etc.

In computing the hidden taxes, we arbitrarily assume, what in the main cannot be disputed, that individuals with low income smoke about as many cigarettes, quaff about as many steins of beer and as many highballs and strike about as many matches as do individuals with larger incomes. We also arbitrarily assume that married couples with less than $2000 income own no automobiles, but that those with $2000 and above own automobiles, and pay hidden Federal taxes on gasoline, motor oil, tires, etc.

For the purpose of this comparison, we lump together all these hidden levies and the existing income tax, in a column headed "Present Federal Taxes." In another column, headed "Substitute Federal Taxes," we compute what the income tax would be with the exemption lowered to $1500 for married couples, assuming, again arbitrarily, that the hidden excises would be repealed. To avoid confusion, we leave out single persons, and make the computations applicable to married couples with no dependents. Here goes:

Income	Present Federal Taxes	Substitute Federal Taxes
$1000	$36.16	None
1200	36.16	None
1500	36.16	None
	(At this point income taxes would start)
1800	36.16	$ 4.50
2000	49.13 (adding the auto)	12.00
2500	49.13	30.00
	(At this point income taxes now start.)
3000	57.13	48.00
3500	78.73	69.60
4000	93.13	84.00
5000	129.13	120.00

Thus we find that all married couples with incomes up to $5000 would actually have their Federal tax bills reduced if the exemption on income were lowered to $1500 and sales and nuisance taxes repealed. On incomes above $5000, the figures in the right-hand column would rapidly forge ahead of those in the middle column, with each successive surtax taking a larger bit out of the incomes. Thence would come the substitute revenue, on a strict ability-to-pay basis.

Of course, we do not know whether such a substitute income tax schedule would yield enough revenue to make possible the repeal of all hidden excises. No responsible estimates have been made. But we do know that the yield would be large, and that exemptions of $1500 and $750 would add several million citizens to the income tax rolls. And we do know that these same people, now unfairly assessed under a sales tax system, would, if transferred to an income tax, be dealt with according to capacity to pay. And that is only justice.

The foregoing, of course, is nothing more than academic exercise. Gov. Landon has not proposed any such plan. Nor has any other presidential candidate. We wish one would.

How Britain Is Preparing for Gas

From the Belfast (Northern Ireland) Telegram.

THE home office has now set up an anti-gas school at Falfield, which was opened last April, and 150 instructors have passed through it already, taking first-class certificates. Owing to the demands of the local authorities, it has been decided to double the accommodation of the school at Falfield and open another similar school in the North of England.

It is estimated that one instructor can train a class of 20 men in 12 periods of two hours' training. If each of these men trains others in a like manner, the number trained on this "snowball" system should amount to hundreds of thousands in a comparatively short time.

The home office has ordered 40 mobile "anti-gas" chambers so that each class being trained by an instructor can have a practical demonstration of the use of respirators in one of these chambers. Mr. Lloyd expressed the belief that these respirators or masks are a great improvement on the primitive design and are "100 per cent efficient."

The Government has made arrangements for buying factories, so that mass production of masks may be in operation as soon as possible.

On the whole, it is claimed that no other country has made such thorough preparation for protecting the civil population against the gas-poison danger, which is highly reassuring.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Peace by Will Power

GOV. LANDON on Monday said a few undramatic but very sensible words about peace, and he chose an excellent forum in which to say them: a meeting of the State convention of the American Legion.

The Governor said that intelligent legislation might lessen the danger of being drawn into war, but he added that the only real bulwark against war was the will to peace, willingness to sacrifice short-run profits and willingness also to stifle the natural affections which we hold for the lands of our ancestors.

"We must," he said, "keep our heads."

* * *

Now, all that won't be very satisfactory to those who want guarantees in law that we will never go into another war, or to those who think that in order not to be involved in another war we must reform the world and see that there are no more Fascist dictatorships. But you cannot keep peace and engage in a holy crusade. If anything has been demonstrated in the last months, it is that you cannot be at the same time a pacifist and an international reformer.

The British Labor party has got itself into a most serious dilemma by this confusion of thought. It wanted collective security, with sanctions to enforce peace on the wicked aggressor, and it wanted at the same time British disarmament. The result was that Britain got out on a limb from which she had to retreat with considerable ignominy. And the cause of international peace was certainly ill served.

Now Britain has gone into reverse. She is arming with tremendous speed, while the country goes through a revulsion of feeling, moving to the position that Britain from now on will fight exclusively for British interests. First you had holy crusaders, plus pacifism; now you have armament, plus pacifism. Neither seems a very good combination.

* * *

We have both schools in this country. Our pacifists parade in demonstrations for the Spanish loyalists, although a parade in Manhattan won't help the fighting Spaniards a bit. Our most virulent nationalists urge us on all occasions to avoid entangling alliances, and then plump for vast increases of our armed forces, beyond any possible need for the defense of our own shores or adjacent waters against invasion.

The Roosevelt administration talks about good neighbors, but permits the Governments' spokesman to make on the floor of Congress one of the most incendiary speeches against Japan which has been heard from a responsible public personage for years. And, as Charles Taft pointed out last Sunday, in a speech in Maine, "Although we want peace with Japan and friendship, the President planned that as soon as Japan terminated the naval treaty, he would order the war games at Hawaii and westward."

Our current appropriation for the army and navy is a billion and a quarter dollars, 66 per cent more than it was three years ago. And yet we originated and signed a pact never to use war as an instrument of national policy. There is more militarism in this country at this moment than there has ever before been in peacetime; more money spent for war preparation; greater expansion of military training of civilians, although what in the world we want a big land army for, unless to ship it once again overseas, is something I have never been able to understand.

It would appear from a study of recent history that the way to keep international peace is, first of all, very passionately to desire it; to regard it as a moral value in itself; to confine one's Galahading to the soil of one's own country, where one has duties as a citizen, and to be quite clear that, although we may loathe and hate dictatorship, our sole business is to keep it off American soil. In other words, clearly to define what our business is and then mind it.

When the President (according to Mr. Krock) was considering a peace conference of world statesmen, he evidently planned to invite only statesmen from countries which have recently been involved in war and which may soon be involved again. He might have planned to invite the representatives of some of the countries who stayed out of the last war and ask them how they did it. Holland, for instance. For that country has a right to talk about peace.

Holland gave up war a great many years ago. She had had a lot of wars, and she had lost most of them, and apparently it dawned upon all Dutchmen, who are very practical men, that wars don't pay. Holland seems to have decided by an almost unanimous attitude of mind that it is cheaper to buy what one wants than to fight for it.

Holland didn't go in much for pacifism. She went in for peace. In 1910, when the premonition of war was hanging over Europe, Holland decided to fortify the mouth of the Scheldt River. There was an international outcry. The Entente contended that it had the right to use the Dutch part of the Scheldt in case of a German threat to Antwerp.

Holland fortified, and sent her Ambassadors to Brussels and Paris to make clear that she was fortifying for reasons of peace, in order in the future to allow Germany no pretext for possible intervention.

As a result of this move, the German General Staff rearranged its plan of operation in case of war with France. Von Moltke's memoirs reveal that the original Von Schlieffen plan contemplated the violation of both Belgium and Holland.

* * *

Holland built a crack army, and, when the war broke out, mobilized it and kept it mobilized at great expense during the entire hostilities. It was perfectly clear that anyone who invaded Holland would not have an easy time of it, small though the country was. But having done this, Holland took more blows on the chin, more insults to national pride, more interference and more suffering than is easily imaginable.

She was between two fires. Her economic prosperity was bound up with that of Germany. Most individuals in Holland were not neutral in their feelings. For one thing, the Boer War was not yet forgotten. On the other hand, Dutchmen did not like German militarism, and were outraged at the violation of Belgium.

The Entente and the Alliance both conducted propaganda campaigns in Holland. Britain enforced a blockade against Dutch food ships to Germany; Dutch neutrality, on the other hand, protected Germany's right flank. And the closure of the Scheldt—against which France had protested—prevented Germany from using Antwerp as a submarine base. German and British airplanes both strayed onto Dutch territory. Protests came to Holland from both sides; from Britain, when Holland excluded armed British merchantmen from her harbors; from Britain again when Holland allowed the Germans to transport sand along her waterways for dugouts. Both sides penalized her, and both sides violated her neutrality. London rationed her on the basis of pre-war statistics, and Ludendorff threatened to overrun the country as a result. An ultimatum was actually presented by Germany, but Holland kept cool, and it was withdrawn.

We are told that capitalism and trade conflicts are responsible for wars. Holland is a conservative and highly capitalistic country. She depends for her life on international trade. Four-fifths of her grain supply comes from abroad, and she must import coal and raw materials as well. Her sea-borne trade was strangled.

The Germans laid mines before English ports; the British laid them in the North Sea, and, regardless of the Treaty of London, Britain controlled the trade of neutral states adjacent to Germany, and, finally, in the spring of 1915, did away with all distinctions between legitimate and contraband goods and shut out of Holland everything even suspected of a German destination. Holland's trade, even with her own colonies, was interfered with. Dutch vessels were sunk by German submarines.

And still the obstinate Dutch stayed out of the war.

* * *

And when it was over, they got back to work, and reorganized their laws, extended the social services of the state, rebuilt the country from end to end, abolished slums and added a new rich province to the nation by dumping the sea out of it in one of the most grandiose engineering feats in history. The national pride is in the universities, the art collections, the public parks and beaches, the order, the thrift, the social justice, the tolerance, the gleaming and beflowered windows of a nation without a slum.

* * *

Gov. Landon is right. To maintain peace one must keep one's shirt on and concentrate one's moral crusades where they will do the most good.

A. F. L. REPORTS MANY WORKERS UNDERNOURISHED

Says Only 26 Pct. of Incomes in North Atlantic Cities Meet Adequate Diet Needs.

SEES LITTLE HOPE OF IMPROVEMENT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Reporting "widespread undernourishment" among wage earners, despite an upturn in industrial profits, the American Federation of Labor said today "industry can well afford to increase workers' incomes."

In its monthly survey of business, the federation cited Government statistics to support its charge of "widespread undernourishment' 'among employed workers It also quoted from the findings of the International Labor Office at Geneva that "workers generally are better nourished in Sweden than in the United States."

"This widespread undernourishment among employed wage earners lays a heavy responsibility at the door of the Supreme Court which terminated NRA, the agency through which workers could have kept their incomes rising proportionately with business gains," the federation said.

"Little Hope of Betterment."

Reporting that business activity had been "well sustained" during the summer, and that "the upswing has now gained enough momentum to offset such uncertainties as election prospects, warfare in Europe and crop shortages," the federation asked: "What hope do these good business prospects hold for those who have never had enough to eat? The answer is, on the whole, very little."

The federation based its opinions on the food situation on studies made by the Federal Labor and Agriculture departments.

A study of employed workers' incomes in North Atlantic cities, the federation said, showed that only 26 per cent met the (income) requirements for an adequate diet, while 30 per cent did not have enough food to meet minimum requirements.

Asking "What income will assure a satisfactory food budget for a family of four?" the survey said:

"The figures for Detroit indicate that families with less than $1900 a year, for father, mother and two half-grown children, do not spend enough for food to buy the adequate diet at moderate cost."

International Comparison.

International studies, the federation said, had shown that the average low-paid worker in this country was no better fed than the average low-paid worker in other countries.

The federation maintained that an adequate diet for all would mean a vast increase in farming.

"If workers could buy even an adequate diet at moderate cost, farmers could produce needed food instead of piling up unnecessary surpluses," the report said. "This would mean adding 5,000,000 acres of fruit trees, doubling our present production; 2,000,000 acres of truck crops, increasing production 66 per cent; adding 17,700,000 dairy cows, increasing our present herds 71 per cent.

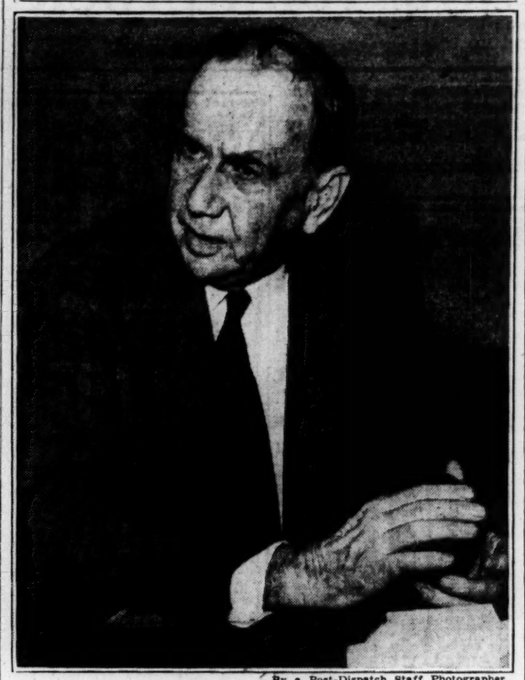

"All this would mean better paid jobs for farmers and farm laborers and new opportunities for those homeless in the great Midwestern dust bowl."

NEW YORK UNION URGES A. F. L. TO AVOID SPLIT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A new effort by New York garment workers to prevent a split in the American Federation of Labor was disclosed yesterday by the Committee for Industrial Organization.

The committee, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, made public a letter from Charles Zimmerman, president of Local 22, Ladies' Garment Workers, to president William Green of the federation, asking its executive council to rescind its "arbitrary suspension order."

The Ladies' Garment Workers' International was one of 10 unions read out of the A. F. of L. last Saturday when they refused to withdraw from the Lewis committee.

The C. I. O. unions are promoting a campaign to enroll all of the workers in each big industry into one union, while the federation's executive council is controlled by advocates of craft unions.

LEMKE SAYS MAJOR PARTIES 'MINIMIZE' WAGE QUESTION

He Urges System of "Annual Compensation" as Against "While-You-Work" Payment.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12.—Representative William Lemke of North Dakota, Union party presidential candidate, said last night that Republican and Democratic campaigners "minimized" the "question of compensation of workers."

Addressing a mass meeting here, he asserted that payment of American workers on a "while-you-work" basis instead of the "annual wage" he advocates, was responsible in a large part for "the stranglehold of international bankers on national economy."

"You do not hear them talking in terms of an 'annual wage' when they discuss the problems of the masses," said Lemke in referring to speakers for the two parties. "They are wedded to the 'while-you-work' idea. We demand a just annual wage, so that workers may have some assurance of economic security."

Lemke said that if elected President he would sign a bill approving the Townsend old-age pension plan on its passage by Congress.

30,000 WORKERS END STRIKE IN FRANCE

Textile Makers at Lille Are Persuaded by Cabinet Minister to Yield.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Thirty thousand textile workers at Lille, who struck and occupied their places of work, were persuaded today to evacuate the plants.

The employes, seeking to hurry application of the 40-hour week voted by the French Parliament, receded from their position after conferences with Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro.

The spread of strikes resulted in the calling of a conference between the employers' association and labor representatives by Premier Blum for Monday.

The employers made a new demand on the Government to invoke official assistance in preventing strikes.

The workers repeated their demands that the Blum Government speed up its labor program, especially application of the 40-hour week in industry. Workers also are displeased with the Government's policy of non-intervention in Spain.

On the fashionable Champs Elysees, 50 employes of a clothing shop quit work, but stayed in the establishment, informing customers by signs in the windows that the doors would stay closed until salaries were increased.

SCARCITY OF SCHOOL TEACHERS IN STATE, UNIVERSITY REPORTS

Jobs Found for All But 77 of 761 Who Filed Applications This Year.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 12.—A shortage of school teachers in the State, particularly athletic coaches, commercial training, home economics, and music instructors, was reported today by the Missouri University committee on placements.

R. L. Davidson, chairman of the committee and director of the University extension service, said the supply of competent teachers is "utterly inadequate" to meet the needs in several fields. He said salaries being paid also indicated an appreciable increase from the median of $1080 a year in 1935.

The committee already has placed more teachers in the first nine months of 1936 than during all of 1935, when it established a new record. Of 761 teachers filing applications, only 77 have not secured positions, the report said.

'LIBERALS' DECIDE TO BACK ROOSEVELT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—An organization of self-styled Liberals "began today an independent campaign for the re-election of President Roosevelt.

An assembly of 116, meeting as the "National Progressive Conference," concluded last night with an appeal for all "progressive-minded" voters to join in the fight.

A telegram was sent to Mr. Roosevelt, notifying him of his indorsement and adding:

"We are now proceeding to organize in every state in the union for the purpose of waging a vigorous campaign for your re-election and the furtherance of the fight for equality of opportunity."

Senator Robert M. La Follette, (Prog.), Wisconsin, was named chairman of an executive committee of 15 to supervise the group's efforts. It was decided to establish units in every state, each under the direction of an executive committee, and to raise a campaign fund. La Follette said several thousand dollars was contributed.

Others on Committee.

La Follette was authorized to name other members of the executive body. Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska was chosen honorary president of the committee; Senator Edward F. Costigan, Colorado Democrat, honorary vice-president; Grace Abbott of Chicago, honorary vice-chairman, and Frank P. Walsh, head of the New York Power Authority, acting treasurer.

The official registration roster listed representatives of four political parties—Republican, Democratic, Progressive and Farmer-Labor. There were four United States Senators—La Follette, Black of Alabama, Schwellenbach of Washington and Benson of Minnesota; two Governors, Phillip La Follette of Wisconsin and Hjalmar Petersen of Minnesota; 12 Congressmen and 27 labor leaders.

LaGuardia Active in Meeting.

Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York was an active participant. John L. Lewis, chieftain of the committee for industrial organization and president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' of New York, were in labor's delegation.

Lewis said the conference parley symbolized the "determination of liberals to preserve the nation from the Republican party, which places wealth and power above human welfare."

W. C. Eisenmayer, Miller, Dies.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 12.—Walter Charles Eisenmayer, president of the Eisenmayer Milling Co. and a director of the Southern Missouri Trust Co., died in a hospital here yesterday afternoon. He was 45 years old. He underwent an operation last Saturday.

LITTLE ENTENTE STATESMEN IN PARLEY AT BRATISLAVA

Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia Consider Direction of Future Policies.

By the Associated Press.

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 12.—Statesmen of the Little Entente—Yugoslavia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia—met in conference here today to decide, among other things: "Shall Southeastern Europe follow the military, economic and political policies of Russia, France, Germany or Poland?"

The absence of former Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania from the session was regarded as a victory for the Germans. Titulescu was deposed from his post.

Rumania's demand for the abolition of the 15-year-old international Danube Commission was among the points to be discussed. Rumania has long considered the commission set up in 1921 to regulate commerce on the Danube River an affront to sovereignty.

Since Austrian affairs were expected to play a part in the Little Entente discussions, the selection of Bratislava for the conference was viewed in Vienna as something of a gesture. Bratislava is just across the Austro-Czech border.

STATE BUILDING COMMISSION CONTRACTS FOR $500,000 LET

St. Louis Firm to Erect Annex at Farmington State Hospital at Cost of $411,891.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 12. — The State Building Commission let contracts yesterday for nearly $500,000 in projects under Missouri's program for rehabilitation of its penal and eleemosynary institutions.

The largest contract went to the Boaz-Kiel Construction Co. of St. Louis for the erection of an annex and remodeling of the Hall building at the Farmington State hospital at a cost of $411,891.

E. A. Koeneman Electrical Co. of St. Louis was low bidder on the installation of an electrical distribution system at the Fulton State hospital with one of $49,231. The company was also low on the contract for the electrical distribution system at the training school for boys at Boonville with a figure of $10,177.

Groeschel company of Marshall, Mo., with a bid of $19,587 was low on the installation of heating facilities at the Boonville training school and also was granted the contract for putting the water system in the school for $2065.

FILIPINO LEADER CHARGES DISCRIMINATION IN OIL TAX

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Sept. 12.—Quintin Paredes, resident Philippine Commissioner in Washington, criticised yesterday Congress' attitude toward the Philippines and said Americans generally were indifferent concerning insular matters. His comments were made in reporting on his activities in the United States to June 20 to Manuel L. Quezon, Commonwealth president.

Paredes attributed the "discriminatory" feeling of Congress in levying an import tax on coconut oil, the second largest product of the Islands, to "persistent, organized propaganda carried through a period of years by fats and oils producing interests."

DR. FRANCES L. BISHOP DIES IN CLEVELAND, O.

St. Louis Woman Physician and Welfare Worker Victim of Pneumonia.

Dr. Frances L. Bishop, physician and welfare worker, died of bronchial pneumonia last night in a hospital at Cleveland, O. She went to Ohio on a visit about 10 days ago.

Dr. Bishop, who had practiced medicine here for 30 years, resided and had her office at 4292 Washington boulevard. She lived there with her girlhood friend, Miss Charlotte Lomax, a teacher at Beaumont High School.

Born in Lafayette, Ind., she was educated at Miami University and Western College for Women at Oxford, O., and the University of Michigan School of Medicine. Her grandfather, the late Robert Hamilton Bishop, was first president of Miami University.

She was the first health examiner for St. Louis public schools and recently had served as examiner for the Physical Education Department of Washington University. She was one of the founders of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, was a director of the Y. W. C. A. and a member of the Pure Milk Commission, and was active also in the Tuberculosis and Health Society and the College Club.

Her only near relative is North Bishop of Wichita, Kan., a brother. Her funeral will be held Monday afternoon at Oxford.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street.

NEW DEAL BASED ON 'GOSPEL OF SURRENDER,' KNOX SAYS

People Ready for Revolution When They Despair of Further Growth, He Declares.

By the Associated Press.

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 12.—Col. Frank Knox, Republican candidate for Vice-President, declared here last night that the Resettlement Administration, the AAA, the NRA and the Guffey Act typified a "gospel of surrender."

"Once a nation surrenders to a belief it has reached its limits of growth and advancement," he declared, "the individuals are ripe for revolution and Sovietism."

Knox declared "there are endless opportunities yet to be exploited. There will be, for generations to come, rich rewards for pioneering, for invention, discovery and improvements. In agriculture there will be new products, in manufacture new materials, in trade new methods. As our people grow in wealth and numbers, they will need more and better products."

Knox arrived in Casper early yesterday, riding in the special train in which he is making a 22,000-mile speaking tour. He spent the day as the guest of United States Senator Robert D. Carey (Rep.), Wyoming, on the Senator's ranch.

Wed 38 Years, Seeks Divorce.

Suit to divorce John Untneker, a laborer, 919 Dammert avenue, Luxemburg, was filed at Clayton yesterday by Mrs. Katie Untnecker, 364 Goetz avenue, Luxemburg. She alleges general indignities. The Untnekers were married in 1898 and separated last July.

STOCK TRADE IS NARROWLY IRREGULAR; SALES LIGHT

A Few Specialties Push Forward but Many of the Leaders Are Virtually Unchanged — Few Off Substantially.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The stock market swung in a restricted orbit today as traders found little inspiration to step out very far on either the buying or selling sides.

A few specialties pushed forward, but many of the leaders were virtually unchanged and a few were substantially lower at the close. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

Constructive economic items were plentiful, including favorable earnings statements and dividends, but some traders were disposed to cash in their profits before adjourning for the week-end recess.

Atlantic Gulf & West Indies was a star performer, getting up more than 2 points. The rise was attributed partly to reports of climbing freight and passenger traffic for this corporation's steamship lines.

U. S. Steel started the day with a jump of more than a point. The other members of this department refused to follow, however, and this issue later lost most of its gain. Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Crucible fell back fractions to a point or so. Superior Steel improved.

A shade either way were General Motors, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, National Distillers, International Harvester, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse, General Electric, Goodyear, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Loew's, American Radiator and Johns-Manville.

In the Lower Group.

Down as much as a point or more were Chickasha Cottonseed Oil on an omitted dividend, du Pont, Dere, Sears Roebuck and Flintkote.

Carrier bonds were again in demand, but many listed loans were backward.

Grains pointed a bit higher. Foreign currencies were mixed.

Fiscal troubles of the French continued to generate timidity among speculative and investment forces. With more gold leaving Paris, and the labor situation in France viewed as critical, foreign banking observers were of the opinion devaluation of the franc may be only a matter of time.

A few of the rails reflected pleasing net operating incomes reported by several of the roads. The oils were listless notwithstanding signs of a strengthening statistical position for this industry.

Overnight Developments.

Shares of companies connected with the building industry were watched in view of figures released by the F. W. Dodge Co. indicating residential construction started during August reached the highest level since March, 1931. The total was 40 per cent in excess of July and 148 per cent above August last year.

In addition to forecasts of sharply expanding mill operations over the next several months, steel stocks had the benefit of a statement from the American Iron & Steel Institute showing output of heavy steel products in the first six months was 44 per cent ahead of the same 1935 period.

Holders of automobile issues noted the Bureau of Census estimate disclosing a decline of .6 per cent in July motor car financing. The aggregate, though, was 47.6 per cent greater than in the previous July.

HALF-YEAR STEEL OUTPUT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The American Iron and Steel Institute announced output of heavy steel products in the first half of 1936 was 44 per cent above the same period last year, while the tonnage of lighter forms rose only 20 per cent.

Production of all types of finished steel made to sell in the first half was 17,261,000 tons, about 32 per cent more than in the same 1935 period.

Registration Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The United Air Lines Transport Corporation of Chicago filed a registration statement with the Securities Commission covering the issuance of $5 par value capital stock in connection with a plan to increase capital from 1,200,000 to 2,000,000 shares. Most of the new money, the company said, will be used for the purchase of new planes.

DIVIDEND MEETING RESULTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A special stockholders' meeting of Consolidated Film Industries has been called for Oct. 9 to vote on a proposed plan of recapitalization which provides for elimination of accumulated dividends on the preferred partly through cash.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Directors of Cleveland Graphite Bronze Co. today declared a dividend of 50 cents a share, compared with a regular of .25 cents and an extra of 25 cents in the preceding quarter. The dividend is payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 24.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 12.—Directors of the Electric-Auto Lite Co. authorized distribution of $811,350 in dividends at their meeting. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on preferred stock was declared payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 23, and a dividend of 60 cents on the 1,221,000 common shares of the company payable Oct. 15 to holders of record Oct. 1.

The company formerly paid a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share earlier in the year but recently has declared dividends at irregular periods. The last dividend of 50 cents a share was paid to common stockholders on Aug. 15.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Directors of Diamond Shoe Corporation declared today a common dividend of 50 cents and the regular quarterly of $1.62½ on the preferred, both payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 21. Previously 25 cents quarterly was paid on the common. The company is a manufacturer and wholesaler of shoes with plants in Massachusetts and New Hampshire and headquarters here.

Directors of Chickasha Cotton Oil Co. voted against declaration of a capital stock dividend for the September quarter. The action, a statement by the company said, resulted from the Government's forecast of "an exceedingly small cotton crop for the State of Oklahoma. The directors resolved in order to preserve and maintain the excellent financial condition of the company that we declare no dividend at the present time," the announcement concluded. Previously the company paid special dividends of 50 cents on January 2, April 1 and July 1. Chickasha Cotton Oil Co. producers of cotton oil and other cotton by-products at plants in Texas and Oklahoma. Its offices are at Chickasha, Ok.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 12.—Wheat futures closed more than a penny higher in sympathy with Friday's advance in Winnipeg, good milling demand and a broader outside interest.

Cotton offerings were light, except for week-end realizing and prices closed higher on good trade calling and Bombay buying.

London and Paris closed on Saturday.

Short Interest Smaller.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The total short interest in the New York Stock Exchange was 974,338 shares as of the close Aug. 31, compared with 996,399 shares on July 31, the exchange announced today.

Scrap Steel Advance Report.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Dow Jones & Co., in a Pittsburgh dispatch, said today steel scrap had touched the highest price since September, 1929, with No. 1 heavy melting quoted at $17.75 per ton. This was 25 cents above the previous sale. The dispatch added indications were sales at $18 were in the offing because of continued scarcity and the increased premium for railroad scrap.

GRAIN FUTURES RECORD GAINS AT WEEK END

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Stimulated by firmness of Liverpool and Winnipeg markets, wheat in Chicago averaged higher today, but reacted at the last on account of profit-taking.

Liverpool wheat climbing was helped by word of adverse weather for crops in Argentina and in Australia as well. Furthermore, cables advised that Italy will have to import about 36,000,000 bushels of wheat to meet her needs, and that the wheat yield in Great Britain this season is 12½ per cent less than last year.

Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to ¼ cent higher, September $1.12⅝@1.12¾, December $1.12@1.12⅛; corn ⅝@1¼ cents advanced. September $1.13@1.13¼, September 96@96⅛ cents, oats ¼@½ cent up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10 cents.

Fresh jumps of wheat prices today at Winnipeg did a good deal to put backbone into grain markets everywhere early.

Wheat futures closed unchanged to higher and corn higher.

More than a cent a bushel overnight rise of Winnipeg quotations was promptly reflected by material gains here both in wheat and corn. Traders gave renewed heed to reports of short crops abroad, with no surplus supplies available in many countries. A point stressed was that United States crops are estimated as not being equal to domestic consumer requirements.

Messages at hand said further large export purchases of Canadian wheat were looked for, in addition to around 2,000,000 bushels taken yesterday. It was stressed that the world's statistical position had tightened, and that Argentine and Australian crop conditions were unfavorable, although scattered showers in Argentine today were reported. Meanwhile, light to fair rains in western and southwestern sections of domestic winter wheat territory were construed as bearish.

Corn, oats, rye and provisions borrowed firmness from wheat. Talk of feeding of rye in place of corn was ignored as a bearish factor.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 21,690,000 bushels, corn 8,097,000. Open interest in wheat was 90,853,000 bushels, and in corn 51,024,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 12.—There were no wheat or corn quotations.

At Winnipeg, wheat opened ¼@⅜ higher and early was ⅜c to 1c higher. The close was 1¼c higher.

Liverpool wheat opened 1⅛d to 2⅛d higher and closed 1⅛d to 1⅜d up.

In the cash grain market today soft wheat was ½@1c higher; corn, unchanged to ½c higher; oats, ½c higher. Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Oats—No. 2 white, 46c.

Local wheat receipts which were 12,000 bushels, compared with 21,000 a week ago and 63,000 a year ago, included 8 cars local. Corn receipts, which were 57,000 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 27,000 a year ago, included 38 cars local. Oats receipts which were 12,000 bu. compared with 38,000 a week ago and 54,000 a year ago, included 6 cars local. Hay receipts were 1 car through.

GOLD MOVEMENT FROM PARIS CONTINUES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—European currencies held their ground against the dollar in quieter week-end trading in foreign exchange early today and some extended a preceding rally.

Following the engagement yesterday of $12,540,000 additional gold in Paris for shipment to this country and $8,000,000 today, the French franc remained unchanged at 6.58⅜ cents, around the point making shipments of the metal to New York profitable.

Holland guilders spurted .05 of a cent to 67.90 cents and the Swiss franc was .01 higher at 32.59. The British pound, after being buoyed by some of the capital moving out of France, stayed at $5.06, unchanged from the preceding close. The Japanese yen pushed ahead to a new high for the movement at 29.62, up .02 of a cent.

Discussion in foreign money circles focused on the franc and the question whether the renewed export of gold from Paris threatened long-talked devaluation. The day's news shed no additional light on it, however.

In London, the dollar closed at $5.05 15-16 to the pound compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.06. The dollar ended in Paris at the equivalent of 6.583 cents to the franc compared with the overnight New York rate of 6.584.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The board of managers of the New York Cotton Exchange voted to set a maximum limit of interest by any member, firm or corporation at 250,000 bales for delivery in September and in all months up to and including Aug., 1937.

Sugar Institute, Inc., reported for the period Jan. 1 to Sept. 5 the sugar melt of 13 United States refiners amounted to 2,940,000 long tons compared with 2,965,000 in the like 1935 period. Deliveries for the same period were placed at 2,585,-000 against 2,715,000 a year ago.

Stockholders of K. Taylor Distilling Co., with plant and headquarters at Frankfort, Ky., approved the issuance of 50,000 shares of $1 par convertible preferred stock. The company plans to make public offering of the stock later.

New state and municipal financing scheduled for next week totals $36,884,047, compared with the revised figure of $163,-497,050 in the current week, "The Daily Bond Buyer" says. The largest single piece is one of $19,952,000 of the City of Detroit.

U. S. Steel Corporation has booked 18,-000 tons of rails and 15,000 tons of accessories. Orders were from the Seaboard Air Line Railroad and Chicago Great Western Railroad. The business was distributed between Tenessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co. and Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, both subsidiaries.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES UNCHANGED TO 7 HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Week-end hedging and liquidation was absorbed on declines of 5 or 6 points in cotton today and prices advanced later on an active demand from the trade combined with covering and foreign buying. December, after selling off to 12.12c, advanced to 12.20c and closed at 12.17c with the general market steady, net unchanged to 7 points higher.

Cotton futures closed: October, 12.15@16; December, 12.17@20; January, 12.16; March, 12.09@10; May, 12.07@11; July, 12.05. Spot steady; middling, 12.55.

Initial offerings were absorbed by the trade and foreign buying, but there was considerable hedging and prices sagged off after the call. December sold down to 12.12 and May to 12.02, making net advances of 2 to 6 points on the active positions. This decline brought in additional buying. There was week-end covering which held prices fairly steady within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing figures at the end of the first half hour.

Some of the early buying was said to have been influenced by overnight reports of a more active demand for cotton cloth and estimates that the week's sales had been more than double current production.

Liverpool cables reported comparatively light offerings except for hedging and realizing with prices higher on trade covering.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12.—Cotton futures closed steady, net 2 points down to 6 points up. October, 12.12c; December, 12.13@12.14c; January, 12.11b; March, 12.06c; May, 12.04@12.05c; July, 12.01c. b—Bid.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 12.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 12.15c, unchanged from yesterday. Sales amounted to 16,984 bales.

LET DOWN IN BOND MARKET AT WEEK END

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Investment demand for bonds relaxed at the week-end today and the market had a somewhat ragged appearance on the surface.

Dealers, however, professed to be impressed by the strong underpinnings of the market, grounded in evidence of expanding corporate earnings and rail traffic and hope of a broad resumption of the recovery trend as autumn influences become more effective.

The advance of so-called "receivership rails"—lower-grade issues of prominent roads awaiting reorganization—tapered off with the higher-grade list as the usual week-end tendency to take things easier became manifest.

The United States Government bond list shared the week-end letdown. Most Treasury loans yielded for small losses as the stimulus of recent news bearing upon Federal finances and money prospects wore off.

International Telephone 5s, which have been swayed to some extent by events in the Spanish civil conflict, sold up a point at one time.

Foreign dollar bonds generally followed individual paths, with changes up and down mostly restricted to small fractions.

GOLD MOVEMENT FROM PARIS CONTINUES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—European currencies held their ground against the dollar in quieter week-end trading in foreign exchange early today and some extended a preceding rally.

Following the engagement yesterday of $12,540,000 additional gold in Paris for shipment to this country and $8,000,000 today, the French franc remained unchanged at 6.58⅜ cents, around the point making shipments of the metal to New York profitable.

Holland guilders spurted .05 of a cent to 67.90 cents and the Swiss franc was .01 higher at 32.59. The British pound, after being buoyed by some of the capital moving out of France, stayed at $5.06, unchanged from the preceding close. The Japanese yen pushed ahead to a new high for the movement at 29.62, up .02 of a cent.

Discussion in foreign money circles focused on the franc and the question whether the renewed export of gold from Paris threatened long-talked devaluation. The day's news shed no additional light on it, however.

In London, the dollar closed at $5.05 15-16 to the pound compared with the overnight New York rate of 5.06. The dollar ended in Paris at the equivalent of 6.583 cents to the franc compared with the overnight New York rate of 6.584.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Foreign exchange closing rates in New York: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. Great Britain, demand 5.05⅞, cables 5.05⅞; 60-day bills, 5.04⅞. France, demand 6.58⅜, cables 6.58⅜. Italy, demand 7.86½, cables 7.86½.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES UNCHANGED TO 7 HIGHER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Week-end hedging and liquidation was absorbed on declines of 5 or 6 points in cotton today and prices advanced later on an active demand from the trade combined with covering and foreign buying. December, after selling off to 12.12c, advanced to 12.20c and closed at 12.17c with the general market steady, net unchanged to 7 points higher.

Cotton futures closed: October, 12.15@16; December, 12.17@20; January, 12.16; March, 12.09@10; May, 12.07@11; July, 12.05. Spot steady; middling, 12.55.

Initial offerings were absorbed by the trade and foreign buying, but there was considerable hedging and prices sagged off after the call. December sold down to 12.12 and May to 12.02, making net advances of 2 to 6 points on the active positions. This decline brought in additional buying. There was week-end covering which held prices fairly steady within 2 or 3 points of yesterday's closing figures at the end of the first half hour.

Some of the early buying was said to have been influenced by overnight reports of a more active demand for cotton cloth and estimates that the week's sales had been more than double current production. Liverpool cables reported comparatively light offerings except for hedging and realizing with prices higher on trade covering.

New Orleans Cotton Market.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12.—Cotton futures closed steady, net 2 points down to 6 points up. October, 12.12c; December, 12.13@12.14c; January, 12.11b; March, 12.06c; May, 12.04@12.05c; July, 12.01c. b—Bid.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 12.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Middling closed at 12.15c, unchanged from yesterday. Sales amounted to 16,984 bales.

LET DOWN IN BOND MARKET AT WEEK END

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Investment demand for bonds relaxed at the week-end today and the market had a somewhat ragged appearance on the surface.

Dealers, however, professed to be impressed by the strong underpinnings of the market, grounded in evidence of expanding corporate earnings and rail traffic and hope of a broad resumption of the recovery trend as autumn influences become more effective.

The advance of so-called "receivership rails"—lower-grade issues of prominent roads awaiting reorganization—tapered off with the higher-grade list as the usual week-end tendency to take things easier became manifest.

The United States Government bond list shared the week-end letdown. Most Treasury loans yielded for small losses as the stimulus of recent news bearing upon Federal finances and money prospects wore off.

International Telephone 5s, which have been swayed to some extent by events in the Spanish civil conflict, sold up a point at one time.

Foreign dollar bonds generally followed individual paths, with changes up and down mostly restricted to small fractions.

HOW VOTE ON BOND ISSUE EXCEEDED REGISTRATION IN TWO PRECINCTS

In Precinct 4 of Ward 22 and Precinct 1 of Ward 18 Ballots Outnumber Names on Poll Books

(Copyright, 1936, by Pulitzer Publishing Co., the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All property rights in news reserved under Federal Court decisions. Reproduction prohibited.)

Two precincts in which the recorded vote in the riverfront bond issue election exceeded the registration were found by the Post-Dispatch in its investigation of fraud in that election. The inquiry has disclosed, also, that the Election Board's announcement of registration totals, given to the press shortly after the election, greatly exceeded the actual registration in many precincts.

The Fourth Precinct of the Twenty-second Ward, in which the riverfront bonds were favored by a recorded vote of 505 to 0, provides a striking illustration. The printed list of qualified voters in that precinct, issued about a month before the election, had only 488 names, but the "official total" of registration, announced by the Election Board after the election, was 506. Examination of the precinct registration books by a Post-Dispatch reporter showed that no names had been added in the interval between preparation of the printed list and the date of the election. Thus the recorded vote exceeded the correct registration by 18.

It will be recalled that Richard S. Irwine, who was a Republican election judge in this precinct, in a statement published in Thursday's Post-Dispatch, declared that at least 13 "no" votes were counted there, even if not reported. Irwine said, too, that not nearly 505 ballots were cast.

"Official" and "Office" Count.

The Election Board has, in addition to its "official total" of a precinct's registration, an "office count" which gives a different figure. Alfred L. Rottman, chief clerk for the board, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that in such cases the "office count" is accepted as the correct figure. The "official total," he explained, uses the original registration as a base figure, with subsequent additions or subtractions as names are added or erased, while the "office count," not required by law, but made when time is available, is based on a full recount of original entries in the registration books.

Taking the "office count" as a basis, the First Precinct of the Eighteenth Ward also showed more ballots counted than there were voters registered. The printed list of voters in that precinct contained 587 names; the "official count" was 677, and the "office count" 604. The precinct voted in favor of the bonds, 607 to 5, a total of 612, or eight votes more than the "office count," presumed by the Election Board to be its correct registration.

A precinct in which the recorded vote was only one less than the total registration, was the Tenth in the Third Ward, where the bond issue carried, 461 to 5. The printed list of qualified voters contained 465 names, and examination of the precinct registration books showed two registrations in the interval between the printing of the list and the date of the election. The Election Board's "official total" of registration for this precinct, however, was 483.

"Clerical Errors."

The printed lists of registered voters in each precinct are prepared by the Election Board in the fifth week preceding an election, after the board has been in session for four days to complete revision of its registration records, following a general or supplementary registration. When the printed lists have been prepared names can be added to the registration books only by transferring registration from a precinct out of which a voter has moved, to the precinct in which he has established a new residence; by accepting the registratioa of persons who were ill or out of the city on the regular day for registration; or by order of the Circuit Court, a procedure infrequently invoked in St. Louis.

Asked to explain discrepancies shown to have existed between the board's printed lists of voters and the "official total" of registration in precincts where the difference between the "offidial total" and the number of names on the printed list was substantially larger than the number of names added to the registration after the lists were prepared, Chief Clerk Rottman of the Board of Election Commissioners could only suggest that they must be "due to clerical errors."

Wide Discrepancies.

The Citizens' Non-Partisan Committee counted the names appearing on the printed precinct lists in four complete wards—the Fourth, Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-second—and got a total of 47,430 names. The Election Board's "official total" of registration for those wards was 49,640, an increase of 2210, or 4.6 per cent.

For example, in Jimmy Miller's Fourth Ward the printed lists contained 9636 names. The board's "official total" of registration for the Fourth Ward was 10,628, an increase of 992, or more than 10 per cent.

Four precincts in the ward—the First, Third, Fou[illegible] and Ninth—accounted for 5[illegible] the 992 increase which occurred between the time the lists were printed and the election. Examination of the registration books for those precincts by a Post-Dispatch reporter disclosed that in fact only 14 names had been added by the books in these precincts in that interval.

Typical of the discrepancies found between registration for a precinct as determined by the printed list, the "official total" and the "office count," is the Sixth Precinct of the Fourth Ward, where the registration list contained 306 names; the "official total" was 329; and the "office count" was 303. That precinct voted in favor of the bonds, 180 to 5. Examination of the registration books disclosed that there had been no change in the registration in the interval between publication of the printed list and the date of the election.

In the Eighth Precinct of the Fifth Ward, the printed list contained 494 names; the "official count" was 510, and the "office count," 517. One transfer into the precinct after the printed lists were prepared and before the election was the only change apparent in the registration books. The precinct voted in favor of the bonds, 264 to 3.

The printed list for the Second Precinct of the same ward contained 496 names; the "official count" was 566, and the "office count," 501. There were four transfers into the precinct after the printed list was prepared and before the election was held. The precinct voted 398 to 1 in favor of the bonds.

How Registration Is Checked.

It will be recalled that a supplementary registration was held on July 25, 1935, preceding the bond issue election of Sept. 10, as required by law. Election clerks, on the next two days, canvassed each precinct. They were required to leave a notice at the address of each person whom they deemed improperly registered, and later to mail notices to these persons, directing them to appear before the Board of Election Commissioners to show cause why their names should not be erased.

On July 30 and 31, and on Aug. 1 and 2, the Election Board was in session to hear the persons so summoned, and determine whether or not their names should be erased. Following this revision session, the "revised and corrected" precinct lists were prepared and sent to the printer.

Thereafter, the only changes possible in registration were transfers, which were accepted up to Aug. 31, 10 days before the election; registration of persons who had been unable to register because of illness or absence from the city, which were accepted on Sept. 2, 3 and 4; and registrations entered on the books by order of the Circuit Court, following an appeal of the applicant for registration from an adverse decision of the Board of Election Commissioners.

Provision of Law Ignored.

There is a requirement in the law that a supplementary list of changes made in the registration after preparation of the printed list issued about a month before each election be printed, posted at each precinct polling place, and issued to any resident of the ward who may want a copy.

This provision has not been followed in recent years. James A. Waechter, chairman of the Election Board, told the Post-Dispatch he was under the impression that that statute (Sec. 10,598) had been repealed. It appears, however, in the book "Election Laws of the State of Missouri," compiled by Secretary of State Dwight H. Brown, and revised for 1935-36.

Waechter said the only method of determining changes in the registration in the interval after printing of the list and the date of the election would be examination of the registration books for each precinct.

Miss Emma Bobb, who was chairman of the Election Board which went out of office when the present board was appointed by Gov. Park, said her board had not printed the supplementary list, because of the expense, but kept a separate file of changes available at the office of the Election Commissioners so that the information was "at our finger tips" if anyone was interested in it.

SAYS DEAD VOTERS' NAMES ARE ON JEFFERSON CITY LIST

Chairman of G. O. P. Committee Asserts Books Have Been in Bad Shape for Long Time.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 12.—Don Purteet, chairman of the Cole County Republican Committee, charged yesterday that the Jefferson City registration books were "cluttered with the names of dead persons and voters who do not live here."

"I know personally that the names of many persons who have died or have moved away have not been erased from the books," he said. "The city registration list has been in a bad shape for a long time—and it's time something was done about it."

THE PROOF: Evidence of Fraud in Every Ward Where the Riverfront Bonds Carried

A SUMMARY of the fraud evidence in the riverfront bond election of a year ago, obtained by the Post-Dispatch in a test canvass of 23 precincts in 20 wards, is presented herewith.

(Note—the names of election officials given are from the records of the Board of Election Commissioners.)

FIRST WARD.

Precinct 18 — Polling place, 5099 Ruskin avenue. Official vote: 270 "yes" and 9 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 30 residents that they voted "no" and eight others said they voted "no" but preferred not to sign affidavits. Election officials: Edward James Roche, 4903 Geraldine avenue, and Dennis McBride, 5085 Ruskin avenue, Democratic judges; L. L. Sinclair, 5072 Union boulevard, and David F. Ruhr, 5204 Lillian avenue, Republican judges; Joseph B. Farwig, 5067 Ruskin, Democratic clerk, and William R. Kuhn, 4919 Geraldine, Republican clerk.

THIRD WARD.

Precinct 10.—Polling place, 1422 St. Louis avenue. Official vote: 461 "yes" and 5 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 24 residents that they voted "no." Election officials: Elmer Fortel, 1921 Montgomery street, and James Webb, 1437½ St. Louis avenue, Democratic judges; John O'Brien, 2939 North Fourteenth street, and John Seigor, 2704 North Nineteenth street, Republican judges; William Otten, 2803 Blair avenue, Democratic clerk; Russell Leslie, 1444A Montgomery street, Republican clerk. William Otten and Russell Leslie are under indictment for willful neglect to canvass the precinct following the registration of last June 18.

FOURTH WARD.

Precinct 14—Polling place, 2602 Cass avenue. Official vote: 213 "yes" and 134 "no." Robert E. Puls, 2802½ Cass avenue, Republican election judge gave a sworn statement to the Post-Dispatch that the ballot box in this precinct was stuffed with fraudulent votes. Election officials, in addition to Puls: Milton Hade, 5646A St. Louis avenue, and Louis Dame, 1006 Cass avenue, Democratic judges; B. F. Small, 2628 Gamble street, Republican Judge; James Rappleau, 1736 O'Fallon street, Democratic clerk, and Frederick J. Sanbourn, 2319 Carr street, Republican clerk.

FIFTH WARD.

Precinct 2. — Polling place, 607 Franklin avenue. Official vote: 398 "yes" and 1 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from four residents that they voted "no." Election officials: Harry Forman, 604 Chestnut street, and Joseph K. Bright, 4872 Anderson avenue, Democratic judges, Novert Kemp, 403 Delmar boulevard, and Fred J. Reeling, 713 North Eleventh street, Republican judges; James Fitzebbon, 1024 North Eighteenth street, Democratic clerk, and L. Calderon, 2330 Olive street, Republican clerk.

SIXTH WARD.

Precinct 1—Polling place, 318 South Fourth street. Official vote: 334 "yes" and 34 "no". The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 32 residents that they voted "no" and four others said, before a notary public, that they voted "no" but preferred not to sign affidavits. Election officials: Thomas J. Graseley, 303A South Second street, and John F. McNulty, 14 North Eighteenth street, Democratic judges; Nathan Sehnurr, 505 South Second street, and Adolph J. Fritz, 403A South Second street, Republican judges; Edward J. Mossessey, 1226A Pine street, Democratic clerk, and Ben Miller, 2345A Eugenia street, Republican clerk. Schnurr served as a clerk in this precinct in the supplementary registration of June 18 and he and Earle Foley, the other clerk at that time, have been indicted on charges of willfully neglecting to canvass the precinct.

SEVENTH WARD.

Precinct 8—Polling place, 1231 Chouteau avenue. Official vote: 347 "yes" and 5 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from seven residents that they voted "no." Election officials: Robert Kessler, 1534 Mississippi avenue, and Raymond Leisure, 1219 Chouteau avenue, Democratic judges; John B. Smith, 1614 Park avenue, and Joseph Ablan, 911 Chouteau avenue, Republican judges; Anton Giljum, 1706 Chouteau avenue, Democratic clerk, and Joseph George, 824 South Tenth street, Republican clerk. Anton Giljum and Richard C. Sutton, clerks of the precinct for the supplementary registration, last June, have been indicted on charges of willfully neglecting to canvass the precinct.

EIGHTH WARD.

Precinct 21—Polling place, 1811 South Jefferson avenue. Official vote: 262 "yes" and 3 "no". The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 12 residents that they voted "no" and four others said they voted "no" but preferred not to sign affidavits. Election officials: Edward F. Eckhard, 2633 Allen avenue, and James H. Hagan, 1757 Mississippi avenue, Democratic judges; John W. Beck, 2323 Geyer avenue, and Ernest C. Berns, 2323 Geyer, Republican judges; Harry Lakes, 1915A South Jefferson avenue, Democratic clerk, and Frank J. Maurer, 1805 South Jefferson, Republican clerk.

FIFTEENTH WARD.

Precinct 17 — Polling place, 1816 Klemm street. Official vote: 187 "yes" and 21 "no". The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 21 residents that they voted "no" and 10 others said in the presence of a Notary Public that they voted "no" but preferred not to sign affidavit. Precinct 13 — Polling place, 2335 Mullanphy street. Official vote, 747 "yes" and 13 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 31 residents that they did not vote in the bond election and three others said they did not vote but preferred not to sign affidavits—a total of 34 not voting, although official returns purported to show only 22 not voting. Election officials: William J. Powers, 2525 Baldwin street, and Lillie Stayeo, 2118 Mullanphy street, Democratic judges; Jeannette L'Hommedieu, 2307A Howard street, and Walter Cussie, 2219 Sullivan avenue, Republican judges; John F. Hagerty, 2513 Cass avenue, Democratic clerk, and Adolph J. Schultz, 2549 Hebert street, Republican clerk.

Precinct 14. — Polling place, 1539 North Jefferson avenue. Official vote—the largest reported in the city—804 "yes" and 20 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 16 residents that they voted "no" and six others, in the presence of a notary public, said they voted "no" but preferred not to sign an affidavit. In addition, the Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 46 residents that they did not vote in the bond election, although official returns indicated only 37 not voting. Election officials: Ed Hennessy, 1516A North Twenty-fifth street, and Jack McGarver, 1539 North Jefferson avenue, Democratic judges; James A. Jutz, 2728 Madison street, and Edward Kowalski, 2336 Howard street, Republican judges; Thomas Kilcullen, 1415 Elliott avenue, Democratic clerk, and Frank Jasinski, 2739 Howard, Republican clerk. Thomas Kilcullen and Frank M. Jasinski, clerks of this precinct in the supplementary registration last month, have been indicted on charges of willfully neglecting to canvass the precinct then.

NINETEENTH WARD.

Precinct 6—Polling place, 2814 North Grand boulevard. Official vote: 175 "yes" and 43 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 50 residents that they voted "no." TWENTY-SECOND WARD

Precinct 4.—Polling place, 4460 Kennerly avenue. Official vote: 505 "yes" and NONE "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 16 residents that they voted "no" and 34 other registered voters made affidavit that they had not voted. Registration for the precinct is 506, so the official returns allow for only one non-voter. Election officials: Arthur Weaver, 4713 Northland avenue, and Harry S. O'Malley, 3108 North Taylor avenue, Democratic judges; Richard S. Irwine, 5226 Northland avenue, and John Brown, 4403 St. Ferdinand avenue, Republican judges; Shelton French, 2617 North Taylor avenue, Democratic clerk, and Evans S. Johnson, 4408 Cottage avenue, Republican clerk.

TWENTY-THIRD WARD

Precinct 8.—Polling place, 4151 Delmar boulevard. Official vote: 299 "yes" and 10 "no." The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 26 residents that they voted "no" and four others said they voted "no" but preferred not to sign an affidavit. Edward Schnurr, Republican election clerk, has made affidavit that he witnessed ballot box stuffing in this precinct. Officials of the precinct, besides Schnurr: Frank E. Wheat, 4337 Washington boulevard, and Albert Winter, 4489 Washington, Democratic judges; Alice M. Rhodes, 4131 Washington, and Nathan Tureen, 4443 Delmar boulevard, Republican judges, and Perry A. Murphy, 4650 Evans avenue, Democratic clerk.

TWENTY-FIFTH WARD

Precinct 12—Polling place, 4504 Westminster place. Official vote: 163 "yes" and 20 "no". The Post-Dispatch obtained affidavits from 22 residents that they voted "no" and 3 others said they voted "no" but preferred not to sign affidavits. [illegible] officials: Harry J. Inman, 6031A Suburban avenue, Republican clerk.

The Test

IT should be borne in mind that only enough persons were interviewed in any precinct to test the accuracy of the certified number of "no" votes. Nothing like a check of the entire voting list was made and only the precincts in which the returns bore on their face presumptive evidence of fraud were investigated. The full extent of the fraud can be determined only by recounting all the ballots and checking all returns as is done by court order in election contests.

OUSTED ELECTION JUDGE DENIES REMOVAL CHARGES

Ray Schumacher Says He Did Not Incorrectly Mark Ballot or Try to Tear It Up.

Ray Schumacher, 4225A Maffitt avenue, who was removed by the Board of Election Commissioners yesterday as Republican election judge in the fourteenth precinct of the Twentieth Ward, after objection had been made to his reappointment, denied today that he had incorrectly marked and then attempted to destroy the ballot of an illiterate on primary election day, Aug. 4, the basis of the charge which resulted in his removal.

Schumacher was temporarily removed on primary day as judge in the twenty-first precinct of the ward, after H. D. Robinson, candidate for Republican city committeeman in the ward, told the Election Board that Schumacher, instructed to mark a ballot for Robinson, had marked it for John J. Hurley, Robinson had a sample ballot marked Robinson protested, had tried to tear up the ballot.

According to Schumacher, the voter brought to the polls by Robinson hal a sample ballot marked for Hurley, which was yellow, the same color as the Robinson sample ballots. Schumacher marked the ballot for Hurley, and when Robinson protested, ascertained from the voter that she actually intended to vote for Robinson. Then, Schumacher said, he put the original ballot aside and began marking a new ballot, when Robinson grabbed the original ballot away from another precinct official, tearing it in the process, and took it to the Election Board. Schumacher said that his removal by the Board on primary day without a hearing was unwarranted.

Mrs. Dwight Davis for Landon.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12. — Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, the former Mrs. Pauline M. Sabin, who supported Roosevelt in 1932, announced yesterday that she would vote for Gov. Alf M. Landon and work for his election. She formerly was chairman of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform.

RIVERFRONT VOTING TIME CARD LOST OR MISLAID

"Condition" Record, Required by Law, Missing From Election Board Records; 80,000 Votes in Three Hours.

(Copyright, 1936, by Pulitzer Publishing Co., the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All property rights in news reserved under Federal Court decisions. Reproduction prohibited.)

An official record relating to the riverfront bond issue election of a year ago which might be useful in furthering the investigation into frauds which the Post-Dispatch has shown were perpetrated in that election has been lost or mislaid by the Board of Election Commissioners.

The missing record would show, among other things, the time at which the ballot boxes from each precinct were returned to the Board of Election Commissioners and so would indicate how long the precinct officials took to make their returns.

After a two-hour search of the Election Board's records by two of its employes, Alfred L. Rottman, chief clerk, informed the Post-Dispatch that this particular record could not be found. Chairman James A. Waechter of the board said the search would be continued. The record, required by law to be kept, is designated as a "condition card" which shows, for each precinct, in addition to the time its ballot box was returned, the physical condition of the box, seals, poll books, and other equipment used during the election.

Only Two Propositions.

The ballot for the bond issue election was short and simple and the counting should have been completed with no great delay. There were but two propositions, issuance of the riverfront bonds, and of bonds to provide new rail approaches for the Municipal Bridge. For each proposition "Yes" and "No" was printed on the ballot and the voter expressed his choice by scratching one of these words.

It is the recollection of Lawrence Holt, a railroad executive who supervises a staff of accountants in tabulating the results of each election for the press, that the first precinct returns in the riverfront bond election were received at the office of the Board of Election Commissioners about 7:15 p. m.—15 minutes after the polls closed. The last returns, Holt recalls, were not in until about 10:15 p. m.

In one notorious election a generation ago, there was delay in reporting the results in the old Fourth Ward, and in one precinct in particular, the vote of which was not reported until 3 a. m. the next day, although returns from nearly all other precincts were in before midnight, it happened that the vote of that ward provided the margin needed to elect the ward boss' candidate for mayor and the belated precinct was overwhelmingly for him.

Time Element in the Count.

The time element in the riverfront bond election is interesting, also, as it applies to the number of ballots in the boxes at different periods during the day of the election.

The announced total of votes cast, 173,709, far exceeded the expectation of Chairman Waechter, who was one of the practical politicians who favored the bond issue. Prior to the election Waechter had estimated that the total vote would be 115,000. When a sample canvass of a typical precinct in each ward made by the newspapers at 9 a. m. indicated that 21,000 ballots had been cast in the first three hours of the voting period, Waechter revised his estimate and predicted a total vote of 125,000, adding that there would be 95,000 votes in favor of the bonds and 30,000 against them.

Voting in the first three hours of the day, as indicated by this test, was at the rate of 7000 ballots an hour. Other tests, at intervals during the day, indicated that from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. the voting was at the rate of 9300 an hour; from 10:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., 7500 an hour; from 12:30 p. m. to 2 p. m., 17,300 an hour; from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m., 9000 an hour, and from 4 p. m. to 7 p. m., when the polls closed, 26,670 an hour.

It appears that in the last three hours 80,012 votes, nearly half of the total, were cast.

NEW DEAL NEPOTISM CHARGED BY G. O. P.

Federal Payrolls "Packed and Jammed by Relatives of Ranking Officials."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—A Republican National Committee statement last night said that "nepotism under the Farley spoils regime has hit a new high in the history of American Government" with Federal payrolls "packed and jammed by relatives of ranking administration officials."

"President Roosevelt himself," it added, "set the example for appointing persons with New Deal political pull to Government positions. He has 42 employes working at the White House, not a single one of whom comes under civil service."

The committee said that "many of the relatives who have been placed in positions by influential New Dealers actually perform the work for which they were hired, but there are instances in which the relatives on the payroll have remained outside of Washington, and have never reported for duty."

Naming Names.

Naming names, the committee said:

"Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper has a daughter listed as an employe of the United States Tariff Commission, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has a sister employed in the general accounting office who was raised from grade 2 to grade 4 on a non-competitive examination, while Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., has a nephew on the payroll of the AAA.

"Commissioner Carroll Miller of the Interstate Commerce Commission is the brother-in-law of Senator Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania. Commissioner Miller gets $10,000 a year, the same as the Senator. The sister of Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, Mrs. Lenore B. Fullar, has a $4000-a-year job in the Agriculture Department.

"Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana has a nephew in the Federal Housing Administration. He also has a daughter and son working for the Federal Government, while Maude W. Mitchell, a sister was appointed clerk of the Committee on Indian Affairs at $2880 a year. Three relatives of Vice-President John Garner are on Uncle Sam's payroll—a niece, Millie Nance, works in the Census Bureau at $2300, while Dena Nance, a cousin, receives $2600 from the AAA, and Mrs. Garner is his secretary.

Barkley, Smith, Robinson.

"Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky has a son and a nephew drawing salaries from the Federal payroll; L. L. Barkley, clerk of the Senate Committee on Library at $3900 a year and Max Truett, nephew, an attorney at the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Until recently his daughter also was on the payroll.

"Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina has five relatives on the Federal payroll. They are Farley Smith, clerk of the Senate Agriculture Committee, at $3900 a year, while Mrs. Isobel Smith Lawton and Mrs. Anna B. Pierce, daughters, are assistant clerks of the same committee. Two years ago, Senator Smith added his aunt and brother-in-law to the public payrolls.

"Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas is the father of Joseph T. Robinson Jr., who is an assistant for the Committee on Conference Majority of the Senate. Senator Walter F. George of Georgia has a son drawing money from the public treasury; Senator Pat Harrison, Mississippi, a daughter; Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts, a nephew, and Senator John H. Bankhead, Alabama, a son. Henry M. Bankhead, United States commercial attache to Canada, is a brother of Senator Bankhead and Representative William B. Bankhead of Alabama.

Senator McKellar and Others.

"Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, Tennessee, has a brother who is postmaster at Memphis, Tenn. Another brother, D. W. McKellar, is the Senator's secretary, as well as clerk of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads of which the Senator is chairman. Mrs. Carolyn McKellar Dunn was for a long time with FERA.

"Uncle Sam has done well for the family of William L. Austin, Director of the Census. His nephew, Richard O. Austin, draws $2600 from the AAA, his wife $1800 from the Veterans' Administration. Another nephew, William Hitt, is employed at the Census Bureau.

"Joseph Eastman, Federal Coordinator of Transportation, has a niece employed by the Federal Housing Administration. Her husband holds an important post with the Home Owner's Loan Corporation.

"Robert Gates, a McKellar appointee, press officers of the Department of Justice, has a cousin, Jack Gates, who is postmaster of the United States Senate.

"Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, had a son on the payroll last year during the summer. He has another one on a WPA job this year.

Arthur Mullen's Relatives.

"Arthur Mullen, former Nebraska Democratic National Committeeman, found a berth for a nephew, Gerald Mullen, as file clerk with the AAA at $1440 a year. Januarius A. Mullen was an attorney in the Export-Import Bank, State Department, at $6800 a year. Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering, found work in his own office for a niece.

"South Trimble Jr., whose salary is $8000 a year as a solicitor in the Commerce Department, is the son of South Trimble, clerk of the House of Representatives.

"Representative Milton J. Rompue, Missouri, has a son employed in the Lands Division of the Justice Department. Representative Robert Ramspeck, Georgia, has Ernest W. Ramspeck as assistant chief of the examination division of the Securities and Exchange Commission at $6000 a year. The wife of Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, Illinois, is an employe of the general accounting office of the Comptroller-General's office.

PERRY LEADS BUDGE, 2-1, IN FINAL FOR MEN'S TITLE

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12. — Fred Perry of England, champion in 1933 and 1934, led Red-Headed Don Budge of Oakland, Cal., two sets to one 2—6, 6—2, 8—6, at the end of the third set of their final match for the United States singles tennis championship.

Budge won the fourth set, 6—1 and they were tied at two sets each.

Perry spent most of the time in the fourth set bickering with officials along the lines. He barely went through the motions toward the end o fthe set, but Budge took nothing for gfranted and made sure of every point.

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12. —Helen Jacobs' four-year reign as United States singles tennis champion came to an end today as she was beaten in the final of the national tournament by Alice Marble of San Francisco, at 4—6, 6—3, 6—2.

Miss Marble started auspiciously, breaking through Miss Jacobs' twisting service in the first game and pulling away to a 3-1 lead as the veteran titleholder had difficulty finding the range for her forehand drives. The champion, however, broke Miss Marble's delivery in the sixth game to tie the score. Up to this point Miss Jacobs clearly was being outplayed by her California rival, while it appeared the titleholder was having trouble warming up to her task.

Miss Jacobs hit her true stride in the ninth game on service to take command of the set and forced Miss Marble into four errors as she broke service again in the tenth to clinch the set.

Challenger at Her Best.

The challenger completely baffled Miss Jacobs with a clever assortment of shots in the second set and scored repeatedly with deftly executed drop shots that fell just over the net, and sizzling, accurately placed drives to the corners to the

WARNEKE BEATS GIANTS, 6 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Behind Lon Warneke's four-hit pitching, the Chicago Cubs walloped the league-leading Giants, 6 to 0, this afternoon. Billy Jurges and Phil Cavarretta hit homers for the Cubs.

A pitching duel ended in the fifth as the Cubs belted Hal Schumacher and Harry Gumbert for four runs and then added two more in the sixth. The Cubs started their fifth inning attack after tco were out. Cavarretta hit his homer with the bases empty and then in rapid order, Herman singled, Demaree walked, Hack singled, Mancuso and Schumacher were charged with errors and Galan singled home the final run that sent Schumacher to the showers. Bill Jurges led off in the sixth with a homer while Warneke brought home the other run on a fly after singling and moving to third on an error and an infield out.

Reds Buy Pitcher

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 12.—Rollie Schefter, business manager of the Portland Coast League Baseball Club, said yesterday William J. Posedel, right-handed pitcher, has been sold to the Cincinnati Nationals for spring delivery. Schefter said the deal provides that Walter Hilcher, a right-hander, will come to Portland from the Nashville Southern Association Club and that Cincinnati will pay $10,000 cash if Posedel is retained next season. Posedel has won 19 and lost 10 games this season.

Bottomley's Triple Helps Browns Defeat Red Sox in First 6-4

By Harold Tuthill.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, Sept. 12.—Al Thomas and Jack Knott collaborated to give the Browns a 6 to 4 decision over the Boston Red Sox in first game of a double-header here this afternoon. Thomas, who worked seven and one-third innings, was credited with the victory, his ninth of the season, against as many defeats.

All four of Boston's runs were made off Thomas and the quartet was prduoced on home runs by Fabim Gaffke in the third and by Babe Dahlgren in the seventh. Both came with a runner on base.

Dahlgren's blow led to Thomas' removal, for after that he walked Rick Ferrell. Knott came in and fanned Gaffke for the third out. Knott, aided by a fast double play, Lary to Bejma to Bottomley, on Foxx's hard smash, pitched a scoreless ninth.

The Browns scored one in each of the first and second innings and bombarded Ostermueller in the fifth to score three times after two were out. In that round after Solters and Bell had singled, Bottomley tripled off the wall in right-center, scoring Solters and Bell. West then singled to center to score Bottomley. West took second when Cramer fumbled, but remained there whten Bejma grounded out.

Ostermueller was removed for a pinch hitter in the sixth and Jim Henry went in to pitch for the Sox. Harlond Clift hit his nineteenth home run of the season off Henry in the seventh. Ted Olson hurled the eighth for Boston and was not scored on, although West opened with a double. He moved to third on Bejma's sacrifice, but Giuliani popped to Rick Ferrell and Knott grounded out.

The attendance was estimated at 2500.

SEPT. 30 SET AS DATE FOR FIRST GAME OF WORLD SERIES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Club owners of the major league pennant contending baseball clubs, meeting with Commissioner K. M. Landis today, decided to start the world series on Wednesday, Sept. 30, in the park of the National League winner.

This means that the championship battle, with the New York Yankees representing the American League, will start at the Polo grounds here, Sportsman's Park in St. Louis or Wrigley Field in Chicago, with the chances, like the current standing of the clubs, in that order.

The first two games will be played under National League auspices, also the sixth and seventh, if necessary. The third, fourth and fifth will be contested at the Yankee Stadium.

Assuming it will be an all-New York series, the specific playing dates will be Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 at the Polo Grounds, Oct. 2, 3 and 4, at the Yankee Stadium, Oct. 5 and 6 at the Polo Grounds, if necessary.

Should either the St. Louis Cardinals or the Chicago Cubs overhaul the League-leading Giants, a day off for traveling would be provided between the second and third games, also the fifth and sixth.

For the third straight year, exclusive broadcast rights for the world series have been sold for $100,000 to the Ford Motor Co., Commissioner Landis announced.

The radio receipts will be prorated, on the customary percentage basis, among the players, contending clubs, leagues and the commissioner's office.

The players' cut of the broadcast money would amount to a maximum of $59,500, if the series went only four games. It would be proportionately reduced by the playing of additional games, the arrangement being that the players share in the radio money in the same proportion as the aggregate player

DIZZY DEAN SCORES 23D VICTORY AND SUFFERS 11TH DEFEAT

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 12.—The Cardinals broke even in their doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers here this afternoon, winning the second game after losing the first 9 to 8.

Dizzy Dean gained his twenty-third victory of the season when the Redbirds won the second game, 10 to 3. Dizzy, who had pitched two-thirds of an inning of the first game, was charged with the defeat, his eleventh of the year.

Breaking even in the doubleheader enabled the Cardinals to gain half a game on the league leading New York Giants who were shut out by the Cubs. The Cardinals now are three and a half games behind thel eaders.

The Cardinals had a 7 to 1 lead after five innings of the first game but Silas Johnson weakened, George Earnshaw and Dizzy Dean failed as relief pitchers and the Brooklyn Dodgers took another lethal wallop at the Redbirds' pennant prospects.

Brooklyn scored eight runs in their last three turns at bat, and as the final run of the eighth frame was scored at the expense of Dizzy, he was charged with the defeat.

Jack Winsett was the villain and one of the heroes of the game. He gave the Cardinals two runs by leisurely fielding which turned hits inside the park into home runs for Don Gutteridge and Art Garibaldi. However he changed the boos to cheers by hitting a home run to the start the sixth inning rally and by driving in the tying and winning runs in the eighth with a single to left.

As a result of the defeat the Cardinals went to the clubhouse five games behind the Giants in the lost column, a tremendous lead for New York with only 16 more games on the St. Louis schedule.

The attendance had increased to about 15,000.

Barr, Pfirman and Goetz were the umpires.

The second game:

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The champion Milwaukee Brewers had a strangle-hold on a spot in the American Association playoff finals today and the scrappy St. Paul Saints saw a chance to get back into the running after being two games down to the Indianapolis Indians.

The Brewers won their third straight game last night from the third place Kansas City club, whipping the Blues 7 to 4. Yesterday afternoon the Saints took their first game in three starts against Indianapolis, 6 to 5, in 11 innings.

Before a paid attendance of 3750, the Brewers advanced to within one game of the playoff finals behind some effective relief pitching by Luke Hamlin and three run bursts in the second and fifth. Hamlin replaced Joe Heving in the eighth, after the Blues had smashed out four hits and two runs, and held the Kansas City club hitless.

John Niggeling, who started for the Blues, allowed all the Brewer runs, his error leading to three markers in the second. In the third Rudy York hit a long homer and in the fifth Chet Laabs homered with two mates on base. The Brewers made nine hits and the Blues 10, with credit for the victory going to Heving.

The Saints won on the pitching and batting of young Ira Hutchinson, who took the mound in the ninth with the sacks loaded and two out and the count three balls and no strikes on Fred Berger. Hutchinson fanned Berge rand held the tribe scoreless the next two frames. In the eleventh, after singles by Pasek and McWilliams, he drove a ground ball that scored the winning run.

Bob Boken, with a homer and three singles, led the Apostle attack, driving in five runs. The teams now go to Indianapolis to conclude the best four out of seven series there, the winner to meet the Milwaukee-Kansas City winner in a seven-game series.

champion's backhand, which was woefully weak.

Miss Jacobs broke Miss Marble's service with the loss of only one point in the second set for a 2-0 lead and it seemed she was on her way to a quick victory. But Miss Marble appeared unruffled and quickly won four games in a row, with Miss Jacobs gaining only four points in the stretch, as the San Franciscan took a 4-2 lead. Miss Marble again broke her rival's service in the ninth game.

Where Miss Jacobs had been brilliant in her overhead game against Kay Stammers in yesterday's semi-final, she drove the ball over the baseline by several feet almost every time she attempted a placement smash. So accurate were Miss Marble's drives that Miss Jacobs seldom attempted to advance the net, because when she did she usually was passed.

Miss Marble, after holding service in the third game, increased her lead to 4—0 as she broke Miss Jacobs' delivery at love in the fourth game of the final set.

Earlier today Raymond B. Bidwell of Boston won the national veterans' championship for the third straight year. He defeated Henry H. Bashford of Bronxville, N. Y., 6—3, 6—2.

As Miss Marble appeared to ease up a bit and just failed to clear the net with her low forehands, Miss Jacobs broke Miss Marble's service in the fifth game and pulled up 2—4, but Miss Marble won her own service at love in the seventh game and went 5—2. She then broke Miss Jacobs' to win the set and the championship.

MORRO SCORES UPSET VICTORY OVER CASANOVA

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—If, as announced, Madison Square Garden officials intend to base their plans for future fights on the public reaction to last night's card of 10-rounders, they must be wondering today what to do next.

The main bout, in which Ceferino Garcia, the clouting Filipino welterweight, hammered out a decision over the Italian veteran, Cleto Locatelli, was not lacking in action but it wasn't entirely pleasing to the fans who were looking for knockouts.

The other three scraps also had their lively moments as Aldo Spoldi, Italian lightweight champion, Johnny Morro of New York and Enrico Venturi of Italy came out ahead.

The attendance, however, rather left things up in the air. There were about 7500 fans present, not enough to make it highly profitable. There's still some question whether it would be better to pay more money for big names and attract more customers.

Both Garcia and Locatelli were cut up after 30 minutes of savage scrapping but the Filipino carried the heavier weapons and gave Cleto a terrific battering in the late rounds. The Italian was ahead in the early part of the scrap through better boxing.

Spoldi had no trouble at all whipping Al Roth, Bronx lightweight, after staggering him with a series of rights in the second round.

Morro scored the big upset of the evening by handing Baby Casanova, Mexican lightweight, his first defeat after three straight knockout victories. Venturi, another lightweight, trounced the wild-swinging Orville Drouillard of Windsor, Ont.

24 NINES START PLAY IN AMATEUR EVENT

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 12.—Cleveland became the sandlot baseball center of the nation today as 12 games, four of them in the Cleveland Stadium as features of the Great Lakes Exposition, were to usher in the National Baseball Federation tournament.

Twenty-four teams from eight states lined up on diamonds in various parts of the city, Ohio heading the list of entries with eight teams. Pennsylvania had five, Michigan and Indiana three each and Maryland two. Teams from Connecticut, New York and Alabama completed the field seeking the title won last year by Petrolia, Pa.

40 BIKE RIDERS WILL SEEK U. S. RACING TITLES IN FOREST PARK

By Reno Hahn.

The national championship bicycle races of the Amateur Bicycle League of America will start this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Forest Park with one of the most representative fields ever to compete in the national event. The races will start a few hundred feet west of the Jefferson Memorial and will be contested on a circular track, 1.8 miles in circumference.

There will be about 40 riders competing in the two senior races, a 25-mile event this afternoon, and a 50-mile ride tomorrow. Included in this group are four members of the Olympic team, 26 State champions, and the defending titleholder, Cecil Hursey of Savannah, Ga.

Chance for Sprinters.

For the first time in the history of the event, sprinters will have a good chance to win the title, for there will be five sprints held during the 25-mile race and 10 during the 50-mile event. Points will be scored during each sprint and these points will determine the winner of the race. The first four places in each sprint will count five, three, two and one.

The rider scoring the most sprint points in the 25-mile race will get five points toward the national title; the second will receive three; the third, two, and the fourth, one. In the 50-mile race, points will be scored seven, five, three and one. The sprint points do not count toward the national title save as they aid the rider in winning one of the main races.

The program this afternoon will start with a one-mile junior sprint race, to be followed by the senior's 25-mile event, and will close with a 10-mile junior race. Tomorrow's program, which will begin at 8 o'clock, will open with a two-mile junior sprint. The senior 50-mile race, a five-mile junior event and a five-mile girls' race, will conclude the competitive events. There will also be an exhibition by the St. Louis Cycling Club's drill team.

No Favorite.

There is no outstanding favorite for the championship, there being too many high class riders entered. But some of those who have proved their ability are: Charles Morton, Los Angeles; Al Byrd, Chicago, and William "Buster" Logan, Newark, Olympic riders; Jackie Simes, New Jersey, a sprint champion, and his conqueror in the recent State trials, Ray Jones; Bruce Randall, Wichita, Kan., and Ray Florman and Lou Droz, St. Louis riders.

19-Year-Old Boy Wins Outboard Motorboat Prize

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Clinton Ferguson, 19-year-old Waban (Mass.) youth, won the $6000 Sir Thomas Lipton trophy, emblematic of Eastern amateur outboard motorboat supremacy, before 15,000 on the Schuylkill today.

Ferguson's triumph climaxed his winning of three amateur championships yesterday. Paul Sawyer of Pocono, Pa., finished second on a point basis, although he won two of the three heats.

Cavalcade Last In Field of Nine

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 12.—The threat of Cavalcade in the forthcoming Narragansett Special seemed definitely shaken off when the former three-year-old champion, starting in the Wickford Handicap, fifth race at Narragansett Park today, was soundly beaten.

The former turf idol finished last in the nine-horse field for his second straight defeat since his initial comeback appearance last Wednesday. He started last and finished there.

Sun Teddy, steady-going Calumet Farm colt, was the winner of this engagement, clicking by a length ove rthe veteran gelding, Mountainy Man, which bore the Mulvihill silks. Pundit, owned by B. J. Hill, was third.

Sun Teddy carried 119 pounds, one pound less than Cavalcade's impost, and the son of Teddy, after forging his way to the front at the three-quarters, buck-jumped home in 1:444-5 for the milfe and a sixteenth. The track was fast and Eddie Arcaro was aboard the winner which returned $4.20 straight.

FRIEDMANS AND WAGNERS PLAY FOR TITLE TODAY

Friedman-Shelby and Wagner Electric Office will meet this afternoon at Blewett Field to decide the championship of the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball League. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30.

The last time these two teams met they played to a 5-5 tie and the game was called at the end of seven innings due to darkness. Friedman-Shelby, champion in the International Shoe division, eliminated Robin Hood Shoes, titleholders in Division No. 2; while the Office, winners of the Wagner division, defeated McQuay-Norris, winners of Division No. 1.

The customary scale of ticket prices was ratified, comprising $6.60 for box seats, $5.50 for grand stand reserved, $3.30 for unreserved grand stand, and $1.10 for bleachers, including tax.

The reserved seat tickets again will be sold only in three game strips. This means the National League club will sell strips for games one, two and six, the Yankees for games three, four and five.

Unreserved seats, in the covered stands or bleachers, will be sold on the day of each game.

Figures presented to Commissioner Landis by the rival New York representatives showed a total seating capacity of 63,300 for the Yankee Stadium, 47,400 for the Polo Grounds.

Ford Frick and William Harridge, presidents of the National and American League, respectively, met with Landis, in addition to representatives of the Yankees and four National League clubs, the Giants Cardinals, Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates, who still have a mathematically remote chance in the race.

The Giants showed their confidence, however, by outnumbering rival clubs. President Horace Stoneham, Secretary Eddie Brannick and Treasurer Leo Bondy represented the National League leaders.

Clarence Lloyd, secretary, spoke for the Cardinals; Robert Lewis secretary, and Charles Weber, for the Cubs, William Benswanger president, for the Pirates. Ed Barrow, executive secretary, and Charles McManus, an assistant, represented the Yankees.

Series games will start at 1:30 p. m., standard time, week days, 2 p. m., on Sunday, Oct. 4.

The Yankee stadium, still in process of alteration, will sell 17,500 tickets at the bleacher price and 11,000 unreserved $3.30 tickets in the stands. This compares with 4000 bleachers and 14,700 unreserved grandstand seats at the Polo Grounds.

Thus the series would be a million dollar affair even if it only went four games, with the $100,000 for the radio rights included in the grand total.

KAMMANN AND SMITH RULE AS FAVORITES FOR DOUBLES TITLE

By Davison Obear

McNeill Smith and Karl Kammann will oppose Herbert Weinstock and Joyce Portnoy in the final round of the St. Louis District men's doubles tennis championship at Lewis Park, University City, this afternoon. The match will begin at 3 o'clock and will be the best three out of five sets.

The match will be the last of the St. Louis District tennis championships for 1936. Howard V. Stephens Jr. won the men's singles title when he defeated McNeill Smith in the final last week. Lois Keene captured the women's singles, while the doubles title went to Mercedia Weiss and Mrs. Jean Dalstrom.

Weinstock and Portnoy advanced to the final by eliminating Teddy Eggmann and Jack Gordon in straight sets in a semifinal match earlier in the week. Smith and Kammann eliminated the Stephens brothers, Howard and [illegible]Leod, yesterday.

The final is likely to be hard fought. It may go the limit of five sets before the champions are determined. Smith and Kammann appear slight favorites because of their victories over the Stephens brothers and the team of Gus Fehmer and Bert Lambert the day before.

Weinstock and Portnoy, on the other hand, had a little less competition to meet on the way to the final round. However the surprising ease in which they defeated Eggmann and Gordon in the semifinals indicates their strength. Eggmann and Gordon had previously eliminated Frank Keaney and Ward Parker, a team which had been considered a strong favorite for the title.

Smith and Kammann had to play an uphill battle to defeat the Stephens brothers. The Yale University players ran up a lead of 4 to 1 in games in the first set and led 3 to 1 in the second set. Smith and Kammann won both sets, 8—6 and 7—5.

The closeness of the match is indicated by the stroke analysis of each of the four players, which is as follows: Smith—Nets 15, outs 12, placements 14, double faults 3. Kammann—Nets 14, outs 14, placements 14, double faults 3. Howard Stephens—Nets 13, outs 15, placements 11, double faults 5. McLeod Stephens—Nets 16, outs 11, placements 14, double faults 5.

Only one match was played in the invitation mixed doubles tournament. Evelyn Caporal and Roland Klein defeated Mrs. Marcella Kranzberg and William Kreuger, 6—3, 0—6, 6—3, to enter the semifinal round.

Two-Hour Match Ends U. S. Girls' Tennis Tourney

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12—Rallying from the brink of defeat, Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, won the national girls' tennis championship today, beating Eleanor Dawson of Piedmont, Cal., 6—8, 10—8, 6—2, in a gruelling two-hour match.

Miss Dawson, leading 5 to 4 in games in the second set, had match point at 40—30, but knocked a forehand smash into the net and then double-faulted to lose the game.

It was the turning point of the match as Miss Osborne came back to win the third set in comparatively easy fashion.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Hon. Dizzy Dean—most gaseous member of the Gas House Gang—will now give you the low-down on the world series.

"The Giants," began Diz, "haven't got a chance to beat the Yanks in the world series.

"Even the Cubs would make a better showing than the Giants in a short series like that.

"And the Cards are the only team in our league that can take the Yanks.

"Smith might cause them some trouble but guys like Fitz and Gabler and those other guys don't figure to bother them none."

Then what makes Mr. Dean so confident the Cards could beat them?

"Well," grinned Diz, "the Cards got Old Diz. Old Diz can't pitch every day through a seaso. but in a short series Old Diz could sure fog 'em through for three games.

"Yes, sir, for all that do-re-mi, Old Diz might even take 'em four times if he had to."

Did Old Diz figure the Cards were out of it now?

"Shucks, no," said Old Diz. "Old Diz will pitch four, maybe five times and that's four or five we win.

"I get tired in the late innings now. The old zipper ain't on the fast one like it was early in the season. But I'm still plenty fast for most of these banjo hitters."

One more question. What did Old Diz think of the Yanks' pitching?

"Say, with power like they got, they don't need much pitching. I understand their pitchers ain't so hot, but I guess they're good enough to take any of them Giants except Hubbell. That Hubbell, now there's a pitcher.

"Chuck" Dressen won a suit of clothes from Bill Terry when the Reds took the Giants' measure for the ninth time this year, such being the basis of the bet.

When there is a suit of clothes at stake, the Giants are made to order for the Reds.

A pre-tournament favorite, Coggeshall needs to win only one more set to gain the finals. Play will be resumed Saturday.

One other quarterfinal match was rained out.

Clele Tyner, Shenandoah, Ia., won the first set of his match with Cy Yates, also of Shenandoah, but Yates took the second set, 7—5.

Four Members of American Walker Cup Golf Team Quoted at 10-1 in Pre-tournament Odds.

By the Associated Press.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 12.—New York betting commissioners, active despite the opposition of the United States Golf Association, have established John Goodman, Omaha, and Albert "Scotty" Campbell, Seattle, as favorites to win the national amateur golf championship next week at odds of 8-1.

Though neither has won the title, the critics agree with the commissioners that these two are outstanding at this stage of the game. Goodman is in the first quarter of the draw, Campbell in the third and they cannot meet until the final. The tourney begins next Monday.

Four members of the American Walker Cup team—Johny Fischer, Cincinnati, Walter Emery, Oklahoma City, Charlie Yates, Atlanta, and Reynolds Smith, Dallas—are quoted at 10-1, with C. Ross "Sandy" Somerville, Canada, and Fred Haas, New Orleans, the Canadian amateur champion.

On their play in the past few weeks, Somerville, Haas, Fischer and Smith are generally favored by the critics in the 10-1 bracket. Haas beat Somerville in the semifinals of the Canadian amateur and in the opinion of many experts should have been a member of the American Walker Cup team. Somerville has played 36 holes over the Garden City course in the last two days and is one stroke up on par. Smith is undoubtedly a better golfer now than he was a year ago, and Fischer is back again in his 1934 form.

Back in the 20-1 bracket is Gordon Peters of the British Walker Cup team, a player whose game is being praised more as the championship draws near. Members of the American Walker Cup team give him a better chance to come through than Jack McLean, though McLean is credited with having the soundest iron game of any of the British players.

Three Veterans Impress.

One of the most interesting features of the pre-tournament talk is the conviction of many that three veterans, Eddis Driggs and Rudy Knepper of the Home Club, and Jess Sweetser, former British and American amateur champion, are going to be back near the top.

Sweetser has been out of serious competition for almost five years now and is completing his most strenuous campaign since the 1920's. Though he played in the 1934 amateur, he had not prepared for the tournament grind and was put out in the third round by Harry Givan of Seattle. This year, however, he is ready and on his own admission he is hitting the ball as well as ever in his life.

Both Driggs and Knepper will be playing on their home course and they have spent the summer on the practice tee in preparation.

Changes Made in Pairings.

Eight changes in the pairings were announced yesterday. Changes were due to withdrawals for various reasons. Following are the changes, with starting times for Monday:

8:25—Harry Bentley, England, vs. Walter Blevins, Kansas City, who replaces Grabel Duvall Jr., Kansas City.
Ed White of Dallas, who was scheduled to play Levi Yoder of Bethesda, Md., and who is reported to have returned to his home, has not yet notified the U. S. G. A. of his withdrawal and until there is an official notification, no substitute will be provided.

BATH SUES TO BREAK CONTRACT WITH KEARNS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Edward Henry Bath, heavyweight boxer of Fort Morgan, Colo., charging he was under age when he made the contract, filed suit in Superior Court today to declare void the document into which he had entered with Jack Kearns, fight manager.

Bath contends he was 20 years of age when the contract was signed Feb. 7, 1936, and that he will not be 21 until Oct. 8. The suit, filed in the name of Bath's father, Jacob, asks that the contract be voided so Bath can fight for others.

Anchors Aweigh on the Middies' Gridiron

Good Kicker Chief Need of Muellerleile and Conzelman; Teams Likely to Use Passes

By James M. Gould.

A stout defense in football is "devoutly to be wished" but it is a moral certainty that, without an attack with points in it, no team can run up many victories. So, it is natural that Coach Muellerleile at St. Louis and Coach Conzelman at Washington even in these early days of practice are first setting up their scoring machinery. "What have we got to score with?" is the question each is asking himself. Somehow or other, the defense seems always to take care of itself and there also is the adage that "the best defense is a strong offense." It's a cinch the other fellow cannot score if you have possession of the ball.

While the coaches at the two local colleges quite naturally refuse to go on record, it isn't especially difficult to select the first-string backfield combinations. It wouldn't be at all surprising, for instance, if, when the Billikens play the Missouri Miners on the night of Sept. 25, Lou Drone should be directing play with Herrmany and Nunn at the halves and Kloepper at fullback.

On the next afternoon, at Francis Field, the Bears will oppose Bradley Tech from Peoria. Either Tommy Ozment or Jones Klein will be at quarter and will call signals to Bob Hudgens and Dick Yore at the halves and to Joe Bukant at fullback.

So far, so good. Of course, Bob Shea may be in Nunn's place in the Billiken backfield when the first whistle of the season shrills or Mel McGonnigle, the great freshman prospect of a year ago, may be a starter but it isn't likely. And, for the Bears, only the occupant of the quarterback position is undetermined.

Bears' Line Is Set.

There is more certainty about the starting line at Washington for Captain Iezzi will be at center, Bertagnolli and Londy will be at the guards, Tomlinson and Bowman at the tackles and Hafeli and Brungard at the ends. For St. Louis, there are some feuds on for position. Either the more experienced Hartman or the fast-coming sophomore, Gorman, will be at center with the chances favoring Ben Putnam and Vollmer at the guards, Rossini and Cianciolo at the tackles and Captain Fitzgerald and Tom Mitchell at the ends.

The Billiken's second backfield combination of Veith at quarter, Shea and McGonnigle at the halves and Cagle at full would seem to have an edge over Washington's second-stringers—Minkey and Fercecky at halves and Tracy at full.

Either Klein or Ozment would be the quarter with this second combination of Bear backs. The edge goes to the Billikens inasmuch as McGonnigle would be the only sophomore, while the Washington set would consist of three sophs, a none-too-safe group no matter how individually good the players are.

Both Muellerleile and Conzelman are questing for a kicker. Neither has an outstanding punter in sight and, at present, it looks as though Klein would do the kicking for the Bears when he is in the lineup and Bukant when Klein isn't. Lou Drone is the most dependable Billiken kicker with McGonnigle next best and even a bit longer than Drone.

Bukant Is Good Passer.

Probably, not one of the kickers on either eleven will get more than 35 yards and, in these days when kicking is an offensive as well as a defensive weapon, that condition is none too helpful. How Washington could use a Ray Hobbs or St. Louis a Joe Lintzenich during the coming campaign.

In passing, as long as Bukant is in action, the Bears won't have to take a back seat to any team in the State or in several other states, for Joe is a bullet passer par excellence. His passes are easy to catch and, with Hudgens and Yore on the receiving end, Conzelman has little to worry about. Bukant outranks any passer the Billikens can produce. Johnny Nunn is Muellerleile's best, with Shea by no means a bad heaver and Cagle improving every practice day.

The Billikens probably will be first to scrimmage. They have plenty of material, while the Bears will have only infrequent contact work because of the smallness of the squad and the danger of injury to first stringers.

Out at Washington, yesterday, a fire hose played on the practice field for several hours between morning and afternoon workouts. The men had been playing on a field as hard as concrete.

Joe Bukant appeared for practice for the first time, leaving Walter Gog the only prominent Washington absentee. Dave Ruhl, Billiken end, may report today. He has been working at Yellowstone National Park.

It looks very much as though passing will be the chief offense of both Billikens and Bears. At least, that is the present indication.

LITTLE PAT WINNER IN RACING FEATURE

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 12.—Little Pat, owned by H. D. Biery of Butler, Pa., and driven by Charles Lacey, won all three heats of the three-year-old pace which featured the closing program of the Grand Circuit meeting at the Indiana State Fair yesterday.

The victorious gelding led the way home with room to spare in the first test but was pushed by Warren C. Grattan in the other two.

The 2:17 trot furnished somewhat of a surprise when Linworthy, driven by Claire Wolverton, captured the last two heats after finishing tenth in the initial test.

Colonel Drew, also handled by Lacey, took all three heats of the 2:18 pace but the final event on the card, a 2:24 trot, required four heats for a decision. Patricia Hanover, after doing no better than tenth and fifth in the first two heats, won the third and then defeated the other two heat winners, Nancy Jo and Donald Truax, in the deciding trip around the mile oval.

EIGHTH—RED SOX — Kroner popped to Lary. Cronin singled to left. Dahlgren hit into the left field seats for a home run and scored behind Cronin. Rick Ferrell walked. Thomas was taken out and Knott went in to pitch for the Browns. Alamada batted for Henry and grounded to Bottomley. Gaffke struck out. TWO RUNS.

BROWNS—Olson went in to pitch for Boston. West got a two-base hit when his drive caromed off Kroner's glove to center field. Bejma sacrificed, Olson to Kroner on firm. Giuliani popped to Rick Ferrell. Kroner threw out Knott.

NINTH—RED SOX — Werber lined to Lary. Cramer singled to center. Foxx hit into a double play, Lary to Bejma to Bottomley.

Cobb Sets Eight Auto Records

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept. 12. — England's John Cobb, surviving a breath-taking skid near the end of a 24-hour drive, smashed eight world motor car speed records today.

For the day and night grind over this Saline Desert speedway Cobb set a new record of 150.1629 miles per hour.

It was a narrow margin. The old mark of 149.09 M. P. H. was set here only three months ago by the smiling London fur broker's taciturn countryman, Capt. E. T. Eyston.

Cobb's seven other new records —only incidental to the coveted 24-hour prize—ranged from 1000 miles up.

Four of these also were snatched from Capt. Eyston and two from Ab Jenkins of Utah, first driver to test the billiard-table surface of the flats 130 miles west of Salt Lake City.

Jenkins, balked in a projected 24-hour run last Monday by car trouble, hopes to be back on the course Monday—trying to regain the records for the United States.

Cut up by the ceaseless pounding of the Briton's heavy Napier-Railton, the course was in bad shape for the last 10 hours.

But it was not until near the end that the handful of spectators including Cobb's English mechanics and relief drivers, felt apprehension.

Then, shortly before 6 a. m.—the run ended at 7:25:05 a. m. Pacific standard time (9:25:05 St. Louis time)—the airplane-motored racer went into a dangerous skid.

The car careened broadside down and off the track. A crash seemed imminent. For a split second, it hung precariously on two wheels.

Leads Golf Field

Hubert Echle's net score of 69 was low in the fourth summer golf tournament of the Advertisers' Association held yesterday. Jim Hynes and Wallace Kletzker tied for second with 71. Low gross went to Max Marse, with an 80, while Wilson Condit had the fewest putts, 28.

LITTLE SCORES 69 FOR THIRD 18, HAS 202 FOR 54 HOLES

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 12.—Firing his third consecutive sub-par round, Lawson Little of San Francisco paced the field in the Canadian open golf championship at the 54-hole mark today with an aggregate of 202, lowest score at this point in the history of the tournament. Little toured the St. Andrews club layout in 69 today after scoring 67-66 on his first two rounds.

Ed Dudley of Bala, Pa., and Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich. were next. Dudley, touring the course in 68 strokes, had 211, a stroke ahead of Watrous who added a 71 for his third round.

LAST YEAR'S WINNERS TO DEFEND TITLE IN FATHER AND SON GOLF

John and Lyle Shontz, defending champions of the Father and Son golf tournament, sponsored by the St. Louis District Golf Association, will be on hand tomorrow afternoon for the annual event. The tournament will be held over the Bellerive Country Club course.

Cornie Schnecko, secretary of the Association, announced that 76 entries had been filed. This surpasses the old high mark of 72 by four entries and more probably will trickle in at the starting tee tomorrow.

Hal Macoy, junior and senior, last year's runner-up combination, the Roger Lords, the Paul Jamisons and the Les Slatterys are among the prominent entries filed to date.

The tournament will be conducted under Scotch twosome rules — each member of the team taking turns in hitting the ball. Each partner will drive from the tee and the best ball then will be played to the cup.

NATIONAL SOFTBALL TOURNEY OPENING IS PREVENTED BY RAIN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The opening of the fourth anuual national softball championship tournament scheduled for today, was postponed until tomorrow because of rain.

Officials in charge of the event said they would decide between following the previously arranged schedule, moving it back a day and finishing Tuesday instead of Monday, or building a new program. The latter plan would increase the number of Sunday games to provide for a Monday closing.

Slacks Win City Softball Title

The Slack men of South Side Softball Park won the men's division of the city tournament sponsored by the American Soft Ball Association, defeating the Vics of West Side, 4 to 0, in the final game of a two-out-of-three series, last night at Sisler South Side Park. The Slacks won the first game, 5 to 0, and lost the second, 10 to 1. This is the first city championship for the Slacks although they succeeded in winning the South Side Park championship for four consecutive seasons.

The Curlee girls of West Side won third place in the city tournament by beating Mordie Wolf's of Maplewood, 3 to 2. The Wagner Electric men of Maplewood will meet the Hermanns of West Side tonight at South Side Park for third and fourth place honors in the men's division.

WRAY'S COLUMN

It Makes a Difference.

MONTREAL police raided the offices of a bookmakers' racing news association in the Canadian city recently, destroying the equipment used to supply bookies with betting information.

According to report, the head of the bureau had refused to close his offices during the period of the Blue Bonnets racing meet. This meant that Montreal bookmakers would be operating, and perhaps taking away some of the revenue to the province, which derives a per cent from the mutuels.

The same situation has developed in the United States in various large cities with the growth of legalized mutuels. So long as the state had no interest in race track receipts, the matter did not interest officials. Today, however, states are partners with the race tracks, at least in sharing receipts. The handbook has become fair game. The squeeze play is on and the bookie is right in the middle.

• • •

Why Not License Him?

THEY treat the bookmaker better in Germany where identical conditions exist. In Berlin the State legalizes the handbook or the poolroom and the bookmaker pays a license for the privilege of operating.

Crushing the bookie is not the simple thing it seems. In Chicago, where the handbooks were tightly closed, it was estimated that more than 30,000 persons were thrown out of work and forced on relief, when the shutdown occurred.

Bookmaking is a flourishing and widespread activity. To destroy it might result in a backfire equivalent to a strike of many thousands of persons. Possibly a better way might be to follow Germany's example and license the books, let them live and give the state a revenue.

• • •

Harvest Time at 'Gansett.

AS FAR as racing is concerned, Prosperity Corner has been turned.

At Narragansett track, Pawtucket, R. I., the mutuel handle for a single Saturday was $749,000, and for Labor day $1,100,000.

For the two days the State and the race track promoters earned a gross of $208,000, the same representing 10 per cent of the pool and breakage.

The figures are interesting as showing the profits possible over a 50-day period, which has been about the usual annual racing allotment of Narragansett.

It is also interesting as suggesting that a country which can pay millions for its racing entertainment must be financially in the pink.

Our Pat-Ball Tennis Stars.

VINCENT RICHARDS, Davis Cup star of other days, more recently a professional of first ranking, lays our national tennis plight at the door of Mercer Beasley, famous tennis coach, who brought out Frankie Parker and other young players.

"Beasley taught Parker and other pupils to win on opponents' errors rather than by attacking and scoring placements. Beasley's pupils have had some success with this type of play." Richards told an interviewer recently, "and now numbers of the younger set are imitating them. The result has been pat-ball tennis."

A return to the type of game played by Bill Tilden, Little Bill Johnston and Norris Williams is advocated by Richards as the way to correct the present tendency.

No Matter of Choice.

RICHARDS overlooks the fact that it is not within the power of every player to make himself what he chooses. Physical and mental makeup ultimately determine what type of player a tennis, baseball or football athlete is to become.

If the player hasn't the motor built into him he can't do the things that a high-geared rival is able to. And if a man's mental attitude is defensive by nature, training can do very little toward making it aggressive.

Only now and then do tennis players who have everything come along. Tilden, Cochet and Perry belong to this type. America is unfortunate in not having another Tilden come up since Big Bill's sun set.

Davey Abad Returns.

DAVEY ABAD, Panama boxer, who has made many good opponents appear foolish, is with us again, seeking engagements.

Davey recently fought Featherweight Champion Petey Sarron, the roughhouse boy from Birmingham, and lost a 10-round engagement. Davey says he led for six rounds and then folded up because of having taken off too much weight.

"I had Pete missing plenty while I was strong," commented Abad—and all of those who have seen this clever boxer at work can visualize what the wild swinger Sarron must have looked like against the crafty Davey.

Abad was one of the past masters of that almost forgotten art, ducking. Davey's first line defense was not his gloves and forearms, as with most boxers. Instead of guarding the target, Davey believed in moving it. Blows aimed at David's conch seldom found the target—it wasn't there.

Abad was great in other defensive maneuvers. But, like so many great defensive fighters, his attack was feeble. He couldn't dent a creampuff.

Opponents quickly learn that weakness and when once an opponent who can hit is convinced that his opponent can't, life for the defensive fighter becomes a burden.

• • •

The Mighty Atom.

DEFENSIVE fighters who can hit have been very few in any class. The man with the devastating punch usually wastes little time trying to acquire finesse. He's content with elementary boxing knowledge—enough to enable him to get in close and let go.

Probably the best defensive boxer of modern times, who carried dynamite as well, was Jimmy Wilde. Jimmy was the finest defensive fighter this writer has seen in 40 years—and he carried a terrific punch for his poundage. A flyweight, weighing 106, he beat featherweights consistently.

We saw fast punchers like Bantamweight Jack Sharkey 15 years ago, corner Wilde two or three times in their fight at Milwaukee and yet Wilde, coolly rolling his head with the punches, blocking and parrying his opponent's leads, walk out of the trap unhurt.

• • •

Too bad that all boxers are not forced to go through serious training in all fundamentals, particularly in all forms of legitimate defense. There would be numerous great fighters, then, for the material is better today than ever before.

COBB SETS NEW 12-HOUR MARK IN AUTO EVENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BONNEVILLE SPEEDWAY, Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 12. — Two additional world auto racing marks had been shattered today by John Cobb of London in his Napier-Railton Bullet.

Zooming around the salt flats course, late last night, the blonde English dare-devil officially broke the world's 12-hour record formerly held by Ab Jenkins of Salt Lake. He averaged 153.98 miles an hour, as compared with the old mark of 152.84.

He also cracked George Eyston's 2000-mile record of 149.27, by traveling the distance at an average speed of 152.96 miles an hour.

STAG NINE DEFEATS HAWAIIANS, 8 TO 3

Pushing across two runs in the seventh and three in the eighth, the Belleville Stags broke a 3-3 tie and defeated the Hawaiian All-Star baseball team, 8 to 5, last night at Athletic Park, Belleville.

The score by innings:

DRAWS AWAY FROM FLYING SCOT TO TAKE $5000 STAKE

By the Associated Press.

AQUEDUCT, N. Y., Sept. 12.—J. H. Louchheim's Pompoon, advance favorite for the rich Belmont Futurity, took another important step nearer to the juvenile title here today when he won the fourteenth Junior Champion of six and a half furlongs.

For nearly six furlongs it was a thrilling, ding-dong battle between the Philadelphia-owned son of Pompey and John Hay Whitney's 20 to 1 shot, Flying Scot. Then Pompoon slowly but surely demonstrated his superiority and was going easily in the final strides to win by three parts of a length in the excellent time of 1:18 1-5.

A. G. Vanderbilt's Tedious, eight lengths back and a half length before Maemere's Rockwood. E. R. Bradley's Biologist was last in the feld of five. Besides the winner, Flying Scot and Biologist were named for theFu turity, which also is at six and a half furlongs.

Pompoon, carrying 119 pounds ,or nine more than Flying Scot, was a 2 to 7 favorite with the big throng, which, however, did not measure up to the 20,000 or so that visited the course Labor day. It was Pompoon's fifth score in six races. His more important previous success was in the national Stallion Stakes at Belmont. He earned $5530 today.

Makes It a Real Race.

Flying Scot's chief claim to recognition prior to this event was his second in the Saratoga Special. He showed brilliant speed to make it a real contest most of the trip, but Pompoon proved too much for him with the money in sight.

The Whitney colt had the advantage of being handled by the crack two-year-old rider, Johnny Gilbert. The Pittsburg, Kan., saddle artist rushed Flying Scot right to the front in a good start, but Harry Richards quickly sent Pompoon up to begin a long head and head duel. It was not until well inside the sixteenth pole that Pompoon began to draw away from the pacemaker, which he did in commendable fashion.

Tedious lacked the foot to be an early contender and was hard pressed to beat Rockwood. Biologist showed a flash of early speed.

Gilbert, who had ridden the long shot Flying Scot to second place behind the sensational Pompoon in the Junior Champion, rode a faultless race on Action. The one time jumper, winner of the Aqueduct Handicap a week ago, had Ann O'Ruley for a running rival right from the start. The lightly weighted filly hung on gamely into the final drive, where Action drew away under strong urging. Count Arthur, rated third into the stretch, just got up to nip Ann O'Ruley at the wire, while Goldeneye also closed with good courage. He was an easy fourth over the plodding Tatterdemalion. Giant Killer, Mantagna and Whizzaway brought up the rear.

Action Wins Edgemere.

Action , the converted jumper which has scaled the heighths through a succession of claiming races, graded affairs and finally, topflight handicaps since being purchased for $1000 by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs last spring, continued his amazing victory march by winning the seventeenth Edgemere handicap of a mile and a furlong.

The seven-year-old son of Clambala led seven smart rivals virtually from the break and took the $5030 winner's share of the purse by a length and a half under Johnny Gilbelt. It was his tenth success in 11 efforts this year and brought his total earnings for the season to $17,985, or nearly 18 times what he cost.

Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Arthur, recent hard-luck second in the Washington Park Handicap; Mrs. A. A. Baroni's Ann O'Ruley and A. A. Baroni's Goldeneye, the latter pair coupled, were bunched for the place. They were placed in that order after the photo had been examined. Action, carrying 122 pounds, ran the nine furlongs in 1:49 4-5 and was a 7 to 5 choice. He gave Trainer Hirsch Jacobs his one hundred and twenty-eighth triumph of 1936.

"Go South in Winter, Young Lady," Is Mrs. Hill's Advice to Girls Who Want to Succeed as Golfers

By W. J. McGoogan.

"Go South in the winter time, young lady, if you want to become a top ranking golfer," says Mrs. Opal S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion in the Missouri women's tournament which gets under way at Algonquin Golf Club Monday.

Mrs. Hill, in her thirteenth season as a golfer, has won many championships among them five Trans-Mississippi titles, three Western closed tournament and two Western open events. She has won the Kansas City medal play title eight times and has been a member of the United States Curtis Cup team four times, winning three matches and losing one in international competition with British women.

In addition Mrs. Hill has been a semifinalist in the United States women's tournament three times and has won numerous minor championships in and around Kansas City.

Gives Her Start.

"I believe it was my first trip to the winter tournaments in Florida which gave me my start," said Mrs. Hill at Algonquin yesterday as she went around in her first practice round in preparation for the defense of her State title, "there I met the best women golfers of the East who, at that time, played much better than anybody we had developed in the Middle-West.

"I saw the necessity for accuracy and concentration and think it was that training which enabled me to push through to my first championship in an important tournament, the North-South, in 1928."

Concentration and accuracy are perhaps the strongest points of Mrs. Hill's game. She is not a particularly long hitter but she gets her drives down the middle of the fairway and once close to the greens hers is a deadly shot.

She showed that at Algonquin where she breezed around the course in 77, the first time she had played it, sinking two approach shots from off the green for threes, one at the fifth hole, which is 410 yards long, running along the railroad tracks at the East Side of the course with a ditch splitting the fairway some 100 yards from the green.

It is a tricky hole for any player as those who play it regularly can attest. But Mrs. Hill put her second shot over the creek just short of the green and played another practice shot which reached the putting surface.

She chipped in her first ball for a three then banged in a 35-foot putt with her practice ball for another three just to show it was no fluke.

Then at the ninth her second rolled over the right edge of the green halfway down the grassy slope in a trap and she pitched out of there and the ball ran into the hole for another three.

She was out in 38 and back in 39 to just equal women's par for the course, a score which has been bettered just once, that by Joyce Wethered the great English player, looked upon as the greatest woman player in the world. Miss Wethered had a 75 last summer when she played an exhibition at Algonquin.

Mrs. Hill began golf rather late, as it was not until she was 30 years old that she took up the game. She was sport-minded, having played basketball and tennis when she was in school and golf suited her right off.

Makes Many Sacrifices.

Naturally to reach the heights in the game she has reached much time had to be sacrificed and many other pursuits foresworn but she thinks the contacts she has made in golf with other people of similar tastes has paid her for the effort she has put into it.

Mrs. Hill began her play in the National right here in St. Louis when the women's tournament was held at the Country Club and she qualified in the championship flight only to lose to Edith Cummings on the eighteenth hole and Miss Cummings went on to win.

Mrs. Hill next appeared at the St. Louis Country Club when the Trans-Mississippi was held there and she won that title, defeating Mrs. I. S. Hynes in the final match. She shot a 72 during the tournament which she says was perhaps the best round of golf she ever played, although she qualified in the Western Open at Topeka, Kan., this year with a record 71.

In her play in major tournaments, Mrs. Hill, of course, is familiar with the outstanding younger players of the country and she believes that Patty Berg, Minneapolis, is the best of them all. Next, she ranks Marion Miley but says the young Kentucky miss has a defect in her game in that she favors her irons too much over her wood clubs, preferring to play long irons to the greens rather than woods when the shot really calls for a wood.

"Miss Miley and her father, who is a golf professional, realize this about Marion, but she has been unable to overcome it," Mrs. Hill said. "She plays with a closed face to her club and is unable to pick up the ball off the fairway with a wood club like she should

"Miss Berg has the power of concentration to a remarkable degree," Mrs. Hill continued. "She didn't play as well in Europe as we had hoped she would, but I believe that was because she began to doubt herself. She went over with such a bang to start with and established such a reputation that suddenly she began to ask herself if she was really that good. Consequently, she tried to live up to her reputation, tried too hard and slipped a little.

"That is a period which is common with golfers who develop so suddenly, but she will get over it and when she does she will be great because she has every shot in her bag and concentrates on every shot."

A Topheavy Favorite.

Mrs. Hill, of course, will be the overwhelming favorite to repeat her 1935 triumph in the State tournament, but Sara Louise Guth, the St. Louis district golf champion, also is playing well and, if the two should happen to meet in the final, it should be a good match.

Sara, returning from her summer vacation, played 15 holes at Algonquin and, when she quit, needed three pars for a 78. She is hitting her shots well and, with her competitive spirit, should go a long way in the tournament.

The number of entrants passed the 125 mark and that many or more are expected to be paired today.

Not many of those from other points in the State arrived yesterday, but are expected here today in considerable numbers. The course will be open only to out-of-town players today, and tomorrow the tournament gets under way in the afternoon with driving, approaching and putting contests.

BEAUSTRING IS POINT WINNER OVER PIERSON

By the narrow margin of one point, Roland Beaustring, St. Louis A. C. welterweight, won his three-round fight with Art Pierson in the feature of last night's amateur boxing program at the West Side Softball Park.

Pierson, a South Broadway representative, gained a draw from one judge, a 60-58 verdict from another, but the third decided in Beaustring's favor, 60—57, and so the winner was determined.

The manner in which the judges voted was a good indication of the closeness of the bout. Pierson used a left jab most effectively, nearly closing Beaustring's right eye, but Roland showed better ring generalship, particularly in the second round, when he had his opponent in trouble.

Two other bouts, scheduled as feature attractions were canceled. In one, Oscar Gardner, Cleveland welterweight, was to have met Al Brendle and in the other, Forrest Potts was to have fought Al Garrett, Negro 112-pounder, in a mixed bout. It was explained that Gardner had an infected tooth and that Potts had been injured in a training session.

Jack Conway defeated Eric Koberg.
Al Beauhuld defeated Scotty Ward.
Jimmy Mundloch deefated Bob Haggard, Kansas City, weight 160 pounds.

NEGRO BOUTS.

Moses Barrett, Brown Bombers A. C., defeated Mike Robb, Madison, Ill. Technical knockout, third round. Heavyweights.
Nathan Logan, Pine Street Y, defeated Theo. Robinson, Brown Bombers A. C. Weight 160 pounds.

BIG TEN TEAMS IN SEARCH FOR REPLACEMENTS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The search for new talent to replace aces lost by graduation was on in earnest around the Big Ten football camps today.

Bob Zuppke, sending his 85 Illinois candidates through a strenuous session which included a hard scrimmage, was impressed by the ball-handling and running of three sophomores, Ken Zimmerman, a fullback, and Jack Broaday and Leo Stasica, halfbacks. Zuppke is hunting a replacement for Les Lindberg, star punting halfback of the 1935 eleven.

Shifting at Chicago.

At Chicago, Coach Clark Shaughnessy shifted players constantly as he sought a combination which would click and a halfback to fill the spot left vacant by the graduation of the great Jay Berwanger. Carl Frick, a rangy transfer student from Arkansas, impressed the mentor and may land a flank job.

The Northwestern Wildcats, who face a tough opener in Iowa Oct. 3, were lashed through a seven-hour workout of signal running, kicking, blocking and tackling, with Lynn Waldorf giving several sophomores special attention.

The Minnesota camp, looking ahead to a curtain raiser against the strong Washington Huskies, saw Bernie Bierman try two halfbacks, Rudy Gmitro, 160 pounds, and Wilbur Moore, 175-pound sophomore, at fullback, the spot Sheldon Beise filled so capably last season.

Despite intermittent rains, Harry Stuhldreher drove his Wisconsin Badgers through a long drill, stressing speed in running plays and the aerial attack. Howard Weiss, sophomore back, looked good flipping the oval.

At Iowa, the Hawkeyes participated in a light scrimmage and practiced kick formations, while at Michigan Harry Kipke announced that the Wolverines this season will have an offense built primarily around punt formations, which he described as "the most effective way of getting touchdowns."

Indiana candidates donned track clothes under the hot sun, with passers and punters getting lots of work, while the Purdue camp took things easy because of the high temperatures. Noble Kizer announced he intended to use Forrest Burmeister, 210 pounds, at right guard this season. He was out with an ankle injury in 1935.

At Notre Dame.

At Ohio State, Jim McDonald received approving nods from Francis Schmidt as he called signals, blocked and caught and tossed passes in mid-season form.

Softball Final Today

The Y. M. C. A. softball championship will be decided this afternoon when the Friedman-Shelby and Wagner teams meet at the Blewett High School field at 2:30 o'clock. The first game ended in a 5-5 tie score.

Parmelee a "Flashy" Pitcher at Start of Season, Has Faded Since Flag Fight Became "Hot"

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Chalk up another one for William Harold Terry in the "good trades" department of the record. It is about time to put that deal of Burgess Whitehead for Leroy Earl Parmelee on the scales of mature judgment and admit that Bill Terry had the better of the transaction.

Parmelee was a flashy pitcher in the early weeks of the campaign, but since the weather and the fighting became hot, Parmelee has not been able to shoulder his share of the burden as a member of Frankie Frisch's hurling staff and it was his failure yesterday afternoon that caused the Gas House Gang, still fighting tooth and nail, to drop another half-game farther behind the Giants.

Spotty Pitching.

In the first game Bill Walker and Mike Ryba did the pitching, or what the Cardinals had to nickname their pitching, and thanks to a 16-hit attack, including two home runs and a triple by the juvenile Donald Gutteridge, the Cardinals won the game, 12 to 8. Walker's work wasn't bad, though he did weaken in the fourth inning and yield two runs that tied the score. The work of Ryba was unimpressive. With the score 12 to 3 in his favor, going into the ninth, he had to be taken out because the lead was melting as ice before the sun in a well-known intemperate zone.

Having won the first game, the Cardinals were in fine position to reduce the Giants' first-place margin to three games, regardless of what happened at the Polo Grounds. Frisch had said he planned to start Bill McGee. It's too bad he didn't go through with it. Or it's too bad he didn't start Old Pop Haines, who finally got into the game and did the best pitching of the day for the Redbirds, only to be charged with the defeat because the one run off his delivery was the fifth Dodger tally and one that broke a four-four tie.

Instead, Frisch started Parmelee, and the Tarzan person was about as ineffective as in the game he started at Pittsburgh, in which he was belted for three runs.

Jimmy Jordan hit Parmelee's first pitch into the left field bleachers for a homer. Cooney picked on the second or perhaps it was the fourth and singled to left. Stripp struck out, but Winsett and Hassett walked and, before Ed Heusser could end the inning, the Dodgers had three runs.

Parmelee has been handicapped by a rib injury. He was hit by a line drive in the first game at Cincinnati, and it was a solid wallop. Undoubtedly it did cause some damage. But the point is that Parmelee has not been reporting to the club treatment room, so he either does not consider himself on the infirmary list or he hasn't had time for such bothersome things as treatments.

Before the injured rib, Parmelee had a finger injury. Like the bad rib, it was a real handicap. He threw the end joint of the middle finger of his right hand out of place pitching, and it bothered him no end. At least, it seemed to Frisch there was no end to the bother.

The point is that Parmelee, whose spirit has been splendid, except for a sluggishness in reporting to the hospital for treatment, has proved to be a fragile, brittle athlete, and he has not done anything like Frisch thought he would do to bolster the hurling staff, when the Fordham Flash gave Burgess Whitehead, the gazelle, to the Giants in the trade.

Whitehead has made the New York infield. He has not broken down any fences, but he has played brilliantly on the defensive all year and he is close to proving that the critics were wrong when they said that he lacked the stamina for a grind of 154 games.

The winning run would not have been scored on Pop Haines if Whitehead had been at second base. In the sixth inning a single off Mungo's bat caromed off Garibaldi's glove to center field, and that hit was the key safety of the rally that produced the Dodger's fifth run.

Several of the Dodger hits would have been easy outs for Whitehead. This is casting no unfair reflection on Garibaldi. He failed as a second baseman in the Pacific Coast League, and it was not until he was switched to third that he attracted attention. It is easy to understand that after seeing him at second in the last few games.

Garibaldi is fast enough, but he does not get a jump on a ball. He does not seem to have good field vision. He cannot judge a batted ball until it is well on his way. The good infielder is off at the crack of the bat. At third base, this weakness is not so noticeable, because the balls are hit more sharply and most of the third baseman's chances are hit straight to him. But the second baseman must be ready to dart to his right or to his left. And Garibaldi is not a good second baseman. He is doing his best and accepting his out-of-place assignment with no question or complaint, but it is not a good infield with the young man from Sacramento at second.

If two games could be taken as a fair indication which of course they cannot—it could be said that the Cardinals have found their third baseman in Donald Gutteridge, an ambitious young man from Columbus.

Don has been in the organization for several years. It seems many years since Charley Barrett first began to button-hole the press and sing the praises of Donald Gutteridge.

"Mark my words," Barrett is always asking people to mark his words—"This youngster will be the Cardinal third baseman one of these years. He can field, throw, hit and is he fast?"

Gutteridge hit two home runs and a triple in the first game, driving in five runs and scoring four and in the second he struck out three times, which any young or old man is likely to do against Van Lingle Mungo, and contributed a double to start a rally that tied the score at 4-4 in the sixth inning. In the field he played a steady game and turned two brilliant plays in the fourth inning of the second game, leaping for glove-handed stops of grounders by Cooney and Stripp, drives that would have been base hits had anybody else on the roster been playing third base.

Don's Opportunity.

This was a great opportunity for Gutteridge, to be called to the Cardinals during the heat of a pennant race, when he was in his best playing condition. He had been in camp before, but always with a minor league tag on him and a ticket for Columbus or Rochester in Secretary Lloyd's pocket. If he continues to play as he has thus far, he will be a candidate for the third base job when the Redbirds go to training camp next year.

Hubbell Has Held Rivals to 22 Runs In Winning Streak

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.

HERE'S the way the record books show why Carl Hubbell, the Giants ace lefthander, is just about the best pitcher in the big leagues this year:

Won 13 straight since July 13.
Started 12 times; pitched 12 full games, one at 10 innings.
Went in for relief once and pitched hitless ball for three innings.
Allowed 79 hits and 22 runs in the 112 innings he pitched in his streak.

TEMPLETON AND ROSLYN BATTLE IN POLO FINAL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The mightiest team in the tournament and one which wasn't figured to have much of a chance—Templeton and Roslyn—meet today at the Meadowbrook Club in the final match of the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup polo tournament.

Handicapped at only 24 goals, in comparison to Templetons' 31, Roslyn reached the final by a surprising victory over the Hurricanes and one, less surprising over old Westbury. Templeton, giving away handicaps, conquered Aurora and Texas.

The Templeton lineup of Michael Phipps, Jimmy Mills, Stewart Iglehart and Winston Guest, includes three players who were on the American side in the Westchester Cup international matches in June. The fourth, Mills, fits in nicely with their style of team play.

The Waterbury tournament is contested annually on a handicap basis by the teams which play on the "flat" in the national open championship. Greentree, the open winner, withdrew in order to prepare for the coming international series with Argentina.

FINAL IN GREAT LAKES YACHT RACE TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The sloop Nancy, owned by H. H. Kimball and representing the Lake Michigan Yachting Association, won the second leg of a series of races off Belmont Harbor yesterday and today will meet the Kathea II, owned by Philip Farnham of Rochester, N. Y., for their class championship of the Great Lakes.

The sloop Robin of the Cleveland Yacht Club, which won the first leg, was dismasted yesterday within 50 feet of the finish line due to improper staying of the mast and did not finish.

The winning time yesterday for the 18-mile course was two hours, 19 minutes and 27 seconds.

"B" AND "C" COUNTY TEAMS TO PLAY GAMES

The boys who are too small to play on the regular elevens of five county schools, will have a chance to engage in competition this season, for the coaches of Kirkwood, Clayton, Wellston, St. Charles, and Ritenour have drawn up a schedule for their "B" and "C" team boys. Each school will play the other twice.

Competition will be on an equal basis, for all players will be classified under the California exponent system, which takes into account the age, weight, height, and year in school. Regular eligibility slips regarding each player will be exchanged by the schools, as the varsity teams do.

This plan will provide many boys, otherwise too small to play, with a chance for gaining experience in actual games. The move should be very beneficial to the schools involved, for it will help develop players for the varsity elevens.

Games in both divisions will be played on Mondays.

The schedules:

"B" SCHEDULE.

Oct. 5—Kirkwood at Clayton; St. Charles at Wellston.

Oct. 12—St. Charles at Ritenour; Clayton at Wellston.

Oct. 19—Wellston at Kirkwood; Ritenour at Clayton.

Oct. 26.—Kirkwood at St. Charles; Wellston at Ritenour.

Nov. 2—Clayton at St. Charles; Ritenour at Kirkwood.

"C" SCHEDULE.

Oct. 5—Clayton at Kirkwood; Wellston at St. Charles.

Oct. 12—Ritenour at St. Charles; Wellston at Clayton.

JURY FOR BLACK LEGION MURDER TRIAL COMPLETED

To Hear Evidence Against 10 of 12 Detroit Men on Trial for Killing C. A. Poole.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Sept. 12.—A jury of 10 men and four women was selected yesterday for the trial of 10 of the men charged with shooting Charles A. Poole to death because he had learned too much about the terroristic activities of the Black Legion.

The selection of the jury began 11 days ago and four panels were summoned before the jury was chosen.

Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan ordered the jury taken to inspect the meeting hall in which the State charges Poole's death was plotted. The trip preceded the opening of testimony.

Twelve men, several of whom have confessed they were present when Poole was killed, are on trial, but two of the defendants waived a jury hearing. Dayton Dean, who said he killed Poole because "that was my order," has pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence. He is expected to be the principal witness for the State.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., CANCELS WATER COMPANY'S FRANCHISE

Acts on Ground of Failure to Provide "Pure and Wholesome" Drink as Stipulated.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 12.—The franchise of the Springfield City Water Co. was terminated late yesterday by an ordinance which the City Council passed in a special session. This action had been urged by a citizens' committee and in mass meetings since an epidemic of intestinal disturbances late in July, alleged to have been caused by the water.

The franchise, granted to O. B. Perkins "and assigns" in 1882, provided that if the company failed to provide "pure and wholesome" water that the city could take over operation of the plant.

Mayor Harry D. Durst, who signed the bill, said that a test case probably would be made in the courts.

Six civil damage suits filed against the company charge that deaths were caused by the water. A report of Dr. Newell R. Ziegler, Missouri University bacteriologist, to the Chamber of Commerce here, said that the epidemic was traceable to the water supply.

MAN IDENTIFIED BY PARENTS AS SON SOUGHT IN MURDER

Suspect in Killing of Policeman at Cincinnati Denies He Is Their Child.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—A man registered as Jack Bailey, 22 years old, of Eagle Rock, Cal., was identified by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keegan today as their son, Frank Keegan, indicted for murder in the killing of Patrolman Lawrence Robbins.

"I never saw you, you're not my parents," the suspect said.

Detectives said Bailey's fingerprints corresponded with those of Keegan and that Alonzo Thompson, 19, of Chesapeake, W. Va., serving a life term for the Robbins' murder, had identified a photograph of Keegan as that of his accomplice. The suspect was taken before Thompson in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus last night, but Thompson refused to "say anything to get anyone else in trouble."

FOUR TIMES MARKET PRICE PAID FOR CHAMPION HOG

A price four times the average market price was obtained for the grand champion hog of the fourth annual Fat Hog Sale for vocational agricultural students of Missouri and Illinois, at an auction held in connection with the show at National Stockyards yesterday.

The champion, owned by Dale Squires, Paris, Mo. high school student, was sold for $139.50. It weighed 310 pounds, so the price was $45 a hundred-weight. The average market price at East St. Louis yesterday was $11.30.

The reserve champion, weighing 250 pounds and exhibited by Charles and Earl Jaeger, Boonville, Mo., wa ssold for $35. All except 385 of the 1263 hogs exhibited in the show were sold at premium prices in the auction.

LOWDEN TO SPEAK FOR LANDON

Former Illinois Governor to Take Stump for Him.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12. — Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois announced yesterday he would take the stump on behalf of Gov. Landon, Republican nominee, for President. Lowden will deliver several speeches, one in Iowa, one in Illinois and a third in a State yet to be selected.

Two Held in Murder at Thayer, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

THAYER, Mo., Sept. 12.—Two men were held for questioning today after the body of Robert Shrable, 43-year-old World War veteran, was taken from Mammoth Springs Lake, late last night. Officers said Shrable apparently had been murdered. Shrable was involved in a fight at a roadhouse between Thayer and Mammoth Springs, Ark., Wednesday night, and friends had not seen him since.

27 Talladega Strikers Indicted.

TALLADEGA, Ala., Sept. 12.—Twenty-seven textile workers were arrested yesterday on grand jury indictments charging conspiracy to keep the Samoset Textile Mills and employes from working.

ONE-TIME BEAUTY WINNER FREED IN OUIJA BOARD MURDER

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., Sept. 12. — Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley, acclaimed 20 years ago as "The American Venus," was freed yesterday of assault with intent to murder. The former New York City beauty contest winner, convicted at her first trial in connection with the killing of her husband, Ernest J. Turley, retired naval petty officer, served two years of a 15-to-25-year sentence before the State Supreme Court granted her a new trial last June 29. Authorities said there was insufficient evidence for a second trial. The charge was dropped.

Turley was shot and fatally wounded at his ranch, near Springerville, Nov. 18, 1933, by his 15-year-old daughter, Mattie. Mattie, later committed to a State school for girls, testified that a ouija board operated by Mrs. Eurley commanded her to shoot her father "so mother could marry a handsome cowboy."

SURVEY OF INSTITUTIONS FOR JUVENILES PROPOSED

National Conference to Take Up Report of Committee, as Yet Undisclosed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—A proposal for a critical survey of American institutions for juvenile delinquency was up for debate today at the annual convention of the National Conference of Juvenile Agencies.

The survey was first advocated at last year's conference at Atlanta, Ga. The Osborne Association, prison study group founded by the late Thomas Mott Osborne, asked the conferenc to indorse an Osborne study. The conference refused, but set up a committee to decide whether an inquiry was desirable and, if so, what agency should make it.

The text of the report was undisclosed, but the committee chairman, Roy L. McLaughlin of Meriden, Conn., said regardless of its reception a move would be made to divorce the Juvenile Conference and the American Prison Association Congress, its parent organization. It is felt that institutions for girls and boys should be classified as educational rather than penal, McLaughlin said.

SENATOR VANDENBERG ASSAILS ROOSEVELT FOR QUOTING BIBLE

Says He "Moved Up to Another and Final Altitude in Striving to Defend Self."

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 12.—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Republican campaign speaker, criticised President Roosevelt's use of a quotation from the twenty-third Psalm in his Charlotte (N. C.) address Thursday.

He said that the President, in quoting from the Bible, "moved up to another and final altitude in striving for an adequate simile to defend his own estimate of his own achievements"

"If this campaign is going to turn into a search of the holy writs for text or challenge," Vandenberg went on, "then I prefer the admonition 'look ye to the rock whence ye are hewn.' That rock is the constitution and an utterly independent Supreme Court. When the Constitution speaks it is the voice of the people. So I say 'look ye to the rock.' "

NAZARENE CHURCH CONVENTION

The Rev. F. A. Welsh Re-elected District Superintendent.

By the Associated Press.

SIKESTON, Mo., Sept. 11.—The Eastern Missouri District convention of churches of the Nazarene yesterday re-elected the Rev. F. A. Welsh, Piedmont, district superintendent and voted to hold the 1937 convention in St. Louis, at Lafayette Park Church.

Other district officers chosen were Mrs. Emma R. Beckman, Kirkwood, secretary, and Ralph Appleby, St. Louis, treasurer. The Rev. Mr. Welsh and the Rev. J. W. Roach, St. Louis, were made trustees of Olivet College, Olivet, Ill., and the Rev. C. F. Transue, Sikeston, and J. A. Duncan, Maplewood, were elected members of the district examining board.

RELIEF GARMENT-MAKING DEAL BY MONTANA, IOWA

Former State to Send 15,000 Sheepskins to Latter, Which Will Manufacture Cloth, Keep Part of It.

By the Associated Press.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 12.—Relief commissions of Montana and Iowa have made a deal whereby Montana will send 15,000 untanned sheepskins to Iowa where the wool will be pulled, made into cloth and 11,000 yards, ready cut in garment sizes will be sent back to Montana, Iowa keeping enough of the cloth to pay it for its work.

Joseph Watson, Montana relief director, said the pelts to be sent to Iowa were from drouth-processed sheep which the Federal Government bought from ranchers in 1934. "Having the cloth made by the Iowa commission, which has machinery and equipment for the work, will simplify making the apparel at our WPA sewing project centers, which will make the cloth into clothing."

Watson said he was trying to arrange a "trade" with the relief administration at Minneapolis in which pelts would be exchanged for sheep-lined garments and gloves. "All three states will gain, but there is no profit-making by any State," Watson said.

Federal relief authorities have agreed to pay the freight costs.

JOHN HAMILTON ASSAILS BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE

Repeats His Assertion That Banking Structure Is Less Sound Than in 1932.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Republican Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, at a press conference yesterday, attacked the Roosevelt administration's bank deposit insurance program and repeated the assertion he made in Washington Thursday that the banking structure of the country is less sound than it was in 1932.

"Today you have flooded the banks until the ratio of banking investments in Government bonds is higher than it has ever been in the country's history and higher than in any other country," Hamilton said.

"If the ratio is higher and you attempt to secure these deposits through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which in turn invests its money in Government bonds, you are simply creating a holding company of securities. And Mr. Roosevelt, I understand, is opposed to holding companies."

PROSECUTOR SAYS 3 TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN FOR ROBBERY

Announces Confessions of Two Men and Woman in Ohio; Farmer Finds Bar in Tracks.

By the Associated Press.

COSHOCTON, O., Sept. 12.—Prosecutor Russel E. Lyons said today three men and a woman had confessed that they tried to wreck Pennsylvania passenger trains near here in order to rob the passengers.

The attempts, made on the night of Aug. 27 at Rock Run and the Tyndal Bridge, Lyons said, were thwarted when a farmer discovered a loose angle bar in the tracks.

Those held are Albert Buckmaster, 21 years old; his sister, Mrs. Edith Buckmaster West, 30; Wayne Hartley, 24, and his brother, Norman Hartley, 30. The woman, mother of a four-month-old baby, is being kept under guard in her home.

MARY MILES MINTER'S SISTER HELD SANE; CHARGES DROPED

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 12.—Insanity charges filed against Mrs. Margaret Fillmore, sister of Mary Miles Minter, former movie actress, by their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, were dismissed yesterday by a woman Judge, Georgia Bullock. A psychiatrist and six persons who have known Mrs. Fillmore for years testified they considered her entirely rational. Two witnesses for Mrs. Shelby testified Mrs. Fillmore had threatened her.

Mrs. Shelby subjected her daughter to psychopathic examination a month ago and had her arraigned before Judge Bullock. She charged Mrs. Fillmore habitually drank three quarters of wine and a bottle of hard liquor daily, and heard imaginary voices. The daughter denied this.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Sept. 12.—A few more buyers from territory east of this market were here in the horse and mule division the past week, but demand, for horses at least, was none too aggressive and sales were barely steady. Mules, on the other hand, were little changed.

Young mares with good colts and attractive fillies sold to fairly good advantage, but little cheap material and geldings of all sizes were hard to dispose of. The mule trade was satisfactory on colts of all kinds with the exception of smooth mouthed offerings. Those animals possessing age had to have a lot of quality in order to bring fair prices.

Good prices for cotton should aid the Southern trade, but dealers advise shippers to buy their stock conservatively in the country.

*NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

*MULE QUOTATIONS.

Farm mules, 15.2 to 16 hands, $110@140; colt mules, good size and bone, $100@150; colt mules, small, $60@85; draft mules, $125@150; mine mules, 15.3 to 16 hands, $120@140; mine mules, 14 to 15 hands, $75@100; choice cotton mules, 15.1 to 16 hands, $135@160; choice cotton mules, 14.2 to 15 hands, $110@125; small green mules over 3 years old, $40@70.

*Quotations are for average animals and do not cover those of outstanding quality or the very cheapest grade.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY STOCKYARDS.

CATTLE—Steers, mixed yearlings and heifers 25@50c higher, compared with last Friday, with the lighter-weight steers and lower-priced heifers and mixed yearlings showing the most gain. All classes were in active demand. Beef cows sold mostly 25c higher, while cutters and low cutters were generally steady. Bulls were unchanged. Vealers advanced 75c. Stockers and feeders registered a 25c upturn. Price ranges for the week: Fed steers, mixed yearlings and heifers, $6.50@8.50; better kinds up to $9.25, and strictly choice quotable around $10. Grassy descriptions, $4@6; beef cows, $4.25@5; cutters and low cutters, $3@4; top sausage bulls, $5.25; top vealers, $10; bulk of the stocker and feeder cattle, $4@6.

HOGS—Market closed the week 35@40c lower on hogs weighing 170 lbs. and up, while pigs and light lights advanced 15@25c; packing sows about steady. Price ranges for the week: 180 to 250s, $11.15@65; 260 to 300s, $10.75@11.55; 140 to 160s, $10@10.75; 100 to 130s, $8.25@9.50; packing sows, $8.75@9.75.

SHEEP—Most lamb sales are 50@75c lower than last Friday. For the week, bulk of the good lambs, $9@10. On the early rounds choice kinds to shippers and small killers were quotable up to $10.25; throwouts, $5@6, with those going to the country bringing $6.50; bucks discounted $1; sheep steady, fat ewes mostly $3@3.50.

National Gambling.
War on Rats.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1936.)

A GOOD-LOOKING young man, 28, 6 feet 4 inches tall, has written a book that he calls "The Government of Tomorrow." He is Comte de Paris, whom his friends and shadowy courtiers call Monsieur de France and "Your Royal Highness." He and a few others believe that, if he had his rights, he would be sitting on the French throne. They and he may be glad that he is not sitting there. It would not be comfortable for long.

The book, "The Government of Tomorrow," by the young author, Henri de France, to give him the name that he prefers, is not such as one of the old and real Kings of France would have written. It would not have been written by the French King Louis XIV, who wanted it understood that everything in France really belonged to him, and that certain of his subjects had some of it in their possession by his permission and at his pleasure.

If somebody could write a true and prophetic book on "The Government of Tomorrow," telling just how men will be managed, by dictators or by themselves, 50 or a hundred years from now, it would be an interesting book and would probably surprise everybody.

In Northern Ireland, still ruled by England, police seized thousands of sweepstakes tickets, confiscating them. They were being smuggled by automobile to be sold to Englishmen. The British wisely do not intend that their people should have their minds taken from serious work, or their money squandered, in the foolish, hopeless pursuit of gambling profits.

Outside of England, Europe is largely devoured by the gambling mania, with government actually encouraging the gambling and the buying of lottery tickets.

In France, where on almost every block you see lottery tickets for sale, and every newspaper prints pages about the winners, and the hawkers of tickets shout, "Get the winning tickets, I reserve them for my clients," the Government explains that some way must be found to persuade the French, traditionally thrifty, to take out and put into circulation the money that they keep hidden away. The plan is highly successful for all, perhaps, except the most old-fashioned peasant, who will not exchange a 10-franc piece for a piece of lottery paper.

Under British regulations, every ship entering port is thoroughly fumigated, holds where disease-bearing rats might hide are filled with deadly gas. The dead rats are shoveled out, then the cargo unloaded.

The Port of London medical officer reports that the rat population of ships is diminishing rapidly, thanks to the exterminating processes, thanks also to the fact that ships are being built rat-proof, and buildings in ports where ships dock from foreign ports are also being rat-proofed.

Ships bring all the plagues of the East, and other plagues are carried by the assortment of fleas that live on the rat.

If men could make up their minds to stop murdering each other for awhile and make the world-wide war against rats, the human race would be better off. War against the rats should be extended to include the disease-bearing mosquitoes and flies.

The war against disease-bearing animals might be extended for the protection of children to a war of common sense against allowing young children to bury their faces in the fur of cats and dogs that collect germs from everywhere and are not disinfected.

It is pathetic to read in a doctor's report of a kind-hearted little child petting a partly paralyzed kitten, the child subsequently stricken with the dreadful infantile paralysis, believed to have paralyzed the kitten.

THE Spy Reports

By Ely Culbertson

"DEAR E. C.:

"I trust you have not thought I have been soldiering on my job merely because you received no contribution from my gifted pen last week. The bridge games on which I have been spying lately have been dull affairs, revealing the usual run-of-the-mill errors, but nothing either ghastly or amusing enough to deserve a report, that is, not until the enclosed hand blazed across the horizon last evening.

Ely Culbertson

"I cannot help but feel that you are largely responsible for the painful defeat suffered by the declarer at his slam contract. You have preached so much on the iniquity of avoidable finesses that the poor chap who sat South neglected to notice that, on this particular hand, a finesse, far from bing avoidable, was an absolute safety play. Incidentally, after the hand had gone down to defeat, a bit of lively dialogue took place between the forlorn declarer and his disgusted partner. It may and may not have been original, but it was good for a laugh.

"Declarer's partner: 'Good grief! Don't you ever finesse?'

"Declarer: 'Not I! I tried that once!'

"South, dealer.

"The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

"WEST opened the king of clubs, declarer won and upon laying down the diamond king, was greatly relieved to have the queen drop. His next move was to take out East's remaining trumps, and after that the ace and king of hearts were cashed. Next a small club was ruffed and then the jack of hearts led. West was not so charitable as to cover, and now the declarer risked everything on a heart break of 3-3 by ruffing in the dummy. When the queen did not providentially fall from East's hand, the jig was up. Declarer had to concede a heart and a spade.

"It is fairly rarely, you will agree, that a finesse can be used as a safety play, but obviously this hand offered just such an opportunity. After drawing three rounds of trumps and cashing the ace and king of hearts, then returning to his hand by means of a club ruff, the leading and passing of the jack of hearts with dummy discarding one of its three spades, was safe against any lay of cards. If East had held the queen and won it at this point, South's ten of hearts would have provided a discard for another spade for dummy. Declarer's spade ace and dummy's fourth trump for a spade ruff would have clinched the contract.

"Of course, I realize that I am supposed to be a spy and not an analyst, but I am confident that you will find this correct.

"Yours, 'till I'm shot,

"THE SPY."

I must admit that my anonymous contributor is as good at analysis as he is at espionage.

Babe Ruth's All-America BASEBALL TEAM

Will Be Announced in the POST-DISPATCH Tomorrow

ROOM AND BOARD

By Gene Ahern

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

» by WYNN «

For Sunday, Sept. 13.

FIRST of two days for getting under the surface of things and behind the scenes, particularly in your own affairs; but avoid guilty secrets. Today: Favorable vibrations for planning important changes; look far ahead wisely.

Capricorn Opportunity.

Some of the world's greatest activity will be felt in the money department during the coming year, individually as well as nationally. Much of this can be positive, prosperous, developing, expansive. If you were born Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (sun in Capricorn) the position of Jupiter in 1937, beginning in December this year, offers you opportunity for good advancement. (More tomorrow).

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if you were born on this date, can bring both problems and profits in love, law, marriage and with elders—don't hesitate to make wise changes. Avoid danger: Oct. 14-Dec. 16, and from Sept. 7, 1937, on.

For Monday, Sept. 14.

A JUMPY and ticklish day; new ideas that pop up here will probably have to be popped down later—hold 'em on the ice and see how they look in a week. Evening hours improve, particularly in social matters and with the opposite sex.

1937 for Capricorn.

(Continued.) If you were born with the sun in Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) the coming year stimulates you to more optimism, gives you a feeling of expansiveness and attracts to you more opportunity for making money, improving health and getting into generally more satisfactory surroundings. Much can be gained through self-study and confidential arrangements, too.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead can be profitable, if this is your birthday. From Feb. 7, push new plans, make others like you, expand, push romance; but handle past items, partnerships wisely. Danger: Oct. 16-Dec. 18; and from Sept. 9, 1937, on.

Care of the Complexion

By Helen Jameson

COMPLEXIONS line up pretty well in the parade of beauty blessings. Necks don't even stand on the side-lines, watch the procession go by. They are down-trodden and neglected. A woman may be the most ardent beauty follower, fling money for the lovely creamy things made by cosmetic chemists, yet regard her neck as nothing more than a convenient prop that keeps her head upon her shoulders. If you don't believe it, observe the difference in color between faces and necks, one a lovely gardenia, the other suggestive of the marigold.

A neck is lucky if a few leavings of cold cream get worked in around the region of the Adam's apple. It needs cosmetic food, goodness knows, since tissues have a sad way of going spiritless. It also needs whitening lotions. It has a gift for collecting sunburn, tan and freckles. A woman who thinks she hasn't a freckle to her name may find a colony of those yellery polka dots abaft the nape line at the rear.

Every girl should have a triple mirror. She may make some astonishing discoveries which will lead her to resolve to let her beautifying efforts be far reaching. The back section of the coiffure may not be up to par. Without doubt the neck will be subjected to criticism.

* * *

OUR good old friend, the lemon, will rush to the aid of a neck that has gone saffron. If you are doubtful about the whitening properties of this fruit, plunge your finger tips into the pulp and see what it will do to discolored nail eaves. Cut a lemon into quarters, take one portion, send it in circles from collar bones to chin, from shoulders to ears; give the back of the neck a grand old massage with it.

Precede this treatment with a thorough washing with soapsuds and a complexion brush, but let there be a 30-minute interval before the acid goes on. Let it dry in, friction with a heavy emollient. Cold cream is of a light consistency and, as this beauty rite should be given at bedtime, your sweetly scented application will be likely to be picked up by the bed linens. Lanoline is a good agent for making a neck presentable.

* * *

IF there are necklace lines, lanoline will help erase them. Fiddle strings, too, require a lubricant, though we must confess that they succumb more quickly to fiber toning exercises.

Stand erect, hands on hips, head on the level. Lift the chin, keep the jaws closed, turn the head to one side with a hard muscle pull. Turn it back as far as it will go so the fibers will be stretched to the limit. Ten turns to the right, two deep braths, ten turns to the left.

Form the habit of switching on the porch light before answering the door at night. Then the person is revealed to the neighborhood as well as to you and there is a feeling of safety if it proves a stranger.

The Numerous Problems of Social Usage

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

YOU have said that when a woman writes her name as well as her house address (not merely her signature) as is sometimes the case when signing a sales slip, and always the case on a hotel register, she prefixes her name with her title Miss or Mrs. What is customary for a man to write under the same circumstances? My husband says that it is lacking in taste for a man to sign his name with a title, since it is taken for granted that he is Mr. I contend that there are instances, such as when he is an M. D., where he is not plain Mr. and for the sake of clarity his title is necessary and therefore not wrong.

Emily Post

Answer: Your husband is perfectly right and with no title indicated he is plain Mr. When he is an M. D. he writes J. H. Smith, M. D., or possibly Dr. J. H. Smith. A man might also on occasion write Prof., and he always puts The Rev. or The Rev. D. D. or The Rev. Dr. The one perplexing situation is when a man's Christian name is identical with that of a woman. For instance, Leslie, Marion, Carol, etc. The only solution for avoiding this confusion would seem to be to break all rules and put Mr. in front of his name—when necessary.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a salesman in a furniture store and very often has to take customers up on the gallery. At such times he is at a loss to know whether, especially when they are ladies, he should allow them to go first upstairs and down, or whether he should take the lead?

Answer: He should let them go first everywhere, except when necessary to show them the way. In this case, for instance, if the gallery is cluttered with furniture so that he has to move something, or if he has to go forward to light a light, he would say, "Excuse me, perhaps I'd better go first, because—(and then give whatever reason there is)."

Dear Mrs. Post: A week or so ago my husband and I had several tables of contract. One of the women left her prize, which I had thought was quite pretty, but which she evidently thought so negligible that she has made no attempt to get it. Shall I send it to her or keep it and say nothing?

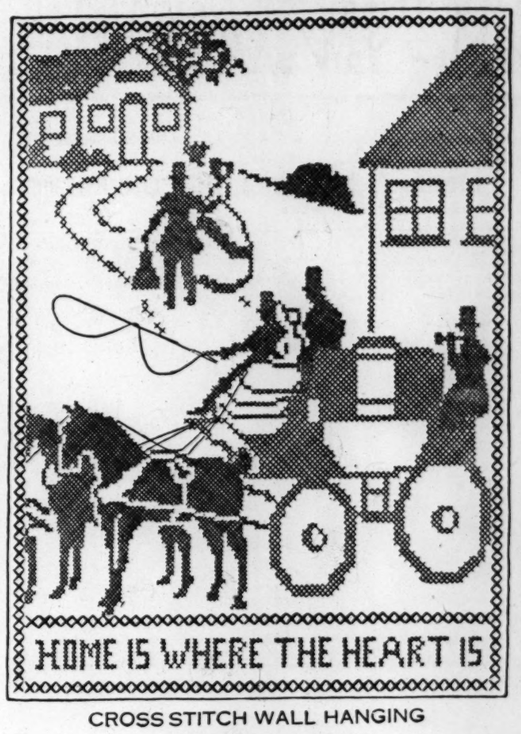

Answer: It is hardly possible that anyone would be so rude. Certainly it is much more likely that she left it behind unintentionally, and it is quite possible that she thought she lost it on her way home. At all events, I would give her the benefit of the doubt and leave it at her house. Or if this is inconvenient for you, then tell her when you meet her that she forgot to take her prize.

Thumbnail Review of New Movies

By Colvin McPherson

CHINA CLIPPER—Pat O'Brien builds a great future for aviation by being tough with his best friends. Only fair cinema. "Follow Your Heart," starring Michael Bartlett and Marion Talley, is all right when it is sung, but sweeter words have been spoken than those by Miss Talley. At the FOX.

COUNTERFEIT—It can't happen here, but it does. A gang of master crooks "shoving the queer" right in St. Louis. "Satan Met a Lady" is a tough one to figure out, a detective story that is too, too mystifying. At the MISSOURI.

TWO IN A CROWD—But only one of many, so far as interest is concerned. Routine boy, girl and race horse story, it is disposed of with a rather nice stage show. At the ST. LOUIS.

THE GREAT ZIEGFELD—Now I think they have something here. The jumbo musical about the famous Girl Glorifier has already played four weeks in town and continues, at LOEW'S.

MY MAN GODFREY—What happens when a debutante tries to monopolize her butler. Very, very funny. With "The Gentleman From Louisiana," in a second week at the AMBASSADOR.

SWING TIME—Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers leave several more footprints on the sands of tempo. With "Shakedown," now at the ORPHEUM.

Silhouettes Return To Former Trends

JUST when we're getting used to high, broad shoulders, flares, perky short tunics and important long ones, along come Paris dispatches with the news that styles which immediately followed the war are beginning to make their influence felt. That means a neat, plain, slim silhouette. Remember?

Well then, for the benefit of all who've grown up since 1919 and 1920, those were pencil slim frocks, and short. This season's shirtwaist dresses of metal fabric (for afternoon), made in mid-calf length, are an indication of the influence, as are lower necklines.

It isn't only news from Paris that indicates the trend. A London designer sends over street frocks in the newest of woolens made on straight lines with only discreet, expertly tailored encrustations of the fabric as trimming, at belt, sleeves and occasionally on the skirt above a short, V-shaped slit in the center front-to making walking easy. Even tunics are sometimes made on straight lines.

But don't be afraid of the flares. They're definitely of the here and now. We merely like to give aid and comfort to those whose tastes are on the ultra-conservative side—and to point a finger toward the straws in the wind.

Stamp News And Issues Of Interest

Criticism of Design on Great Britain Prints—Sale Large, However.

THE new British stamps portraying King Edward were placed on sale Sept. 1. The design of this stamp has been criticised. King Edward in recognition that stamps can be a highly controversial matter, staged a plebiscite on the design through the Postmaster-General. It has been indicated that if the design of the new stamps proves too unpopular some other design will be issued and the new design withdrawn for sale. The mere suggestion of the possible withdrawal of the issue in the near future is bound to stimulate purchases by young and old among stamp collectors.

The new stamp has a photograph of King Edward in the center with the monetary figure in the upper left-hand corner and a crown in the upper right-hand corner. The word postage is in bold lettering in white at the bottom of the stamp. The stamp contains no other printed matter or design. It is severely simple and in addition to this has a modernistic trend.

The photograph of the King which is used appears to some of his subjects to be a "Prince Charming" picture rather than one of a King in his early forties. The artists of Great Britain are particularly upset by the design and state that it is "the least distinguished stamp that England has ever produced."

In spite of the criticism of this stamp prior to its issue when the three denominations of the stamp were placed on sale the denominations in question, the half penny, the three half penny and two and half penny, more than 30,000,000 of these denominations were sold on the first day.

The other denominations normally issued by England will follow at a later date. The stamps are being printed on rotary presses by the photogravure method and are on paper watermarked with a crown and the royal cipher, E8R.

There has been no announcement as yet as to whether there will be a special coronation series apart from the present new issue.

A special cancellation is being used for the Fort Worth Frontier celebration. The design consists of a bronch rider atop a bucking horse with the inscription "Fort Worth—1936—Frontier Celebration."

At the A. P. S. convention and exhibition being held in Omaha from Sept. 24 to 27, several of the awards will be made by those attending the show. Awards will be made by collectors and non-collectors on basis of votes cast.

The Zeppelin stamp issued for the Polar Flight Airmails is being forged in large quantities. They can be easily detected due to the irregular spacing of the figures "1931" in the overprint, the three being much closer to the nine than to the one.

MEN BEHIND THE MEN BEHIND THE MEN

It was none other than Professor Abner Leidercrantz who planned, arranged and managed the President's hot dog eating campaign which is winning widespread applause. It was Professor Leidercrantz, formerly an assistant in psychological research at Columbia, who discovered that the American people love hot dogs. Therefore he shrewdly reasoned that the American people are flattered and pleased if they discover that the President would prefer a hot dog to a plutocratic, thick, juicy steak, truffles or plover potpie. Now, whenever a photographer is nigh, the Professor hands the President a hot dog which he munches with delight, and the news rings 'round the world. "However," confides the Professor, "we did worry about the President's digestion. But we solved that by simply having the hot dogs stuffed with chicken, minced ham or scrambled eggs."

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a girl 18 years of age. I am beginning to age rapidly because of worry and grief. It may sound silly but it is true. I work five days a week at the factory and on Saturdays and Sundays work at home. But still in my mother's eyes I don't do anything and I give her most of my salary and what little I have left I keep myself up in clothes.

If I go out with a fellow on Saturday nights my mother gets the idea right away that I am going to get married. She doesn't want me to go with any fellows or girls, either one. I am so disgusted I don't know what to do. Everytime a fellow comes after me, mother preaches to me before he gets here and when he comes she preaches to him, too.

Now, Mrs. Carr, if I was the kind of a girl who stays out late, smokes, drinks, etc., I wouldn't mind the sermon, because I would have it coming to me, but I am not that kind of a girl. Every week-end mother does nothing but preach and quarrel at me and I am getting tired of it. Every night after getting bawled out I cry myself to sleep. I don't know what to do.

MISS WORRY.

Well, Miss Worry, if you have stated the case absolutely correctly in all details, you have every right in the world to complain. Your mother should realize that you need recreation and relaxation. Why not have a talk with her and say, frankly, that you can't go on with the quarreling and that she should take a more rational point of view. A little vacation from you might make your mother realize that a daughter who turns over most of her salary at 18 isn't such a bad sort after all.

* * *

Dear Mrs. Carr:

THE other day I was thoughtfully analyzing my character and surprisingly confronted an undesired trait of which I was entirely ignorant.

My trouble is that I am, so I think, too blunt and abrupt in speaking. When I am asked an impression or opinion I tell exactly what I think without considering other peoples' feeling or beliefs. This, I find, causes me to make fewer friends than I otherwise would. It seems that the people whom I have known for quite a while know that I mean no harm by this and therefore think nothing of it and consider it no offense. But people whom I have just met or scarcely know, I think I am a prude and very contrary, or at least that is what I believe to be the impression I make.

What do you think of my analysis, Mrs. Carr? And what shall I do.

ABRUPT.

Your question, "What shall I do?" hardly seems to require an answer. If you realize that your "abruptness" is causing people to form an unfavorable opinion of you, the thing to do, of course, is temper your speech and hold your tongue when tempted to be too positive about your views. If you are able to analyze yourself, you should be clever enough to supply the remedy where it is needed.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

COULD you please tell me where I can write to in New York about tours in Germany, Austria, France and England? Another thing I'd like to know is do the steamship companys sell or give any pamphlets about the way things are conducted on ships and the customary tips that are expected?

I'm not going right away but I'm such a greehorn about trips. I've never been more than 20 miles from St. Louis alone, so you see I've got a lot to learn about traveling.

MARGIE.

The local offices of steamship companies will be glad to furnish you with all the information you desire. The classified section in the back of the 'phone book will give you their addresses.

Dear Martha Carr:

Is is possible for you to print in your column that I have several healthy little kittens, three months old, which I would like to place in good homes.

I intended to keep them but find I can't afford to feed them

MRS. G.

If anyone writes in for one of your kittens, I will be glad to furnish your address. If you have no success in this way, you might apply to the Humane Society for help.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WONDER if you will please tell me of something that I can use to put some flesh on my face and neck? My body is large enough but I can't seem to gain any weight where it is needed so badly.

"WORRIED."

A nourishing cream patted in very gently will sometimes round the contour of the face and, again, neck exercises will help.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

The Woman's View of Things In New York

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.

NOW and then a woman turns up in our frantic midst who leads an amazing life out of range of the public eye, and who is only brought into it at all by the snooping of reporters such as I, poor wretch. Such a one suddenly crossed my line of vision in the handsome person of Clara Livingston, a bachelor girl in the thirties who has been in town shopping for a new airplane!

Clara Livingston is the daughter of a family and a name famed in the annals of New York State. Even now she owns a large hunk of the fine old town of Jamestown. But most of her life is lived in a huge old house on a 1600-acre plantation in Puerto Rico, some 25 miles from the city of San Juan.

Clara lives there alone save for the house servants, some of whom have been with the family as long as 35 years. Mornings, dressed in white riding breeches, she rides around her land, overseeing the work of hundreds of laborers. Afternoons she flies her own plane from her own airport, or reads the latest books and magazines. This is her life for nine months of the year. In the summer she comes north to the States, leaving the plantation to the help, who at once go to sleep in a body.

This has been her life for years. She says she is never lonely, always busy. For company she has two big dogs. Clothes, social life—nothing presents a problem. Some day she will leave a huge fortune—but to whom? Meanwhile there are her fields to ride, her books to read and her plane to fly. Only the habit of years could accustom a girl to the life of Clara Livingston!

* * *

THE horsey set of Long Island is now whirling round and round, and shouts of "Tantivy!" and "Yoicks!" are being heard in our Home Counties, as they are in the Home Counties of dear ole Lunnon! The mad-riding Argentines are hard at the International Polo with our own gilded youths. The annual North Shore Horse Show drew 800 sleek equine entries, and the affair was made official by a bad spill, with Mrs. Robert Guggenheim and her mount, Firenze Brumanna, doing a double somersault—and Mrs. G. getting up with a busted collar-bone.

I gaze at the noble steeds and occasionally follow the Whitneys, Igleharts and Bostwicks on their polo ponies, but my favorite mount, curse me, remains that sorrel 6-year-old on the merry-go-dizzy at Coney Island!

* * *

FAY GILLIS, one of the first of American girl fliers, and her journalist husband, Linton Wells, are back from three months in the West Indies, where Lint went to write a tome about his newspaper experiences. "Snooks," the young leopard they brought back from Ethiopia, is now a big girl a year old, and very beautiful. She is living quietly with them at the old Chelsea Hotel, down on West Twenty-third street — plays with a rubber ball like a kitten, and sleeps on a high bookshelf instead of a tree. Another six months, however, and "Snooks" will probably have to go to a zoo.

Always a genial host to visiting firemen, the big town generously entertained Mrs. Susan Frawley Eisele of Blue Earth, Minn., this year's winner of the prize for the best rural newspaper correspondence. Mrs. Susan posed for the newspaper cameramen with her 7-week-old son, Albert, in one arm and the other tapping at a typewriter. She stopped at our biggest tavern, the Waldorf, and told reporters that she didn't think Gotham especially sinful. "In a small town they smoke and drink more than city people, because it's newer to them," opined the 39-year-old mother-farmer-columnist.

That indefatigable novelist and croquet champion, Kathleen Norris, seems to have another winner in her latest, "The American Flaggs." Her publishers tell me that its first edition, one of the largest ever printed, was sold out by its publication date.

Our dashing little Mayor, Fiorello La Guardia, called by many our "Little Flower," seems about to aid a drive against blatting radios in the village's public houses. It seems that the loud speakers are driving the neighbors crazy—and we can all understand that!

Beets in Sauce

Two tablespoons flour.
One cup water.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Five cups diced cooked beets.

Melt butter, add flour and when blended add water and cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Now add sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper. Cook slowly for 10 minutes.

Minced Clams on Toast

Blend one tablespoon butter and one tablespoon flour and add gradually one-fourth cup milk or cream and the juice from one cup minced clams. Stir until smooth, season with salt and a little cayenne and serve on slices of buttered toast.

AUTUMN OUTFITS on a BUDGET

An Attractive Yet Practical and Not-too-Expensive Wardrobe Can Easily Be Selected From St. Louis Displays.

By Sylvia Stiles

WHILE it may be more fun to purchase a new wardrobe with a fat roll of bills in your hand, it takes much more ingenuity and common sense to choose one on a limited budget. So if you are one of those who have to think of the cost of a garment as well as its practical qualities, take heart in the knowledge that wise selections are the test of good taste and a genuine knowledge of fashions.

Practical clothes that are inexpensive in price and pleasing to the eye are hard to find. If the cost is satisfactory often the workmanship isn't. If both of these happen to be right, then the garment has that faculty of looking exactly what it is—a serviceable costume. Occasionally one stumbles upon a collection of clothes which meet all of the requirements but it usually takes careful shopping and comparison of values to be certain that the purchase is exactly right and the most for the money.

A tour of the St. Louis shops reveals the good news that in spite of soaring prices, there are many attractive inexpensive autumn costumes to be had. This is especially true of tailored street or business clothes which, after all, are the clothes most women live in most hours of the day. Among the dresses there are sheer woolens, synthetic and silk crepes as well as attractive two-piece frocks combining rather heavy skirts with lighter weight blouses. All are designed with an informal feeling which makes them suitable for office, classroom or street wear. The shirtwaist theme is quite pronounced but it has sufficient variations from last winter's tailleurs to stamp it as late as 1936.

Especially interesting from the practical standpoint are the three-piece suits which are a complete autumn wardrobe. By adding one silk frock for semidressy occasions and perhaps a few blouses or sweaters, every tailored daytime need is considered. There are several important versions of this costume suit theme. One of the most impressive consists of a full length semiswagger coat which has a genuine beaver collar and good tailoring, a skirt and a short, fitted jacket. The short jacket is cut with snug shoulders and a convertible neckline. Stitching forms a trimming around the neckline and down the front. The collar may be worn standing or turned down to form a soft roll. A brown velveteen scarf is flattering tucked inside the collar. Belt is of brown calfskin leather. The skirt has a kick pleat at the center front and is gored sufficiently to give the proper swing to the hemline. This costume is available in several flattering shades including green, rust and brown, and it is most reasonably priced.

* * *

IF an ensemble consisting of a separate coat and several dresses is preferred to the three-piece suit, there are some stunning tailored coats on display in St. Louis. These are devoid of fur but the absence of it does not detract from becomingness or style. Individual touches and a swanky cut make up for the lack of the fur. One coat, for example, has a wide suede belt of a contrasting color while another employes leather cuffs that are quite deep and a matching leather belt.

The coat which is illustrated, is an excellent example of the tailored wrap which does not need fur. It is made of a black imported woolen which has a nubby surface but is very soft in texture. In cut, there are some features of the coachman's coat as the flap pockets are set on at the waistline, and the upper blouse part is cut in a separate piece from the skirt section with seaming at the waistline.

The skirt section of this coat is quite flared, this flare being emphasized by the close fitting of the waistline and upper part of the hips. The small filigree silver buttons are unusual to see on this type of coat and are part of its charm. One is placed at either side of the front rather close to the shoulders, and there are two quite close together at the waistline. Cuffs of the sleeves are quite deep.

Among other tailored topcoats that have the look of newness are the shaggy camel's hair toppers. These are cut along boxy lines and are untrimmed. There are striking colors in tones of rust, green and wine as well as the more conservative shades of beige and brown. These coats are appropriate for wear over most tailored dresses although they are more of the sports type than the coat illustrated.

Both of the dresses sketched are priced at less than $18 and were chosen because they ensemble well with the coat which is illustrated. By purchasing both of these and the wrap, a woman would be well outfited for all tailored occasions. The wool frock is of the shirtwaist type. It is made of a sheer flecked gray woolen, but the same style could be obtained in blue, green, rust or black. The square buttons on the front are of gunmetal patent leather and the narrow belt also is of gunmetal patent. Cartridge pleating is arranged as make-believe pockets on the front of the blouse and on the collar. The shoulders are interesting as they have square box-like sections extending over the top of the sleeves. This box feature has a stiff lining to emphasize broadness of silhouette.

The second dress illustrated is sufficiently tailored for business wear but is satisfactory for important luncheons and informal dinner engagements. The material is black crepe and the trimming is black patent leather. Note that the patent supplies the accent which usually is supplied by white decorations on a black dress and there is nothing to soil easily. The patent leather trims the pockets on the skirt and is appliqued to form a flower design on the front of the wide belt. A narrow patent leather bow appears at the neckline, and the belt and buttons are of the same shiny leather. The raglan shoulders have a novel treatment, a row of shirring on the blouse section supplying side front fullness while the sleeves are shirred at the shoulders to give greater width of line.

With a coat and one frock of black materials, a person with a limited income has plenty of variety left in the selection of a color for the second frock and in the choice of bright toned accessories

Interior Notes On a Nursery

By Elizabeth Boykin

"WE have a new baby at our house," said the friend of a friend of ours. "And we've just done over the nursery for him. I took my cue on decorations from our first child, a little girl.

"When she came, we tried to swamp her with every kind of animal picture, story and toy. But it turned out that as far as she was concerned, a dog was the only thing that mattered. She called everything a bow-wow and took far more interest in the dogs she saw on the street than in any other animal. She still does for that matter.

"So we decided we'd give the two of them plenty of what they like best (taking for granted that he'll have the same tastes!) Anyway, we've gotten all the breeds of dogs we could find represented in the nursery decorations. We got them out of picture books, magazines and encyclopedias and traced them on the walls and on the furniture . . . some of them we cut out and pasted up. Our little girl is enchanted with the whole idea and we hope our little boy will be too.

"The walls we have had painted a light green, and the furniture is white. The rug is plaid, with greens and browns, which is suitable now and then later it will do for a school age room. We're having white curtains at the windows and I'm making big applique designs on them of the dogs in the primary colors. . . . I'm adding a cat or two for excitement. These look very cute and I've about decided to make bedspreads to match the curtains. The dogs and the cats are being put on in irregular order spacing.

"If the children have half as much fun living and playing in this room as their father and I have had fixing it up, they're in for lots of good times!"

Ham and Veal Salad

One cup cubed cooked ham.

Dutch Peach Cake

Sift two cups flour, three tablespoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, and one teaspoon sugar together. Then add the beaten yolks of three eggs, three tablespoons melted butter and one cup milk. Beat well, fold in the stiffly whipped whites of three eggs. Spread the mixture on buttered pans about one-half inch thick, and lay two rows of peaches cut into quarters on top of the dough. Sprinkle with sugar and bake one-half hour in a hot oven. Good for dessert with a sauce or nice for those liking a plain cake for breakfast.

Cut every fresh cake with warmed knife and the slices will be smooth and even.

The Time That A Man Really Comes of Age

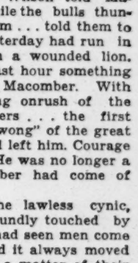

"But It Has Nothing to Do With the Calendar, and Depends on Spirit."

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1936.)

THIS business of "coming of age"—most of us think it depends on the calendar. Happens on a certain day, in a certain year. One day we're youngsters—the next we're grown-ups.

But that isn't so.

Elsie Robinson

Coming of age has nothing to do with the calendar. Some of us grow up in our our early 'teens. Some of us never do—are still peevish, posing children at 60.

And most of our misery is due to this misunderstanding . . . to our cockeyed notions that time can turn us into adults. It can't. Only the ripening of our own spirits can bring maturity—a ripening that sometimes seems to come in a flash. Some shock or sudden loss, some tough test—and, presto! the trick is done. Or isn't.

There's a swell yarn on this theme by Ernest Hemingway in a current magazine about a rich young man and his wife on a safari in Africa. Hunting lions and buffalo—with a professional guide named Wilson. With his first lion Macomber, the pampered rich man, bolts—and snaps the last shred of respect that binds the beautiful but completely worthless woman who bears his name.

There's a nightmare period when the three of them face the fact that he's yellow. Then they sight the three bull buffalo—"huge black animals, looking almost cylindrical in their long heaviness, like big, black, tank cars, moving at a gallop across the far edge of the open prairie . . . "

Ugly, vicious beasts—one rip of their wide black horns meant ravelling death. Beside their menace, lion hunting was child's play. No peppering away at these brutes, trusting to chance shots to finish them. Two shots—and two only—could penetrate those armored skulls and steely muscles—through the nose, or chest. And after that, even if you were lucky enough to land, they "took the hell of a lot of killing," said Wilson.

These things Wilson told Macomber even while the bulls thundered toward them . . . told them to the man who yesterday had run in crazed fear from a wounded lion. But within the last hour something had happened to Macomber. With the first plunging onrush of the maddened monsters . . . the first bellowing "ca-ra-wong" of the great guns . . . fear had left him. Courage had filled him. He was no longer a coward. Macomber had come of age!

And Wilson, the lawless cynic, sees and is profoundly touched by the change. "He had seen men come of age before, and it always moved him. It was not a matter of their twenty-first birthday. It had taken a sudden chance of hunting, a sudden precipitation into action without worrying beforehand, to bring this about.

"Look at the beggar now," Wilson thought. "It's that some of them stay little boys so long . . . sometimes all their lives . . . The Great American boy-men . . . Beggar had probably been afraid all his life. Don't know what started it. Any number of things might start it. But over now.

"He'd seen it work the same way in the war. Fear gone like an operation. Something else grew in its place. Main thing a man had. Made him into a man."

"Fear gone like an operation"—there's the thing that must happen to any mortal before he can grow up. Fear of pain and pressure, fear of responsibility, criticism, competition . . . all the endless and damnable forms of fear which kept us shamefully infantile . . . never, until they are "gone like an operation," do we truly "come of age."

Yet how we dread that operating, dodging and resenting the wrench that shall set us free!

If you are trying to cut very fresh bread for sandwiches and making a bungle of it, heat the bread knife slightly and the bread will slice without breaking or losing its shape.

College Note It's not surprising that classic sports clothes continue to rank ace-high in the college girl's daytime wardrobe. Despite the current interest in rich materials and elaborate lines, no substitute has yet been found for the tweeds and knitted fabrics that are perennial favorites.

CHAPTER SIX.

CYNTHIA was alone when Stephen bounded up the stairs and came into the room. He was eager, boyish—he had missed her the night before; the morning had been endless without her.

She stood silhouetted against a sunny window smiling at him. Her hair made an aureole around her shapely head. It seemed to Stephen that she was forever making delightful pictures, pictures which stirred his blood. The slimness of her white neck, the curve of her cheek fascinated him.

SYNOPSIS:

Cynthia Lambert, demure small-town girl, is visiting her artist-cousin Martha in Chicago, hoping that her luke-warm suitor, Roger Dishman, will grow so lonesome for her that he will finally set the date for their marriage. But she meets Stephen Gear, "the man with the broken heart," whose ill-fated romance with the actress Gloria Gray, has embittered him against all women. Gloria has recently been divorced. Stephen does not know this. He has painted Cynthia's portrait, and intends to enter the picture in the art gallery competition.

"Darling," he said, and she was in his arms again. For an instant she relaxed against him, her finger tips brushed his neck as her head slowly dropped back. Then she drew away gently. Roger's picture sat on the desk and she had looked straight into his serious eyes. Lightly she kissed Stephen's cheek.

"You're so nice, Stephen," she laughed. "Shall we go?" She put on her hat and Stephen watched her with a grim line around his mouth.

As they walked eastward toward the lake he was acutely conscious of her. She wore a powder-blue dress and it made her eyes the color of the lake on a hazy day. Gold glints danced in the gray-blue depths, the pupils were slightly distended with some inner emotion, and velvety black. Her hair curled over the edge of a small hat in the most intriguing manner. She was youth and spring and desire.

Almost to the drive, they came upon a group of small boys partially obscured by a faintly green hedge, and before Stephen realized what was happening Cynthia was upon them like a small fury. One boy fell back at her onslaught and the others stopped in amazement.

One of the boys started to run, but she caught him and wrested from his hands a very small, very black kitten. She looked up at Stephen. Her eyes were dark with anger and compassion. "They were hurting this poor little thing," she explained.

The boys had taken to their heels and Cynthia stood with the kitten in the curve of her arm, patting it gently with her free hand. "There, there, kitty," she crooned. "Cynthia will take care of you." The kitten's frightened green eyes blinked and she clung to Cynthia's sleeve with frantic claws.

They walked again and it was after 4 when he suggested they stop at Baron's for tea. Not that Stephen wanted tea, but the heady excitement of Cynthia's presence made him reluctant to take her home. He had been vastly amused with her chatter, touched by her tenderness for the kitchen—but something else ran like fire in his blood.

They found a table in the corner and Cynthia settled the kitten beside her in the armed chair. She ordered tea and toasted muffins.

"And bring a bowl of warm milk and a raw egg for Steppy," she told the waiter seriously. He immediately became dignified as he glimpsed Steppy. The kitten had been named for Stephen during the afternoon—"I'll call her Steppy so we'll know which is which," Cynthia had said, and Stephen had roared with laughter.

"Pardon me, mademoiselle," said the horrified waiter. "We don't cater to animals."

Stephen was enjoying himself hugely. He waited to see how Cynthia would handle this situation. He had known her long enough to await her remarks with interest.

She smiled at the waiter. "Of course not," she agreed. "I should have known. Will you please bring me a glass of warm milk?" She smiled again and the waiter added milk to the order. "And a raw egg," she added. The waiter's face grew red and he compressed his lips, but he wrote "raw egg" on the card and made a dignified exit.

Stephen's eyes twinkled. "What's the egg for?" he asked.

"It will make Steppy's fur nice and luxurious," she told him.

There was one thing you could say for the lamb, he thought, there was never a dull moment when you were with her.

• • •

AGAINST his will an urgency grew in his heart. The memory of Cynthia in his arms, her shy kiss of refusal, beset him with longing. He did not love Cynthia, he reminded himself—he loved Gloria—but one of these days Cynthia would be gone—back to the poor sap of a Roger, and he would be left with nothing. In vain he told himself that he was being absurd. Longing claimed him, his hands were unsteady, his heart pounded furiously.

Tea was served—also the warm milk and the raw egg. The waiter seemed about to burst with an excess of dignity. He hurriedly turned his back as if he could not endure seeing the restaurant outraged. Calmly Cynthia emptied a silver dish of candy, beat up the egg with a spoon and carefully added the milk with the kitten pushing eagerly against her arm.

"Steppy's hungry—just a minute, little cat—Cynthia knows you're hungry," she kept saying, and Stephen watched her with his heart in his eyes. Placing the silver dish on the floor she gently lifted the kitten down. "There," she said and wiped her fingers on her napkin.

Stephen dawdled with his tea. At last he declared his throat.

"You like being with me, don't you, lamb?" he asked huskily.

Cynthia's lashes swept up in surprise. "Of course," she said, and the one dimple made a deep crevice in her cheek.

"And trust me?"

"Why, Stephen! How funny you talk!"

Stephen picked up a fork and traced a nervous circle around the butter dish.

"You remember the night in Martie's studio, when the gang was razzing you about——love?"

Cynthia nodded.

"Did you really mean what you said? I mean, that any man who got you would have to pay heavily . . .?"

"That was just joking, Stephen," Cynthia said. Then added dutifully: "I'd love Roger even if I had to take in washing to earn enough for food."

"All right. Then what were you about to say?"

"Just this," Stephen leaned across the white table cloth and clasped Cynthia's hands in his. "How would I do? I have money enough, and to spare. I could show you what real love is, make you forget that cold fish sweetheart of Cedar Point."

Cynthia held her breath for a long moment, looking deep into Stephen's eyes. Finally she found words, spoke them in a weak little whisper.

"I'm awfully honored by the proposal, Stephen—if it is a proposal."

It was Stephen's turn to grope for words. And in groping he suddenly probed deep into his own personality. Proposal? Would he be happy married to Cynthia? Could he love her—or anyone—with the memory of Gloria Gray always in his mind . . . ?

"Why, really, lamb——" Inwardly Stephen was cursing his own indecision. In a moment's enthusiasm he had led this child to think he could care for her—that way. Could he? He stared at her hands, captured in his, and saw them slowly withdrawn. Quickly he glanced at her face.

"Proposal, Stephen—or didn't you mean it that way?" He was amazed to see how white her face had grown.

• • •

HE leaned back in his chair, fumbled for a cigarette.

"Let's forget it," he said. He tried to laugh, but his voice croaked somehow.

"No, tell me. Just what did you mean?"

"Why——" He lighted the cigarette, his brow puckered. "Frankly, I don't exactly know myself." And immediately he realized that was the truth; realized, too, that at least a dozen women he knew would have taken only one meaning from what he had said—and rejoiced at the very idea that had outraged Cynthia. She was speaking again.

"I wouldn't like you if you were that sort of man, Stephen," she said. "In Cedar Point men don't ask decent girls questions so open to—to double meaning."

"I didn't intend that——" Stephen was suddenly contrite. "I only meant——"

"What, Stephen?" Cynthia was leaning forward again, willing to believe him.

He recaptured his self-control enough to laugh shakily.

"I guess we'd better forget it." Then, seriously:

"Do you think I'd make an offer like that to you?"

"Oh! No, I guess you wouldn't!" Cynthia wasn't shocked now; she was angry.

She had stood up and was gathering the kitten from the floor.

"You only meant one of two things, Stephen. Either an—an affair, or marriage. I hope you started to propose marriage—and I'll do you a favor by believing you did."

"Well," Stephen began, "then if—"

"But you were suddenly afraid! Afraid you'd be caught, weren't you? You needn't worry, little man!" She cooed at him, but her eyes were blazing. "No big bad girl is going to steal your precious freedom from you. If you think I'd ever throw myself at your head—at any man's head!"

Stephen winced. Instinctively he realized Cynthia had diagnosed him exactly right. But she didn't know—she couldn't know that he could never think seriously of another woman after Gloria Gray.

Cynthia had wriggled into her jacket and, carrying the kitten, was walking toward the door. He dropped a bill on the table and ran after her.

Cynthia's eyes were blinded by tears as they went out into the late afternoon rush of Michigan boulevard. Stephen, angry, humiliated and baffled, strode along at so rapid a pace that it was with difficulty she kept abreast of him. His eyes roved the busy street in search of a taxi. A lumbering bus drew up to the curb and on impulse Cynthia scurried through the rushing pedestrians and mounted the steps. The door slammed and the bus moved into the stream of traffic.

Meanwhile Stephen reached the intersection and before stepping down from the curb glanced around for Cynthia. In consternation he scanned the hurrying crowd. Then his eyes rested on the passing bus. There sat Cynthia, looking straight ahead, her chin in the air.

Stephen swore under his breath. The little fool! Who did she think she was to stand him up like that?

All the time he was striding along toward his home, walking swiftly, putting his feet down hard as if in response to the fury which seethed within him. When he entered his studio he went straight to the picture of Cynthia. Viciously he jerked the cover aside.

He caught a quick breath, seeing the painting with new eyes. While he had talked to Cynthia, thought about her and looked at her he had unconsciously painted all the fascination and allure she had come to mean to him on the canvas.

The eyes, meant to raise the heart of the observer with their sweet, unworldly innocence, were alluring with provocation, the lips tilted up at the corners, the one dimple seemed to come and go. Even the misty purity of the collar accentuated her bewitching enticement.

Stephen stared at his handiwork. Cynthia and her magic lived before his eyes; she had woven her spell around his brush. He looked away. Surely it must be his imagination. Quickly his eyes darted back. The pictured eyes held his; they laughed at him; they promised and at the same time withheld. He dragged his gaze to Gloria above the fireplace. He shivered. She was cold—dead.

Feverishly he tore the entry card bearing the name of the picture into bits, then, with knit brows, picked up his pen. "Temptation?"—no, "Desire?"—no—no. Ah—he had it! Swiftly he wrote, emphatically he signed his name.

The card read, "Come Hither, by Stephen Gear." Snatching his hat from the chair where he had thrown it, he dashed out to the elevator. He must see Cynthia.

SUNFLOWER STREET

By Tom Little and Tom Sims

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

1. —As true as gospel and one of the deepest facts in life. We labor for knowledge, but we live for our feelings—and the sweetest feeling known to mortals comes from the tender gestures, caresses and words of some one whom we love and who loves us. As Louis Stevenson said, "To miss this is to miss all." And as Tennyson said—I quote from memory—all life holds of joy is just our chance of learning love. By the side of this the satisfactions of knowledge and mental activity seem trivial indeed.

2. —P. M. Symonds, psychologist, made a study of the interests of several hundred high school boys and girls in 15 major fields of life from health, sex, safety, money, personal attractiveness, etiquette and getting along with others, up to interest in civics and philosophy. He found that the girls were interested in recreation and health chiefly because it increased their personal attractiveness, and the boys because it developed their bodies in strength, endurance and general physical fitness. Dr. Symonds thinks these differences are mostly due to the different ways boys and girls are reared and not to inborn tendencies.

3. —This question reminds me of the young lady who, during a lull in the dinner conversation, said to Edward Gibbon, the historian of Rome, "Now Mr. Gibbon, I wish you would just tell me about the decline and fall of the Roman Empire." A nation is not very different from a family or a factory or a city after an earthquake or a cyclone—in times of disaster and disruption some leader must take hold and get things done. In such periods it seems a dictator is inevitable—people must give up individual freedom for social and national safety.

Pastures New

By Horton Jacques

"I DIDN'T think there could be so many hills in 300 acres," said Sally Hart, standing in front of the dilapidated farmhouse and gazing back over the route they had just traversed.

"It's kind of rough," admitted Brooks Marshall. "But maybe I can sell it for you."

He spoke without conviction, plucking burrs off his trousers. Sally's canary-colored roadster stood in the driveway and he beamed at it longingly.

She shook her head stubbornly.

"If there's not much chance to sell this place, I'm moving out next week. So I've got to see what sort of shape it's in."

"You're not going to live on a farm!" exclaimed Brooks incredulously. "Aw, Sally, you're fooling."

"Indeed I'm not. I never was more serious in my life."

His expression still indicated a rank disbelief that anyone like Sally would deliberately seek seclusion in the country.

"I've thought things over pretty carefully since father's death," she pointed out. "I haven't a chance of getting a job in town without some experience, and on a farm it would cost very little for living expenses while I'm deciding what to do."

"And what do you think you would eventually do?"

"Study for a teaching position in one of the rural schools, or better yet, work out a method to make this farm pay."

He threw back his head and roared with laughter.

"What's the matter with my idea?"

"You belong in the city, for one thing. All your interests and friends are there. Don't you suppose you could muddle along for a while like the rest of us and see what turns up? There's no disgrace in being broke these days."

"It isn't a question of disgrace. I want to get my feet on the ground. That's the trouble with all of us. We're muddling along as you call it, waiting for something to happen and wondering why it never does. I, for one, am ready to get to work."

As she spoke, Sally's cheeks became flushed with excitement, and Brooks sucked in his breath sharply.

"Gosh, you're lovely!" he said, taking an involuntary step toward her. "Why don't you marry me, Sally? You know I've asked you to dozens of times."

"That's not what I'm talking about," she cried. "Marriage is only dodging the issue. For example, you sell a house or a lot once in a while, or any other kind of cat and dog that happens to turn up, but it isn't making a living by a long ways."

"You're telling me!" he groaned miserably.

"My father was a fairly rich man, and in the normal course of events I should have inherited his money instead of this moth-eaten farm. You would have inherited your family's banking business if things hadn't happened to banks. Don't you see that it's time for us to quit hoping for miracles and start from scratch? That's what I mean. We both belong to that unfortunate class which was educated to preserve money rather than make it."

"You could always marry it," he said, and wished in the next instant he had never let the words slip out.

Without deigning to reply she turned on her heel.

"I didn't expect you to understand," she flung at him over her shoulder. "If you don't mind waiting I'd like to go through the farmhouse once more before we leave."

* * *

"Howdy," he greeted Brooks. "I'm Jed Coats. Live down the road a piece."

He jerked a thumb in the direction from which he had come.

"You folks own this place?"

"Them were the Deerfields. Mighty fine people, I've heard tell."

Jed squinted at Brooks appraisingly before continuing.

"Is she figuring on selling the farm?"

"That was her intention," he replied absently. "To finance a course in business training. Want to buy it?"

"Might."

Brooks suddenly gave serious consideration to the man beside him. He saw a lanky frame supporting a shrewd, leathery face, and enough in Jed's manner to assure him that he spoke in earnest.

"You don't look like you're crazy," he observed. "Do you actually mean you would pay money for this farm if it were for sale?"

"Mister, there ain't a farmer for miles around here that wouldn't be glad to own it. Not after the drouth we had last summer."

"What do you mean?"

"Springs. Don't you know what it's worth to have live springs when everyone else had to haul water clear from the city? There's more danged water on this land than all the rest of the farms in the county put together."

Brooks gazed at the wrinkled hills on Sally's farm with a clearer understanding of their true value, and he wheeled on Jed demanding:

"Just a minute," ordered Brooks. "I've got to talk to Miss Hart."

He started off at a gallop in the direction of the farmhouse. Sally was standing in the doorway, and when he came up to her he could hardly wait to blurt out excitedly:

"See that man down there? He wants to buy this farm, only you're not going to sell."

"I'm not?"

"I'll say you're not! Oh, Sally, darling, let me stay here with you. We'll run the place together, and raise cows and chickens, and—and—kids!"

He held out his arms, and Jed Coates' eyes widened with astonishment.

"Come along, houn' dawg," he said after several moments. "We best be gettin' home."

It Goes Among Memories

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

WE got some tips for this afternoon that are hotter than a comet's tail.

* * *

There's one in the fifth race at Marmalade Park that will brown your biscuits. It's the famous distance runner, Dogmeat, which will go to the post a heavy favorite. The wise money has been on Dogmeat for the last 10 years.

* * *

* * *

They tried to make a jumper out of Dogmeat by putting a bale of hay on the mazzanine floor and ringing a dinner bell day and night. But the punk still waited for the elevator.

* * *

That's the hoss that's carrying your money this afternoon, and it's like sending a baby cannibal to bed without his supper.

* * *

We got another hoss that is just as good as Dogmeat at another track, but why should you put all your eggs in two baskets? Dogmeat is enough hoss for anybody. If he don't win this afternoon, we will let you keep your pari-mutuel tickets after the race is over.
